HOOVER TO ASK STRICTER LAWS ON BANKRUPTCY

Will Transmit Message to Congress Next Week, He Announces.

PLANS SUGGESTIONS BASED ON INQUIRIES

Changes in Criminal Statutes Also Will Be Sought to Expedite Trials.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Extensive overhauling of the Federal codes governing bankruptcy and criminal procedure will be recommended by President Hoover next week in a special message to Congress, the White House announced yesterday.

The message will embody recommendations growing out of two exhaustive investigations conducted by the Department of Justice in these two fields of law during the last eighteen months.

As outlined by the President, his suggestions for modernization of the bankruptcy statutes will be designed generally to check the growing abuse of existing law by irresponsible debtors, and to facilitate more effective control over liquidation processes, with a view to eliminating exploitation and waste.

Would Eliminate Technicalities.

In relation to criminal procedure, the message will recommend elimination of that whole range of courtroom technicalities which long have been recognized by the legal profession as the weakest link in the Federal criminal code. In this connection the President alluded specifically to waivers of indictment in pleas of guilty, and to needless technicalities in the construction of grand juries. The message also will recommend additional judges to relieve congestion in the Federal dockets. Subsidiary recommendations will be offered looking toward the clarification of the "diversity of citizenship" rules of the United States courts.

Reform of the Federal criminal code has been urged by the American Bar Association and similar professional bodies for more than a decade. The problem was one of the major fields explored by the Wickersham Commission on Law Observance. The principal objective of the changes contemplated by President Hoover will be "to expedite criminal trials and appeals and thus add a deterrent to crime by diminishing technicalities of which convicted persons can take advantage to produce long delays."

Previous Appeals Unavailing.

Numerous previous recommendations to Congress on this point, principally for the Department of Justice, have been unavailing.

As presented in the last annual report of Attorney General Mitchell, condition of the court dockets today demands that "practice and procedure in criminal cases in the United States district courts and the United States circuit courts of appeal, having to do with the proceedings after verdicts of guilty, should be thoroughly overhauled.

"The present system permits inexcusable delays and unnecessary expense. There are cases now pending in the Federal courts where years have elapsed since the verdicts of guilty without the cases having been finally reached and disposed of in the circuit courts of appeal. With the granting of stay of execution of the sentence and of bail the convict loses all incentive to expedite his appeal. * * * Convictions lose their effect as a deterrent to crime if months and years elapse after verdicts of guilty, during which the convicts remain at large pending appeal."

If the President follows the recommendations presented to him by the various investigating commis-

Akron's Building Will Be Approved

House Naval Body Finds No Defects in Work or Materials.

(Associated Press.)

Representative McClintic (Democrat), Oklahoma, said yesterday the naval affairs subcommittee he heads will draft a report shortly saying the airship Akron contained no faulty workmanship or materials when she left the ground.

Mr. McClintic said he had told Chairman Vinson of the naval committee that he was "willing to make a report that the charges about poor materials and workmanship were untrue."

"The evidence we got showed there were some 6,000 changes made in the Akron, but all the first-hand testimony we got tended to show no defects were left in," he added.

Walcott to Expose Identity of Bears After Fresh Raids

Administration's Patience With Activities of Wall Street Short Sellers Is Exhausted, Senate Investigator Says on Leaving White House Parley; Traders Are Silent.

(Associated Press.)

Aroused by renewed bear raids on the stock exchange, the administration gave the word yesterday to the Senate banking committee to show to the country just who was behind the repeated movements to knock down security prices.

"We have the names," gruffly announced Senator Walcott (Republican), Connecticut, as he left the White House yesterday. "We are going to let the country know just who are these big professional raiders who have been deliberately taking the bloom off of every constructive enterprise for the last year."

The banking committee was called into session for today, at which time it was indicated a list of names of big-time speculators on Wall street would be submitted for subpena.

The last drop in security prices following the rise occasioned by favorable action on the Glass-Steagall credit bill was the straw that apparently broke the patience of President Hoover and congressional leaders.

"We have lost patience," asserted Senator Walcott. "We have given warning after warning, but despite some promises these speculators go right back to work, profiting by distress. I and others have hoped legislation would not be necessary, but it can't be stalled off much longer."

During the day spokesmen for the grain exchanges, millers and traders united before the House agriculture committee yesterday in opposition to any restriction on short selling in commodity futures.

Peter Carey, President of the Chicago Board of Trade and principal witness, said that if proposed legislation empowering the Secretary of Agriculture to stop short selling were enacted, "you might just as well close the grain markets of the country."

"How would you correct abuses?" asked Chairman Jones.

"I don't recognize that there have been any abuses," Mr. Carey replied.

Senators Hastings, of Delaware, and Capper, of Kansas, both administration Republicans, have measures pending for a curb on short selling operations. They will go before the Senate committee today as the first witnesses. Each is demanding an investigation of the whole network of stock market operations of the last year or two.

"The public is under the impression," said Senator Hastings, "that great injustice is resulting from

BANK CREDITS BILL SENT TO PRESIDENT

Executive to Sign Measure Today; $1,000,000,000 Made Available.

(Associated Press.)

Congress sent the Glass-Steagall credit expansion bill to the White House yesterday and President Hoover announced he would sign it today with comment.

The measure opens the vast resources of the Federal Reserve to new credit for the banks and the depositors, and makes available almost a billion dollars in gold for national use and security. It bears the hopes of congressional leaders of both parties for a revival of confidence and the promise of the administration that it will keep America on the upward swing economically.

Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, who sponsored the legislation, put it through the last step of its record-breaking congressional run yesterday with a brief explanation to the Senate of the agreement adjusting differences between the Senate and House.

The Senate gave formal approval without a word of debate and without a roll call. Its action followed affirmation by the House, where Representative Steagall (Democrat), Alabama, guided the legislation.

Announcing later at the White House that he would have a state-

Betrothal of Daughter Of Alfonso Is Learned

Paris, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The Infanta Beatrice, eldest daughter of the former King of Spain, is to be married to Prince Alvaro, eldest son of Prince Alfonso d'Orleans, it was learned today on good authority.

It will be a private ceremony at Fontainbleau with only the parents as witnesses. The former king has given his consent to the marriage.

HEAVY EXCISE TAXES PLAN IS ABANDONED

House Group Announces 2 Per Cent Industry Levy Instead.

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury's recommendations for heavy excise taxes on a few big industries for the new revenue bill have been abandoned by the House ways and means committee.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, announced yesterday that a 2 per cent manufacturers' sales tax would be adopted in preference to a 5 per cent tax on automobiles, radios and phonographs. These industries are to be included in the sales tax provisions being drafted by Mr. Rainey's subcommittee.

In that connection, the Democratic leader said the sales tax bill would be broad and that there would be few industries exempted. Among those excepted, he noted, were raw foodstuffs, fertilizer and seeds and other necessities. However, he explained, processed foodstuffs in many forms would bear the tax, along with foods classed as luxuries.

"The tax bill we are drafting will be the simplest ever presented," Rainey said. "We expect to raise $600,000,000 through the sales tax, and

Naming of Thad Brown Upheld by Committee

(Associated Press.)

The nomination of Thad Brown, of Ohio, as a member of the Radio Commission was approved yesterday by the Senate interstate commerce committee, on a 10 to 1 vote, with only Chairman Couzens opposing.

Couzens charged that Brown had exceeded his authority as general counsel of the Radio Commission and used pressure to get cases decided the way he wanted.

Several Rivals Seek Post Now Held by Judge Sellers

Juvenile Court Jurist, on Bench Since 1918, Opposed for Reappointment by Three Women and Two Men; May Get Another Place.

The judicial mantle of Judge Kathryn Sellers, of the Juvenile Court, whose term expired March 2, 1931, may be transferred to the shoulders of one of the several nominees who have been proposed to the Department of Justice for consideration as her successor.

Though it is by no means certain that the veteran woman judge will not be reappointed, there has been much activity in the past few weeks on the part of individuals and organizations, who have advanced the names of their favored candidates for her position. No recommendations will be sent to the White House for at least a month, it was indicated at the Justice Department.

To date the names of three women, all prominent in the District, have been sent to the Department of Justice, with recommendations of their ability. The names of two men have also been advanced, although no man has held the judgship in thirteen years, Judge Sellers having broken the succession of male judges.

Indorsements of the following have been received at the Justice Department: M. Pearl McCall, assistant U. S. district attorney; Fay L. Bentley, in charge of attendance of the District Public Schools, and Etta L. Taggart, lawyer. The men proposed are: Assistant Corporation Counsel T. Gillespie Walsh, and James E. Stewart, of Cincinnati, who was formerly connected here with the Board of Public Welfare.

Judge Sellers is now recuperating at

BALL RESIGNS; JESSE FAILS TO GET HUGE BOND

Arlington County Is Left Temporarily Minus Treasurer.

BUSINESS OF OFFICE NOW AT STANDSTILL

Tax Tenders Rejected Until Successor Gets Security of $400,000.

Arlington County was without a treasurer last night as developments came rapidly in the investigation of the alleged $275,000 shortage in the accounts of that office.

E. Wade Ball, who had held the post for 24 years, resigned yesterday at the request of his bonding company, the Fidelity & Deposit Co., of Baltimore. Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of Circuit Court, immediately accepted the resignation and appointed Charles T. Jesse, business man and lawyer, to fill the vacant position.

Mr. Jesse accepted the post and launched efforts to secure the bond of $400,000 set by the court—$100,000 more than the amount for which Ball had been bonded. However, it will probably be Monday before arrangements for bond can be completed and Mr. Jesse will be in a position to qualify before the Circuit Court.

Tax Tenders Rejected.

In the meantime the business of the treasurer's office was at a standstill, except for the labor of the State auditors at work on Ball's accounts. Several persons who called to pay taxes were refused by clerks in the office on the ground that they did not know whose name could be officially signed to the tax receipts.

Ball's resignation came suddenly yesterday and was entirely unexpected. Thursday, he had denied that he would quit his post before the State accountants had completed work on the books of the his office. The resignation was presented to the court by his brother, Frank L. Ball, former State senator, and his attorney. It was short and read as follows:

"I hereby tender my resignation as county treasurer of Arlington County. This resignation is tendered at the request of my bondsman, the Fidelity & Deposit Co., of Baltimore, Md., in the interest and stabilization of the credit of the county. It is my desire and wish that my personal interests should always be subservient to the public good."

Ball's Last Official Act.

Ball performed the last official act in his cycle of almost a quarter of a century in office shortly afterward. He turned over to Willam H. Duncan, clerk of the county court, all of the current tax receipts and records that had not been taken by the State auditors.

Under order of Judge McCarthy Mr. Duncan will have charge of the Airplane Hits Wire; Passengers Unhurt

Washington-to-Cleveland Craft Landed Safely After Mishap.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—A Pennsylvania Airlines plane plunged through a high tension line tonight, but landed safely with its three passengers and mail on Bettis Field. The ship, a tri-motor, bound for Cleveland from Washington, was in charge of Pilot H. L. Smith. Its wing fabric was slightly torn.

There was a brilliant flash that could be seen for miles as the plane ripped through the wires, then the district was plunged into darkness. Smith said his ship lurched with the impact, but he had little difficulty righting it.

The mail was placed aboard another plane. The passengers, somewhat shaken up, continued their journey by rail.

Historic Gunston Hall Gift To State as Mason Shrine

Historic Gunston Hall, home of George Mason, author of the Virginia Bill of Rights, on the Potomac River, about 2 miles south of Mount Vernon estate, in Fairfax County, Va., was deeded to the State of Virginia yesterday as a perpetual memorial to Mason and to the principles of government for which he stood.

The colonial mansion and estate of approximately 555 acres were given to the State by its owner, Louis Hertle, capitalist, formerly of Chicago, who purchased the property in 1912 and has made his home there since. Mr. Hertle retains a life interest in the estate according to the announcement made yesterday by Gov. Pollard of Virginia. The acceptance of the estate by the State has been proposed in a resolution introduced in the State Assembly by Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, delegate from Fairfax County.

The house was erected by George Mason many years before the Revolutionary War and is constructed of

JAPANESE BOMBERS AVENGE LOSSES IN CHINESE ADVANCE; MOSCOW PROTESTS TO TOKYO

Explanation on Plots in Manchuria Wanted by Soviet.

RED ARMY DECLARED PREPARED FOR WAR

Held Ready to Strike at Any Time That Its Territory Is Imperiled.

Tokyo (Saturday), Feb. 27 (A.P.).—A foreign office spokesman said today that instead of encouraging the activities of White (anti-Soviet) Russians in Manchuria, the Japanese command there regarded those activities a nuisance.

Moscow, Feb. 26 (U.P.). — Soviet Russia took a firmer and more militant attitude today toward Japanese and White Russian (anti-Bolshevik) military activities in the Far East.

The government officially expressed sharp dissatisfaction with Japanese plans affecting the Soviet-Manchurian frontier and with the alleged Japanese support of White Russian plots to attack Siberia. The Soviets formally demanded Japanese explanations.

Amid feverish cheers at Khabarovsk, Gen. Vassily Bluecher, the famous military leader, declared that the Red army was ready at any moment to strike with all its force at any one "who dares stretch dirty hands" toward Soviet soil. Gen. Bluecher is commander in chief of the special Far Eastern army, which is stronger than ever before along the Manchurian frontier.

Press Issues Warnings.

Red army garrisons in the Far East declared their readiness to fight and even in Moscow mass meetings of Communist youths shouted their willingness to shoulder rifles.

The Moscow press, which had been even more silent than the government during the recent Manchurian developments, suddenly began issuing vigorous warnings to "certain Japanese circles" to curb their appetites for Soviet territory.

In discussing the situation with Japanese Ambassador Koki Hirota, the Russian Assistant Foreign Commissar Leo Karakhan demanded explanation of the following reports:

1. That the Japanese command at Harbin asked for seventeen echelons to transport Japanese troops to Imienpo and Pogranichnaya, which is on the border of Siberia, for the purpose of fighting Chinese irregulars. This request, Karakhan said, involves a frontier city and differs from previous Japanese troop movements. It also raises a political problem with which the railroad officials are not competent to deal.

White Russians' Activities.

2. That the Japanese command proposed an agreement to reduce fares on the Chinese Eastern for soldiers by 50 per cent. They also proposed

Pershing Enters Hospital for Cold

Condition Not Considered Serious, War Department Leaders Say.

(Associated Press.)

Gen. John J. Pershing entered Walter Reed General Hospital yesterday for treatment of a cold. The general complained several days ago to friends that he was "not feeling very well" and entered the Army hospital when a cold developed. He is under the care of Maj. O. H. Quade, formerly of Fitzsimmons General Hospital, Denver.

It was said informally at the War Department the general was not confined to bed and his condition was not considered serious.

Secretary Hurley and high Army officers kept in close touch with the general's condition, but their interest was officially described as "more of solicitude than alarm."

U. S. Not to Take Part If Japan Is Boycotted

Four Powers Call on Japan to Protect Neutral Zone

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Tokyo, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Four great powers called on the Japanese government today to avoid landing any further forces in the International Settlement at Shanghai and to move Japanese warships out of the Whangpoo River off the Shanghai settlement.

The requests were in the form of memoranda and, avoiding the larger issues, were presented by the Ambassadors of the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy. They were not protests officially.

Although the memoranda were not identical, it was understood that they all expressed appreciation for the efforts of the Japanese command to keep the fighting zone outside the settlement and hoped it would continue to do so.

The request asked that if Japan sent any more troops to Shanghai that she disembark them outside the Nation Will Continue to Use Good Offices for Peace

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The United States will not participate in any economic blockade of Japan either at the request of individuals or on the recommendation of the assembly of the League of Nations, it became known here last night from the most authoritative sources. The American policy with regard to all future diplomatic measures in the Orient has been announced by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson in his open letter to Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee. Within the limits of this policy the United States will continue to exercise its good offices to bring peace to China and Japan.

The forthcoming meeting of the assembly of the league scheduled for next Wednesday at Geneva is expected to bring out the long delayed

HURLEY HITS RASKOB ON HOOVER DRY VIEW

Replies to Democrat Who Said President Would Run as "Wet."

(Associated Press.)

The preconvention presidential races took a new turn yesterday with President Hoover's prohibition and economic views the nub of spirited debate.

First, Secretary Hurley took John J. Raskob to task for saying he had apparently authentic information that Mr. Hoover would run on a prohibition referendum platform if the Republican party adopted one.

Then Speaker Garner, who is being boomed for the Democratic presidential nomination, lashed out at the President in a press conference, asserting he had "led us into the greatest panic the country or world has ever known."

White House officials declined to comment on the Raskob statement, made in an address Thursday night in New York.

Neither would administration lead-

Webb Again to Seek Farmer-Labor Vote

Omaha, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Col. Frank Elbridge Webb, of San Francisco, Farmer-Labor candidate for President in 1928, today announced he would again seek his party's nomination in the 1932 campaign. The Farmer-Labor candidate will be selected at a national convention here April 26. Col. Webb today predicted that his colleagues would occupy 100 seats in the next Congress.

"From knowledge gleaned in Washington," Col. Webb continued, "I anticipate that along about August or September Herbert Hoover will take a decided change of front on prohibition. And it is strongly rumored that he will favor a referendum." Webb favors a referendum.

HITLERITES 'STRIKE' ON REICHSTAG LOSS

Call Meeting 'Monkey Show' After Bruening Is Voted Confidence Thrice.

Berlin, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Three times in quick succession the Reichstag voted confidence in the Bruening government today, then defeated three opposition motions regarding procedure, whereupon the National Socialists called the meeting a "monkey show" and walked out.

The chancellor expected a margin of 15 votes against a motion of nonconfidence in the entire cabinet. He got 25.

There followed a motion of nonconfidence in Wilhelm Groener, minister of defense and interior. It was defeated, 305 to 250.

The came a similar motion against Hermann Dietrich, the finance minister, and the Reichstag turned it down by 291 to 250.

The Nationalists moved to dissolve the Reichstag and were defeated by 71 votes.

Adolf Hitler's National Socialists lost by a wide margin on a motion to suspend the chancellor's emergency decrees for the duration of the presidential campaign, and the Communists lost by a vote of 368 to 75 on a proposal to "stop all payment of tribute based on the Versailles Treaty and annul all private debts to capitalistic countries."

That overwhelming margin did not mean what it appears to mean at first glance, for after the vote the National Socialists, the Nationalists and the Populists said that if the motion had been separated they would have approved that part which advocated abolition of reparations.

Thus the chancellor consolidated his position, at least until March 13, when the people vote for a president.

Adolf Hitler, who heretofore has been ineligible for the office because

7 Killed and 4 Homes Razed In Northwestern Landslide

Avalanche of Mud and Rocks From Mount Washington Carries Bodies of Women and Children Nearly One Mile Down Canyon.

North Bend, Wash., Feb. 26 (U.P.). An avalanche of mud and rocks swept down the sides of Mount Washington, six miles from here, late today, killed seven persons and demolished four homes.

The victims were Mrs. William Blades and her two children; Mrs. Gus Blader, R. A. Moore, Mrs. R. I. Moore and Mrs. Elwood Claggett. The houses and bodies were swept for nearly a mile down Boxley Canyon, according to W. M. Blake, of Snoqualmie, who was at the scene

"It was awful," he said. "The melting snow loosened a huge section of the mountain which swept down across the railroad tracks and onto the homes. We found the bodies of Mrs. Claggett and R. A. Moore half a mile below their homes."

The deaths of the seven persons brought the total to thirteen, who have been killed in avalanches and floods in Washington during the past 48 hours. Winds and warm rain loosened heavy banks of snow, swelled creeks to torrents and menaced many sections of the State.

A log jam in a canyon 3 miles from Issaquah collapsed from the pressure of flood waters and killed two when a two-story house was smashed to pieces. George Johnson, 50, and his son, Gosta, 10, were killed.

Rescuers found the body of Mr. Johnson. Clasped in his arms, only slightly injured, was his daughter, Hazel, 5. Mr. Johnson's wife escaped from the house as it was demolished.

Army and Navy Planes Join in Assault on Woosung Forts.

FIGHTING SUSPENDED ON SHANGHAI FRONT

Nipponese Driven Back After Threat to Bottle Up Enemy Defenses.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Shanghai (Saturday), Feb. 27.—The Japanese army and navy air fleets combined forces this morning for a fierce bombing attack on the Chinese forts at Woosung.

In addition to dropping numerous bombs on the forts at the mouth of the Whangpoo River, the planes flew to the northwest along the south bank of the Yangtse, where they loosed explosives on Chinese defense works.

Meanwhile an unfamiliar hush had settled on the other end of the battle line. The whole Shanghai front was quiet after the Chinese succeeded in thwarting the Japanese attempt to bottle up the strategic center of the line at Kiangwan.

Shanghai Battle Front Quiet.

Shortly before daylight Japanese batteries in Chapei started a heavy shelling of the Chinese positions in Hongkew. But this burst of activity lasted only a brief period and drew only a desultory reply from the Chinese guns.

Then the whole battle front became quiet. Freed for a few hours from the menace of shrapnel and bullets, the soldiers—both Chinese and Japanese—suffered in bitter cold as a biting wind swept over the battlefield.

Shanghai residents, accustomed to the thunder of commonading almost every hour of the day, didn't know what to make of it.

At 7:30 a. m. the Japanese broke the quiet for a short but severe bombardment on the Kiangwan front, and then settled back to inactivity.

Waiting Fresh Troops.

One possibility was that the Japanese were determined to sacrifice no more men until their reinforcements arrive. The North China Daily News reported that new units would get here today. The Eleventh Division would be the first to land, the newspaper said, and would be followed shortly by the fourteenth.

Three additional divisions are being mobilized in Japan, the Daily News reported, and soon the Japanese forces here will constitute the largest foreign army ever to set foot on Chinese soil.

Commenting on widespread reports that heavy reinforcements were nearby, an official Japanese spokesman said it would be "two or three days before they arrive."

Japanese Driven Back.

The short and fierce Chinese offensive halted the westward kink the Japanese were putting into the front line somewhat north and west of Kiangwan, and relieved the bottle neck around that mud-walled village.

The Japanese advanced last night against terrific machine-gun fire and almost completely surrounded Kiangwan for the express purpose of bottling up the Chinese and starving them out.

The situation was admittedly desperate for the Nineteenth Route Army at midnight and it soon resorted to a lunge in the darkness to keep open the supply lines for the sturdy defenders of Kiangwan. The Chinese held Kiangwan and in addition took Miaochungchen.

Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai admitted he could not claim any great gain, but

U.S. TO DISCONTINUE NOTES TO FAR EAST

Arrangements Made to Take Foreigners From Shanghai if Attack Occurs.

(Associated Press.)

There will be no more note writing by the American Government for the present, at least, to China and Japan, Secretary Stimson believing the administration's position needs no further exposition.

After a protracted conference with President Hoover at the end of a day of closely watching developments in the Orient, the Secretary of State declared indirectly he felt there could be no doubt of this country's attitude. He issued a detailed summary of policy Wednesday in a letter to Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee.

As Mr. Stimson left the White House he told newspapermen that his conference with the Chief Executive had centered upon the situation at Shanghai. Almost invariably in the past he has been silent upon leaving the Executive Mansion. Asked if the Government would send further notes to Japan, he replied:

"No, no; I don't think you need to stay awake at night worrying about that."

Evacuation Is Arranged.

If evacuation of foreigners from Shanghai becomes necessary, it will be effected through one general organization, under the direction of the entire foreign consular body.

Edwin S. Cunningham, United States Consul General at the embattled Chinese city, advised the State Department yesterday a general plan has been worked out to avoid the confusion which might result if each of the interested nations tried to handle its nationals separately.

The municipal council, which is an international body governing the International Settlement, and the French consul general, representing the French concession, cooperated in devising a scheme for the orderly assemblage of foreigners at given points in case of an emergency. All relief organizations have been coordinated, and will cooperate under the direction of the foreign consular body.

3,500 Americans in Shanghai.

There are about 3,500 American civilians in Shanghai. It previously was reported Manila was the point to which they probably would go in case of an emergency.

Fighting has spread so generally along the railways leading into Shanghai, and interior China is so disturbed, that evacuation by rail is out of the question.

Official Washington's attention was diverted somewhat yesterday from Shanghai to Manchuria by Moscow press dispatches saying Soviet Russia has become uneasy about fighting between Japanese and Chinese along the Chinese Eastern Railway between Harbin and Vladivostok, and is concerned over the activities of White Russians in that section.

Two Wars Over Railway.

Two major wars already have been fought over the Chinese Eastern Railway, and disputes centering about it always are watched with great interest by the State Department as well as the Army and Navy.

New representations made at Tokyo yesterday by the British, French, Italian and American Ambassadors caused considerable comment when it became known the United States acted with the other powers at the direct request of Sir John Simon, the British minister of foreign affairs.

This cooperation of the United States and Great Britain was regarded by officials as an indication there is little foundation for rumors that Great Britain is giving lukewarm support to American policy in China.

Four Powers Make Demand.

In yesterday's representations the four powers urged Japan not to land more troops in the International Settlement at Shanghai, and to withdraw its flagship from the Hangkew section of the International Settlement, that Chinese gunfire may not be directed where it endangers the lives of foreigners.

In the House, Representative Black (Democrat), of New York, urged a nine-power conference, meeting contemporaneously with the March 3 meeting of the League of Nations. Mr. Black said:

"In October the plain course for Mr. Stimson, representing the country responsible for the nine-power treaty, was to have called the signers of the same to Washington. This would have checked Japan, but now Japan has obtained vast territory at a terrible cost in blood."

Hoover Is Commended By New York G. O. P.

New York, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Eleven delegates-at-large from New York State to the Republican convention and eleven alternates were elected today by the Republican State committee. A resolution introduced by Representative Bertram Snell, indorsing the Hoover administration and commending it for "plans to reconstruct and revitalize the Nation's financial and economic structure," was adopted.

Arrangements will be made for Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Mills to go to the national convention as district delegates, it was announced.

Britain Again Gets Air Speed Award

(Associated Press.)

Great Britain yesterday was retendered custody of the L. S. Thompson Trophy for the world's greatest speed in the air.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, accepted the award from Senator Hiram Bingham, Connecticut, president of the National Aeronautic Association, in recognition of the speed record of 406.997 miles an hour, set last September by Flight Lieut. G. H. Stainforth. A small model was given to become the permanent possession of the flier.

Donors of the award are 30 American Naval Reserve aviators, most of whom served with the so-called Yale unit, organized at the outbreak of the war with Germany. Members of the unit included F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics, who was present at the ceremony. The trophy was named in honor of Lewis S. Thompson, Red Bank, N. J.

U. S. Pay Rolls Again Made Target in Congress Attack

Proposed Ban on Salary Increases Praised in House as Special Economy Group Begins Hearings on Consolidation of Federal Bureaus.

Federal pay rolls served as target for another pointed attack in Congress yesterday as the House economy machine got under way on two fronts.

Representative John R. Mitchell, Tennessee colleague of Appropriations Chairman Byrns, launched the attack on Government pay. Eulogizing Byrns for his ban on salary increases, he urged Congress to go further in pay roll reduction.

While he was speaking, the House special economy committee of seven members, was holding initial hearings on Government reorganization, with Rear Admiral T. T. Craven, chief Navy coordinator, on the witness stand.

Hits Needless Offices.

The issue, so far as Army and Navy is concerned, will be met more directly this morning, when another effort is made to report the Byrns bill for one Department of National Defense out of the House expenditures committee.

Representative Mitchell, in his speech late yesterday, declared "there are too many needless offices and too many needless officers" in the Federal service.

He had nothing but praise for Chairman Byrns and his economy machine, which he predicted was going to "save the taxpayers many millions of dollars."

Mitchell turned in violence on the Government's local building program, criticizing in particular the practice of dismantling old structures which are habitable to make way for new. Destruction of "whole blocks of buildings here in Washington," he denounced as "criminal waste."

Charges Extravagance.

New buildings will be erected on the sites of these, he said. When they are completed, "they will be filled with thousands of employes on the Federal pay roll, whose salaries must be paid by the already overburdened taxpayers."

Estimating the number of Federal workers at 600,000, he charged the administration with "extravagance in cost of government, and excessive personnel" at a time when the country is faced with business "disaster."

"There must be reductions in Federal expenses to relieve a debt-ridden and tax-burdened people," he said. "Therefore there must be cuts in Federal salaries."

The ban on automatic promotions in the postal field service, embodied in the Postoffice appropriations bill reported this week, yesterday aroused the ire of Thomas F. Flaherty, secretary treasurer of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks.

Prospective Loss Stressed.

Flaherty said there are 11,500 postoffice clerks, city carriers and laborers in the automatic salary grades, now drawing $2,000 or less a year, who will lose an aggregate of $1,000,000 by the rule.

"This is expensive economy," he said. "These men have worked for years at low wages and are now to be denied earned promotions because of the need for cutting appropriations. Yet it is significant that the committee increased the subsidies for foreign mail transportation in excess of $1,000,000. Thus we find $1,000,000 diverted from the earnings of 11,000 postal workers into the coffers of a few corporations for subsidies of exceedingly doubtful value."

Any reorganization program worked out by the special economy committee, which opened hearings yesterday, must be put into effect through the House committee on expenditures in Government departments, one member of the special group said yesterday.

Two Projects Taken Up.

Two consolidation projects already have been taken up by the expenditures group—the department of national defense bill, and a bill to combine all Government building operations under one department, an "Administration of Public Works."

Chairman Cochran hopes to get a favorable vote on his Army-Navy consolidation bill at today's meeting. Using the bill introduced by Representative Byrns as a base, an expenditures subcommittee has redrafted the measure, incorporating some features in the bill put forward by Representative William Williamson (Republican), South Dakota.

Representative Williamson said last night he would support the revised measure this morning, even though it fails to provide for the separate air service he proposed in his bill.

invocation of article 16 of the league covenant. This article provides that "Should any member of the league resort to war in disregard of its covenants * * * it shall ipso facto be deemed to have committed an act of war against all other members, which hereby undertake immediately to subject it to the severance of all trade or financial relations, and the prohibition of all intercourse between their nationals."

The most specific instructions have been sent to American Minister Hugh Wilson, American liaison officer between the United States and the league at Geneva, to scrupulously avoid all participation either direct or indirect in the assembly's deliberations.

U. S. Participation Sought.

It became known here that league agents in Washington have been hinting broadly of the desirability, even the necessity of some measure of American participation in the forthcoming assembly meeting. The State Department and the President himself feel very strongly that the United States should not take to itself the role of judge in any international difficulty involving two friendly nations. When the situation is as critical as the present one in the Orient with grave dangers of a rapid contagion of the war fever spreading outside Asia, the American attitude for thoroughgoing neutrality is not only expedient but exigent.

Up to the present time no official invitation has been received for American participation at the assembly meeting on Wednesday. It had been the intention of the organizers of the meeting, chiefly representative of the smaller nationalities and the French and British delegations who so largely dominate the affairs of the league, to invite the United States, Turkey and Russia, the chief nonmember league nations, to participate at the assembly plenary session. Well-founded reports had reached here that France and Great Britain would condition their acceptance of the boycott proposal on American participation in the move. In the event that the United States remained aloof from the league recommendation, the failure of the proposal while openly deplored by London and Paris would have been secretly approved, especially since the onus of blame could have been placed upon this Government.

The United States intends to forestall any implications of this character by basing all its future policy in the Chinese-Japanese situation upon the tenets of the Stimson letter. If the league assembly, however, intends to invoke Article 16 in all its ramifications the American position will still remain unchanged.

Efficacy of Article Doubted.

The provisions of Article 16, which provide for compulsory boycott of a covenant-breaking state by all nations, whether members of the league or not, are regarded as mere brutum fulmen in authoritative circles. The United States does not believe the assembly is prepared to attempt to "subject" the United States to acceptance of a boycott decree, and the decree would be ignored by the United States if it should be issued.

The delay from London and Paris in replying to the suggestion contained in Secretary Stimson's letter for cooperative action is attributed to the anxiety of the British and French for American participation at the Geneva meeting. Secretary Stimson had declared in reviewing his own action of January 7 when he first announced the open-door policy and the determination of the United States to refuse to recognize any situation resulting from violation of the nine-power treaty:

"If a similiar decision should be reached and a similar position taken by the other governments of the world, a caveat will be placed upon such action, which, we believe, will effectively bar the legality hereafter of any title or right sought to be retained by pressure or treaty violation and which, as has been shown by history in the past, will eventually lead to the restoration to China of rights and titles of which she may have been deprived."

Japan Fears Boycott.

London, Feb. 26 (U.P.).—Japanese authorities are gravely concerned with the possibility that Japan will be isolated in the Shanghai conflict, the Daily Express correspondent at Tokyo reported tonight.

The Japanese are much more worried than previously, the dispatch said. They believe there is grave danger of an anti-Japanese boycott in the United States; in the difficult financial situation in Japan; in the concerted protests of the great powers; and in the difficulties faced by the Japanese soldiers in Shanghai, where the Chinese defenders are reported trained by German military experts.

It was reported that Gen. Ludendorff, head of the German imperial army, has been invited to take supreme command of the Chinese army and reorganize it on a scientific basis.

The dispatch said a report that Mrs. Hoover had refused to wear a silk dress at a White House reception, choosing a cotton one instead, caused resentment in Japan, where it was interpreted as encouraging the anti-Japanese boycott proposals. The report amused Americans in Japan, who pointed out such an interpretation was ridiculous.

View on Stimson Stand.

While government sources were silent tonight, there was a growing impression in well informed British sources that the declaration of United States Secretary Stimson in the Shanghai conflict would serve a dual purpose:

1. It is a valuable indication of the United States' viewpoint as a guide for the forthcoming general assembly meeting of the League of Nations.

2. It is believed certain to impress the calmer section of Japanese public opinion that Japan is morally isolated in the present conflict.

The Manchester Guardian said:

"Unlike other powers, the United States policy in the Far East has been consistent from the beginning. * * * Mr. Stimson lucidly points out that as far as the United States is concerned she will, under no circumstances, recognize any teritorial or other readjustments in China as a result of Japanese aggression.

Sees Opportunity Lost.

"Such an attitude ought to be created on a firm basis between the United States and the league. Unhappily, as far as can be seen, the league council is taking virtually no advantage of this almost unique opportunity."

Paris, Feb. 26 (U.P.).—The newspaper Journal tomorrow will express approval of United States Secretary Stimson's declaration in connection with the Shanghai warfare.

"Mr. Stimson's purpose is entirely clear and his intentions extremely laudable," the editorial will say. "The necessity of observing treaties sounds agreeably in our ears at a moment when certain European powers are impudently threatening to repudiate compacts they freely signed."

Geneva, Feb. 26 (U.P.).—The League of Nations council is drafting a strongly worded reply to Japan's latest note regarding the Shanghai warfare.

Delivery of the communication depends upon developments in the next few days, but it was learned that the present draft firmly answers Japanese objections point for point.

4 IN CABINET HELD BLOCKING ECONOMY

Bureau Merger Backer in House Attacks Mills, Hyde Hurley and Wilbur.

(Associated Press.)

A House Democrat attempting to reorganize and consolidate Government agencies yesterday charged four Cabinet members were "obstructionists" in the move to reduce Federal expenses.

The chairman of the House expenditures committee — Representative Cochran, of Missouri—enumerated these Cabinet officers as Secretaries Mills, Hurley, Hyde and Wilbur.

Mills, Cochran said off the floor, declined to express a detailed opinion on the merit of a bill to abolish the Bureau of Efficiency because of President Hoover's message suggesting the power to reorganize be given to the Chief Executive.

The Treasury Secretary wrote to Cochran that he thought the reorganization "should be effected through the medium of an executive order." That would be a "more orderly procedure," Mills said.

Reply to Mills.

Cochrane replied yesterday with a letter that if Mills is adopting the policy of declining to discuss such measures because of the President's message, "it will be unnecessary for the committee to send any communications to your department asking for comment in the future."

The Missouri Democrat once more charged Hurley with having "refused" to appear before the committee Thursday on the public works bills. He said his letter of invitation read this way:

"The committee directed the chairman to invite the Secretary of War to be present and make a statement or to designate a representative of the department whom he wishes to be heard."

"If that isn't an invitation, what is it?"

Quotes From Hurley's Answer.

Quoting from Hurley's answer to that letter, holding he thought it "unnecessary" to make any further "statement" other than that he disapproved of some portions of the bills and thought President Hoover's plan superior, Cochrane said:

"If that is not a refusal to testify, what is it?"

Cochran did not discuss Hurley's offer to send up any witness the committee specifically asked.

"My letter to Hurley was the usual form of an invitation to a Cabinet member," Cochran asserted. "We certainly thought it was an invitation, anyhow."

Later, on the floor of the House, he added: "It was not a demand; it was a proper request. I hesitate to say what his reply would have been had I demanded his presence."

Charge on Wilbur.

Cochran asserted Wilbur had attempted to "obstruct" the Democratic efforts to reduce expenditures by issuing a statement objecting to a cut in the appropriation bill for the Interior Department. Hyde, he added, went before a Senate committee and opposed a provision in the agricultural appropriation bill which would prevent salary increases and the filling of vacant positions.

Secretary Hurley yesterday directed Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of Army Engineers, to appear before the House expenditures committee Tuesday to testify on bills to create an administration of public works.

Gen. Brown is in direct charge of a large part of the Government's public works programs.

Hurley in announcing his compliance with the committee's request, said all information at the disposal of the War Department was available to the committee and that any witnesses it might wish to hear, including himself, would testify.

China Offered Services By Former Lady Heath

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Mr. and Mrs. George Anthony Reginald Williams, the latter the former Lady Mary Heath, noted aviatrix, arrived here today from Mexico after a "flying honeymoon" and announced they had applied for service with Chinese air forces in China.

If their dreams of entering the Far Eastern fighting fail to materialize, they said they would go to Europe, "where airplanes are much cheaper." They flew a Mexican army plane while wintering in the Southern republic.

settlement and suggested that if the warships were moved from the Whangpoo they would not attract Chinese shells, which might fall inside the settlement.

Each ambassador called separately on the foreign office and presented his memorandum. It was understood that the four powers had had consultations before the memoranda were framed.

It was understood the American Ambassador acted on instructions from Washington as a result of the consultation.

Opinion in Japan on Secretary Stimson's letter of a few days ago reaffirming the American stand for the open door continues thus far to be hostile generally.

The newspaper Asahi editorially asserted today that "not by doubting Japan's motives but by cooperating with her will America enable Japan to stand on her own feet."

The newspaper Jiji said the Stimson letter was harmful and that there was no question of an economic blockade.

that troops destined for railroad protection be transported free. This, likewise, is a political question, affecting treaties of Russia with China and Japan, Karakhan said.

3. That White Russians (Czarists) are increasingly active in Manchuria, plotting against the Soviets, "under the protection and direct support of the Japanese, which contrasts to the Japanese Ambassador's assurances to the Soviet foreign office that the Japanese would not support the emigrees."

4. Moscow desires "information about the newly formed Manchuria government, its nature, &c."

Hirota said he would ask his government to explain the matters.

Sherman Law Hit In Senate Hearing

Simpler Legislation to Aid Independent Trade Is Requested.

(Associated Press.)

A plea for simpler laws was made yesterday at hearings before a Senate judiciary subcommittee on legislation designed to aid the independent business man.

Charles P. Garvin, of Washington, representing the National Stationers Association, told the senators uncertainty as to the exact meaning and scope of the Sherman antitrust law has a hampering effect on business.

His own organization, he said, had been investigated by the Federal Trade Commission and Justice Department so often it "seriously considered assigning them a desk in our office." He said his group was given "a clean bill of health" each time.

Mr. Garvin urged enactment of the legislation by Senator Nye (Republican), North Dakota, which would make rules defining unfair practices legally binding upon an industry adopting them and prohibit price discrimination.

CHACO PACT REPLY SENT TO PARAGUAY

Nonaggression Delegates to Await Answer to Bolivia's Lengthy Proposal.

(Associated Press.)

Chaco nonaggression pact delegates settled themselves yesterday for another long wait as the Paraguayans mailed to their government the bulky Bolivian reply to the Paraguayan counterproposal.

The reply was sent by air mail, and it was predicted the Paraguayan answer, expected to be made in writing, also, would not be ready for some weeks.

Commenting on the Paraguayan delegates protest to what they termed a threat by Bolivia to withdraw from the conference if Paraguay did not retract her demand that Bolivia evacuate a large part of the Chaco, Minister Abelli of Bolivia, said:

"The Bolivian delegates made it perfectly clear at yesterday's meeting to the Paraguayan delegates and to Mr. White as a representative of the neutral governments that Bolivia, although rejecting Paraguay's absurd demand of Bolivia's evacuation of the Chaco as a basis for discussion, is and will always be open to discuss any sensible proposal for a nonaggression pact pending the settlement of territorial controversy."

The Bolivians' reply said that unless Paraguay retracted her demands Bolivia would be forced to consider the conference ended.

The question was settled by including in the minutes of the meeting the Bolivian explanation that this conditional statement was not meant as a threat.

In diplomatic circles the opinion was expressed that some neutral action might soon be necessary if an accord were to be reached. Thus far the neutrals have refrained strictly from taking any part in the negotiations, except to permit Assistant Secretary White of the State Department to represent them as chairman of the discussions.

Roomer Saves Woman From Gas-Filled Room

The life of Mrs. Mae Lloyd, 32 years old, of 1108 I street southeast, was saved last night when she was found in a semiconscious condition in the basment of her home by L. L. Lowe, a roomer there.

Police said several gas jets in the basement had been turned on. Mrs. Lloyd was treated by members of the Fire Rescue Squad and remained at home. Her condition is not serious.

Election Bill Killed By French Senate

Reform Measure Beaten, as Anticipated, by 193-to-0 Vote.

Paris, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The electoral reform bill adopted in the Chamber of Deputies over the opposition of the Lefts was rejected in the Senate today, as had been expected, by a vote of 193 to 0.

The most objectionable feature of this bill, in the eyes of its opponents, was the proposal to abolish the second ballot in elections to the chamber, employed now if no candidate obtains a clear majority on the first vote. The Lefts said that clause was contrary to the very principles of the French political system.

The Senate sent back to committee the provision granting the franchise to women, and the section making the vote compulsory. Always in the past when the chamber has sent the woman suffrage measure to the Senate it has been killed.

said the outcome of Friday's fighting was gratifying.

The Japanese attack on the Kiangwan sector yesterday was dealt for revenge for the death of a captain in a front line company. A second lieutenant led the assault and the strength of the offensive carried the Japanese about 100 meters nearer to Kiangwan.

Casualties during the day and night were heavy, the Japanese admitting 120 killed and wounded. It was obvious there was much bloodshed among the Chinese, too.

Hoover to Start Drive On Hoarding March 6

Chicago, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—A Nationwide radio broadcast, with President Hoover one of the speakers, is planned March 6 as part of the anti-hoarding campaign of the Citizens' Reconstruction Organization, it was announced today. Sale of 60-day Treasury certificates, designed to lure money out of hiding, is to start the following day.

Other speakers will be Secretary of the Treasury Mills, Charles G. Dawes, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas. The broadcast is scheduled for 10:15 p. m. (Eastern standard time), over the NBC network.

Fish to Demand Action On Wheat for Jobless

Representative Hamilton Fish yesterday said he would resort to drastic action to force a House vote on his measure to have 40,000,000 bushels of wheat held by the Farm Board turned over to the Red Cross for the relief of the unemployed and hungry.

Plane of Missing Flier Found in Bay

Virginia Professor's Son Was on Solo Trip From Newport News.

Newport News, Va., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Nelson B. Peebles, about 25, son of Prof. Peter Paul Peebles, of the College of William and Mary, was reported missing today after taking a solo flight early this morning in a plane later found half submerged in the Chesapeake Bay.

The plane, discovered by a fisherman, was towed to shore and was found to be only slightly damaged. A fairly large supply of fuel was found in the tank.

Peebles, accompanied by William Coleman, went to Small Boat Harbor near here last night to fly the plane, which they owned jointly. Coleman said Peebles took off on a solo flight while he waited for some time before becoming alarmed.

PAN-AMERICAN BODY MAY DELAY MEETING

Move Reported to Postpone Montevideo Parley, Due to Economic Stress.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Unconfirmed reports today said the government of Uruguay had suggested to the Pan-American Union at Washington that the Pan-American conference scheduled for December be postponed because most of the countries concerned are absorbed for the moment with their own economic problems.

(Associated Press.)

Information has reached diplomatic quarters here that Brazil has been approached by Uruguay to the end that Brazil should propose the postponement of the Seventh Pan-American Conference, scheduled for December at Montevideo.

The Brazilian Ambassador was reported as having approached most of the chiefs of missions of the 21 countries which are members of the Pan-American Union, and it was said that the responses in favor of postponing the conference have been practically unanimous.

The reason was given as the economic situation of many of the countries. Political uncertainty in some of them also has figured in the conversations.

It was pointed out in diplomatic circles that for Uruguay to propose the postponement would have been difficult in view of that country's position as host.

As yet no formal responses have been received by the chiefs of missions approached, but in diplomatic quarters it was believed a majority of the governments would favor changing the date.

The time of postponement was indefinite in the Brazilian Ambassador's suggestion. Two years has been mentioned by others, however, as reasonable.

W. H. White Gets Agricultural Post

Succeeds J. E. Graf at the Bureau of Entomology; Maryland U. Man.

Dr. C. L. Marlatt, chief of the Bureau of Entomology, U. S. Department of Agriculture, announced today the appointment of William H. White as leader of the Division of Truck Crop and Garden Insects to succeed John E. Graf, who resigned to become associate director of the National Museum.

Mr. White has been acting in charge of this division since March, 1931, when Mr. Graf's transfer became effective. Even before last March Mr. White had important administrative duties in the division of Truck Crop Insects since Mr. Graf, as bureau assistant chief, devoted considerable of his time to bureau administration and because of his membership on the Federal Horticultural Board to matters relating to plant quarantines.

Mr. White is a graduate of the University of Maryland and has been associated with the bureau for more than fourteen years. During the early period he conducted field investigations on a number of problems involving the control of insects injurious to truck crops on the Atlantic coastal plain. Prior to his association with the bureau and while at the University of Maryland, he had considerable field experience with truck and floral crops.

Many Foreign Service Men Declared Unfitted

Representative W. L. Tierney, of Connecticut, last night described many of the Foreign Service representatives of the Government which he met during a trip through South and Central America as being "unfitted for their work," when he spoke last night at a smoker of the Georgetown Unviersity Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, international foreign service fraternity.

Other speakers at the smoker were Ralph Boyd and Dr. Thomas H. Healy, dean of the Foreign Service School. E. A. Nash, of the telephone company, presented a talking film. John O'Shea, headmaster of the chapter, was toastmaster. Guests were the members of the Chi chapter from Johns Hopkins University.

23 SIGNERS NEEDED FOR WETS' PETITION

12 Additional Names Placed on Document in House for States' Vote.

Despite the efforts of members of the House of Representatives to avoid a record of their attitude on prohibition at this time, signatures to the petition seeking the discharge of the judiciary committee from consideration of a measure for the return of liquor control to the States were increased to 122 yesterday.

The names of 145 members of the House are necessary before a resolution seeking the committee's discharge can be considered by the House on March 14. Wet leaders in the body yesterday were confident of their ability to marshal the required signatures.

Signing of the petition yesterday was conducted in a manner which contrasted sharply with the furore created the day before by Representative Fiorella LaGuardia (Republican), New York, when he called upon his colleagues to sign the document at once. So exuberant was the response to his appeal that the business of the House was hopelessly disrupted for more than 15 minutes.

Representative James M. Beck, of Philadelphia, leader of the wet Republican bloc and a coauthor with Representative Linthicum (Democrat), of Maryland, of the resolution seeking to amend the eighteenth amendment, started the signing at the opening of yesterday's session. He affixed his name in the second space, which had been left vacant for it yesterday when Mr. Linthicum attached the first signature.

Still Needs 23 Signatures.

Mr. Beck was followed in his action by eleven other members of the body during the remainder of the afternoon. At the conclusion of the session there had been 122 names placed on the document. Twenty-three more are needed before the discharge petition can be acted upon by the House.

Other signers yesterday included Lea (Democrat), California; Hooper (Republican), Michigan; William E. Hull (Republican), Illinois; Gambrill (Democrat), Maryland; Peavey (Republican), Wisconsin; Montet (Democrat), Louisiana; Aldrich (Republican), Rhode Island; White (Republican), Ohio; Curry (Republican), California; Andrews (Republican), Ohio; Curry (Republican), California; Andrews (Republican), New York; Kleberg (Democrat), Texas.

Democratic leaders of the House yesterday refused to make public the signatures on the petition until the entire 145 names were obtained. Despite this injunction, members interested in the document were enabled to provide the identity of the signers. Through misapprehension on their part, however, the names of Erk, Pennsylvania, and of Hornor (Democrat), West Virginia), were included among the 110 members signing the petition the first day, while the names of Auf der Heide and Seger, both of New Jersey, were overlooked. Mr. Erk was absent from Washington, but is expected to sign upon his return. Mr. Hornor is disinclined to sign.

Abernethy's Frankness Amusing.

Representative Abernethy (Democrat), of North Carolina, gave the House a hearty laugh in discussing the petition yesterday. He said:

"You Republicans have been engaged in the delightful pastime of getting us all divided on liquor, but what I saw here yesterday, and according to what old man Raskob put up to President Hoover this morning, I think you are going to have a great deal to think about with reference to the liquor question, so much so that it looks to me as though that question was going to disturb you gentlemen a great deal, and I am not making an assertion.

"I am from a country where I have got to vote dry if I intend to stay in Congress. So that is all there is to that and we will pass that by."

"We have in my country both prohibition and liquor so why shouldn't we be satisfied. That is the nearest I have ever come to saying anything about prohibition, and I did not get up here to tak about it, because that is a question I do not discuss.

"I try to come back to Congress every year, and if the Lord is willing I am coming back this year."

Housebreaking Charged As Liquor Is Recovered

Two men were under arrest on house-breaking charges last night and police announced that they had recovered $2,000 worth of the $2,500 of prewar liquor stolen from the home of Horace H. Westcott, real estate dealer, at 1310 Sixteenth street northwest, three days ago. Police said that both men, one of whom is Mr. Westcott's chauffeur, had confessed to stealing the liquor.

Bernito Sastillo, 43 years old, of 1526 Tenth street northwest, the chauffeur, was arrested by Detectives J. J. Tolson and Norman S. Hodgkins yesterday afternoon. They said he implicated James Joseph Mangan, 30 years old, of 1416 R street northwest, who was arrested later by Tolson, Hodgkins and Joseph Shiman. The liquor was recovered from Mangan's apartment, the detectives said. The missing $500 worth was sold, according to police.

3,000 Rent Strike Sympathizers Riot

Police Have Hands Full as 30 Families Are Evicted in the Bronx.

New York, Feb. 26 (U.P.).—Police reserves were required to disperse 3,000 rent strike sympathizers in the Bronx today before 30 families could be evicted.

Police found the crowd stretched out across Longfellow avenue blocking the way of City Marshal Charles Kemp and a squad of twenty husky movers.

Mounted police, using their night sticks, rode the street clear as the crowd taunted them with cries of "Mulrooney's Cossacks." The movers had hardly started, however, before the tenants on upper floors began bombarding them with dish pans and buckets of boiling water.

Because one onlooker wore spats and a pearl gray hat somebody thought he was a landlord. He was pointed at and hissed. Turning, the unfortunate bystander ran away, pursued by 1,000 shouting men, women and children.

GUNSTON HALL GIVEN TO STATE AS SHRINE

brick brought by ships from England. It has been in continuous use since it was built. Many famous men of the colonial period were guests there. George Washington, who was one of Mason's nearest neighbors and closest friends, spent many hours under its roof. It was there that details in connection with the erection of historic Pohick Church, of which both Mason and Washington were vestrymen at the same time, were discussed.

Leaders of the Revolution gathered under its roof when the American colonies were at odds with the mother country and discussed problems and made plans which later led to their independence. Mason was a leader in the movement for personal liberty, and when the Virginia constitution was being drafted in the State Assembly he proposed his famous Bill of Rights, which later was included in the first ten amendments to the Federal Constitution.

When Mr. Hertle purchased Gunston Hall in 1912 he restored it as near as possible to its aspect in Mason's time. The famous gardens were restored according to plans laid out by Mason. The house is situated on Gunston Cove overlooking the Potomac River and at one time it was one of the principal landings along the river, on the way to Alexandria, which was the largest seaport at that time in Virginia. Thousands of dollars were spent by Mr. Hertle in the restoration of the house and gardens. The large boxwood bushes along the garden path are said to be older than those at Mount Vernon.

The deed of Mr. Hertle stated that Gunston Hall is being given to the State because "it was the wish of Eleanor Daughaday Hertle, beloved wife of the party of the first part, now deceased, and in accordance with the desire of the donor, as a perpetual memorial to the memory of George Mason and in honor of the principles of just government and civic righteousness exemplified in his life and in his work, and with the hope and expectation that such a memorial will serve to strengthen the adherence of all who may visit the memorial to the fundamental views on government and social obligations and privileges expressed by him in the Declaration of Rights."

KIDNAPING ROBBERS CORNERED; ONE SHOT

Pistol Battles With Police Mark Trail of Youths Sought in Thefts.

Bogalusa, La., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—After a trail of kidnapings and pistol battles with officers, one of two youths suspected of robbing the Bank of Lumberton at Lumberton, Miss., was shot and seriously wounded today and the other was surrounded in a swamp near Picayune, Miss.

In flight since the bank was robbed late Tuesday, the youths seized an automobile belonging to Joe Leake, a railroad station agent at McLean, Miss., and kidnaped him and a companion, Carroll Watts.

They proceeded to Bogalusa and stopped at a gasoline station for repairs to the car. A station employe suspected the youths and called A. C. Bush, the jailer at Bogalusa, while the repairs were being made. Bush came to investigate and the youths forced him into the car with Leake and Watts and hurried away toward Picayune.

En route they stopped at the home of H. P. Williams, a farmer residing on the outskirts of Bogalusa and demanded his automobile. Williams' son opened fire on them with a shotgun and they threw Leake, Watts and Bush from the car and started again toward Picayune. Bush was slightly injured by young Williams' shots.

Chief of Police W. M. McGee, of Bogalusa, and Policemen R. L. Pittman and W. E. Bates overtook the fugitives 15 miles from this town and opened fire on them. The fleeing car ran into a ditch and a bullet from the officers' guns felled one of the youths. The other fled into the swamp. Citizens from Bogalusa and the surrounding countryside joined the officers in searching the swamp.

Posses had been trailing the bandits through south Mississippi for two days. The fugitives stole numerous automobiles, abandoning each as the gasoline was exhausted and seizing another.

The wounded youth gave his name as J. W. Ward, of Fort Worth, Tex. He said his companion's name was Hill but he did not know his first name nor wheuce he came.

Officers found $1,800 and thirteen diamond rings in the automobile They said they believed the money was part of the $5,000 stolen from the bank.

SENATOR ROBERT F. WAGNER.

SENATOR ROBERT F. WAGNER (Democrat), of New York, suggests pugnacity. He has powerful shoulders, a barrel chest, fighting nose, mouth and chin and expressive eyes which are calm enough in estimating opposition. He moves with that alertness and decision which gives some indication of the mind behind his broad forehead.

When he is on the Senate floor he almost always is there for a purpose. Some of his colleagues may sit the hours away on the floor, talking and chuckling under the debate but Wagner comes briskly in, sits briskly down, listens alertly the while he is there and when he ceases to be interested goes out as briskly as he entered. He dresses quietly in dark clothes but probably pays the price charged by a good tailor. His coats obviously were fitted to his shoulders.

When he was a newsboy on the streets of New York City he may have been chased off this or that especially lucrative street corner but it is likely that whoever did the chasing remembered the occasion.

He was born in Nastatten, Germany, on June 8, 1877, and came to the United States with his parents when he was 8 years of age. Had he remained in Germany his countenance probably would now bear the scars of duels. He went to public grade and high school and to City College of New York, from which he was graduated with honors in 1898 as a bachelor of science and two years later won second honors when he was graduated from the New York Law School.

He was elected to the Senate after resigning from the appellate division of the New York Supreme Court in 1926. It was the highest office to which he could aspire in the land he called home and he was pleased.

Senator Wagner has been counsel for the American Federation of Labor in various disputes. He sponsored the workmen's compensation law when he was in the New York State Legislature, where he served several years in both House and Senate and was a leader of his party. He has sponsored several measures designed to relieve unemployment through Federal agencies.

SENATE MOVES BILL CURBING U. S. WRITS

Several Amendments Voted Down; Passage Expected Early Next Week.

(Associated Press.)

Almost certain approval of the Norris anti-injunction bill was in the air yesterday as the Senate brushed aside all modifying amendments and voted to outlaw the "yellow dog" labor contracts.

Showing an unmistakable will to approve the measure in its present form, the Senate rejected a series of amendments offered on behalf of a minority of the judiciary committee, which friends of the legislation claimed would weaken it.

Senate leaders predicted the final vote would come early next week, after a final chorus of speeches.

The bill, which would sharply curtail the injunctive powers of Federal judges in labor disputes and provide for jury trial in contempt cases, was introduced by Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska.

"Yellow Dog" Clause Retained.

A provision outlawing "yellow dog" contracts, which forbid membership in labor unions, was retained without a record vote. This section of the bill declares such contracts to be contrary to public policy and provides they shall not be enforceable in Federal courts.

On behalf of the minority, Senator Hebert (Republican), Rhode Island, offered a substitute clause which would prevent injunctions being based on "such contracts, but would not deny all court resort.

It was beaten on a vive voce vote after the Senate had rejected, by a vote of 47 to 18, a previous Hebert amendment to modify the declaration of policy in the Norris bill to protect the right of labor to organize.

Then a series of Hebert amendments were turned down, including one to broaden the basis on which labor injunctions could be issued. This went down under a vote of 53 to 16.

George Amendment Adopted.

One amendment, designed to strengthen the bill, was adopted. Offered by Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, it would prevent courts from issuing mandatory injunctions in labor disputes compelling "any affirmative act."

Before the voting started, Senator Norris appealed to the Senate to reject the minority amendments, saying he was "suspicious" of them.

Senator Hastings (Republican), Delaware, one of the minority, replied that they were offered in good faith. He denied he had talked to employers opposed to the bill.

Senator Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, defended the bill, contending it was designed to "guide the courts so that in the execution of their power they shall not violate the Constitution or the rights of men."

SUCCEEDS BALL

COL. CHARLES T. JESSE, appointed by Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy to fill the unexpired term of Arlington County Treasurer E. Wade Ball, resigned.

office until Mr. Jesse qualifies for his bond, but the county court clerk does not plan to transact any business of the treasurer's office.

While the county was getting a change of administration in the treasurer's office, members of the county board were getting together on plans for floating an emergency loan of $100,000 to carry the county through until March 15.

A special meeting of the board will be held tonight at the courthouse at 7:30 o'clock and the board will adopt resolutions providing for the loan at that time.

The county's financial outlook wae much brighter yesterday. Offers of aid came from several sources. The State Legislature passed an emergency measure Thursday which allows the county to borrow up to three-fourths of its county levy. Gov. John Garland Pollard promised to sign the bill as soon as it was engrossed and it is expected his signature will be affixed today in time for the board to complete its loan plans tonight.

Both the Citizens National Bank of Alexandria and the Alexandria National Bank have made offers to lend the county the entire $100,000 needed, according to Harry A Fellows, chairman of the county board. Every bank in Arlington County has also asked to participate in the loan.

While the banks were hurrying to the rescue, the town of Falls Church made an offer to declare a truce in an old dispute to aid the county in its time of stress.

Offer by Falls Church.

Mr. Fellows said that Mayor L. P Daniels, of Falls Church, had offered to advance the county between $10,000 and $12,000 in payment of a bill for the installation of water mains in the Arlington County portion of Falls Church. Payment of this bill is in controversy between the city and the county, but Mayor Daniels volunteered to advance the funds until the matter is finally settled.

Assurance that the schools would remain in session was given last night by Fletcher Kemp, county superintendent of schools, on his return from Richmond where he had gone in an effort to secure a loan from the State Literary Fund.

Mr. Kemp went to Richmond with Thomas J. DeLashmutt, member of the school board, and were in conference with Hugh Reid, delegate from Arlington County, and Dr. Sidney B. Hall, State superintendent of schools.

Jesse's Business Career.

Mr. Jesse, who will take over the financial reins of the county for Ball's unexpired term as soon as he qualifies, is one of Arlington County's most successful business men. He is senior member of the firm of Jesse, Phillips & Klinge, and is president of the Real Title Corporation, one of the largest title companies in northern Virginia.

He is also secretary and treasurer of the Arlington-Fairfax Railway Co., director of the Clarendon Trust Co. and a charter member of the Arlington County Rotary Club.

He is 52 years old, is a native of Caroline County, Va., and a graduate of the University of Virginia. He has been a Democrat during his entire career and has been prominent in county politics for about 23 years.

On accepting the new office, Mr. Jesse said that he would devote his entire time to it, and intimated that one of his first acts would be thorough reorganization.

HOUSE GETS ROAD RELIEF BILL TODAY

Passage Seen as Assured; Would Give States $132,500,000.

(Associated Press.)

A Democratic emergency bill designed to relieve unemployment by making $132,500,000 immediately available for highway construction will be considered by the House today under privileged legislative status.

With the Democratic leadership sponsoring the legislation and many Republicans supporting it, passage is considered virtually certain.

Speaker Garner announced after the rules committee had agreed yesterday to give it preferred status on the calendar, it would be the first order of business.

To Release Other Fund.

The bill provides $120,000,000 to be apportioned among the States, with $12,500,000 for roads and trails in national parks, forests, public lands and Indian reservations. It gives preference to local labor and provides the money shall be repaid over a period of ten years beginning in 1938, from regular Federal allotments.

States unable to match the 50 per cent requirement of the Federal highway act will be permitted to match it with this Federal money, making $240,000,000 available for road construction this year.

Chairman Almon of the roads committee estimated before the rules committee that one million men would be given employment through the legislation, or about 300,000 on actual road construction and the remainder in preparation and manufacture of materials.

Would Permit Resuming of Work.

The Alabama Democrat explained many States were unable to match Federal allotments and had to hold up road construction during the present economic situation but that this bill would make it possible for them to resume work on a broad scale.

Representative Warren (Democrat), North Carolina, original author of the measure, explained that if the States failed within two years to match the regular allotments, they would be lost. In addition, he explained that 90 per cent of the cost of road building went for labor according to the Bureau of Roads.

"This is as direct relief as we can give for employment," Representative Fuller (Democrat), Arkansas, said.

Representative Warren made public the Federal Bureau's proposed allotments to each State under the $120,000,000 emergency road fund. They include Maryland, $1,015,296; West Virginia, $1,316,720; North Carolina, $2,890,203, and Virginia, $2,258,196.

Mishap Mars Launching Of Huge Army Dredge

Pittsburgh, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Amid the screams of women spectators and shouts of rivermen, the U. S. dredge Potter, about to be launched, plunged down the runways into the Ohio River today. One woman was injured, scores were toppled to the decks and others scrambled to safety on the river banks.

The jamming of a launching trigger caused the dredge, one of the most powerful ever built, to slip. Workmen broke five cables and allowed the craft to splash into the water. Mrs. Lytle Brown, wife of the chief of the United States Army engineers, was on hand to christen the dredge.

A crew of 75 worked steadily at a huge slide in Skagit River Canyon, about 150 miles north of here, in an effort to recover the bodies of four workmen buried yesterday. The snow and mud made progress slow.

An Oregon-Washington train was wrecked early today near Satsop, Wash., where the track had been washed out, but the crew escaped injuries. No passengers were aboard.

Submerged farms, highways and homes were reported from many sections of the State.

Rainey said the committee had not yet decided upon the proposed one-cent gallon tax on gasoline but added, "we may have to turn to that."

The administrative provisions of the sales tax section have been worked out, he said, adding that three new officials had been provided for but that the quantity of clerical help needed was unascertained.

The subcommittee yesterday continued its study of the sales tax with Treasury experts. Acting Chairman Crisp was notified that the Treasury's completed draft of the section would be ready Monday.

The Georgia Democrat said work of drafting the measure was progressing rapidly and that he hoped it would be completed by the end of next week. None of the details of the measure is to be made public until finally agreed upon, however.

Text of Hoover Statement On Reform in Bankruptcy

The text of the President's statement yesterday on reform of the bankruptcy laws follows:

I shall be sending to the Congress early next week a message on the subject of reform of the bankruptcy laws and procedure of the Federal courts in criminal cases.

Two years ago I directed that a searching investigation be undertaken in the matter of bankruptcy laws by the Department of Justice and the Department of Commerce; that investigation has been completed. The departments have had the able cooperation of different private bodies. The investigation disclosed that the number of cases of bankruptcy steadily increased from 23,000 in 1921 to 53,000 in 1926 and to 65,000 in 1931. Losses to creditors have increased from $144,000,000 in 1921 to $740,000,000 in 1928 and to $911,000,000 in 1931. Increases are therefore not due to the economic situation, but to deeper causes, as the largest portion of these increases happened during times of prosperity.

The present bankruptcy act proved, in this investigation, to be effective and to hold out inducements for waste of assets and to permit exploitation and disregard of the rights of creditors and many injustices to bankrupts themselves.

In the matter of criminal procedure in Federal courts, the investigations by the Department of Justice, the Law Enforcement Commission and different bar associations agree on recommendations of certain reforms in the matter of permitting accused persons to waive indictment by grand juries if they wish to plead guilty, to overcome technicalities in the constitution of grand juries, to simplify the procedure of the district courts and appeals in criminal cases to the higher courts—the object of all these reforms being to expedite criminal trials and appeals and thus add a deterent to crime by diminishing technicalities of which convicted persons can take advantage to produce long delays.

The message will also contain some recommendations as to questions of diversity of citizenship in the Federal courts and some recommendations for relief of congestion in the courts by the addition of certain judges as recommended by the judicial council.

PRESIDENT WILL URGE REFORM OF LAWS IN SPECIAL MESSAGE

sions which have examined Federal criminal procedure during the last ten years, he will urge Congress to authorize the Supreme Court to prescribe uniform rules governing criminal proceedings. In the past, statutory rules have been found too rigid and too difficult to alter when they were found ineffective.

The inquiry into bankruptcy law and the gradual development of a sort of bankruptcy racket was ordered by President Hoover on July 29, 1930. The study was carried on under the direction of the Solicitor General, in cooperation with the Department of Commerce and the various national associations of credit men.

In a preliminary report covering the inquiry several months ago, Lloyd K. Garrison, special Assistant Attorney General in charge, said that existing bankruptcy law was archaic, that the administrative machinery was subject to grave exploitation and, finally, that "without radical revision of the law no substantial improvement can be accomplished."

"In practice, we find," this interim report set forth, "that discharges are granted virtually for the asking, and in most cases quite without regard to the conduct of the debtor or the equities of the case."

With the final report, Solicitor General Thatcher submitted to the President a tentative draft of a bill embodying the reforms dictated by the investigation. The detailed report of the inquiry probably will be sent to Congress with the President's special message next week.

MRS. HOOVER'S TRIP SADDENED BY DEATH

Mrs. H. E. Coffin Planned to Entertain First Lady When Stricken in Georgia.

Brunswick, Ga., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. Howard E. Coffin died unexpectedly on Sea Island, near here, today while preparations were under way at the Coffin home at Sapeloe Island, n[illegible], for a visit from Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the President.

Mrs. Coffin had come to the Sea Island home of Alfred W. Jones, nephew of her husband, where she suffered a heart attack. She died while Mrs. Hoover was en route down the South Atlantic Coast on the Department of Commerce motorship Sequoia. Mrs. Hoover had been expected to spend tomorrow night at Sapeloe on her way to Miami.

Mrs. Coffin formerly lived in Detroit, where her husband was prominent in motor and aviation fields. He was vice president and director of the Hudson Motor Co. for several years, a director in Detroit banks and a director of aviation corporations.

Mr. and Mrs. Coffin were personal friends of President and Mrs. Hoover. Mr. Coffin's grandfather bought the Hoover homestead at West Branch, Iowa, and Howard Coffin was born in the little brick farm house there.

Funeral services will be held from the home of Mr. Jones, Sea Island Beach, Monday morning at 10:30, and burial will be in Frederica Cemetery, St. Simon's Island.

Savannah, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, making a Southern cruise aboard a Department of Commerce boat, was visibly saddened upon arrival here today by news of the death of Mrs. Howard E. Coffin at whose Sapeloe Island home she had planned a brief visit. After the official reception in Savannah, it was announced Mrs. Hoover would not stop at Sapeloe on the way to Miami, Southern terminus of the trip.

After a 45-minute automobile tour of the city Mrs. Hoover returned to the motorship Sequoia. Officers of the craft said they would anchor for the night in one of the inland waterways South of Savannah.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover last night dispatched a message of condolence to Howard E. Coffin, upon the death of his wife yesterday at Sea Island. His message was not made public.

Real Daughter of 1812 Dies Here in 101st Year

MRS. DIANA C. HAZLETON, for 74 years a resident of Washington, who died at her home here as she neared her 101st birthday. The photograph was taken last May on the eve of her 100th birthday.

Mrs. Diana C. Hazleton, Never Ill, Expires in Her Sleep.

The sleep from which there is no waking overtook Mrs. Diana C. Hazleton in her 101st year.

Mrs. Hazleton, who lived with her two daughters, Miss Anna Hazleton and Miss Lillie Hazleton, at 3137 Thirty-eighth street, would have been 101 years old May 7.

Thursday night she passed away quietly in her sleep. She had never been sick in her life, her daughters said.

The venerable woman was a real Daughter of 1812, for her father, Ira Cole, served in that conflict. She was born in St. Lawrence County, N. Y., May 7, 1831.

At the age of 14 she passed a teacher's examination and accepted an appointment in the village school. She continued teaching until she entered and was graduated from Clinton Liberal Institute at Hamilton, N. Y., in 1854. Then she returned to teaching.

Mrs. Hazleton was also a member of Our Flag Chapter of the D. A. R. and Esther Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. Funeral services will be held at her home Monday morning at 11 o'clock, with private burial in Rock Creek Cemetery.

PINCHOT DENOUNCED ON 'RELIEF POLITICS'

Talbot Calls Demands for U. S. Aid Part of Plan for Presidency.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 26.—Gov. Pinchot's visit to Washington and his efforts to secure direct Federal relief for the unemployed of the Nation were branded "old-fashioned Pinchot politics" to night in a biting statement issued here by State Representative Grover C. Talbot, political foe of Pennsylvania's chief executive.

Talbot charged that Pinchot has shown ""unabated bitterness" to the relief measures the Legislature passed at the recent special session, and hinted that the "Pinchot cries for Federal aid are part of a ballyhoo to promote the governor's presidential ambition."

Gov. Pinchot was in Washington yesterday, where he restated his belief that the La Follette-Costigan direct relief measure should have been passed. It was this latest declaration by Pinchot that caused Talbot's attack tonight.

Differed on Methods.

The legislator was the sponsor of the $10,000,000 direct relief bill, which was passed at the special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature to consider relief proposals. The Talbot bill was substituted for the administration measure, which would have provided approximately $120,000,000 for the unemployed.

The Talbot bill, which Attorney General Schnader has been attempting to prove unconstitutional, specified that the money be taken directly from the State treasury and distributed throughout the State to the various communities, in proportion to their needs. It was passed without the governor's signature.

The administration's plan was based on new taxation to be devoted especially to relief, the money to have been expended for both direct financial assistance to the needy and made work.

Pinchot's scheme involved State taxes on billboards and cigarettes and additional gasoline taxes. Money raised in this fashion was to be used for work—principally through construction of new highways. A $35,000,000 bond issue would have been floated for direct relief. In addition, local communities would have been authorized to levy special taxes to aid their needy and unemployed.

"Governor Stands Alone."

"The bill bearing my name and providing $10,000,000 for the relief of the unemployed was passed by an overwhelming vote of both branches of the Legislature," Talbot said. "And yet since it became a law, the governor directed his attorney general to ask the courts to declare it unconstitutional.

"Thus we have Pinchot posing one day as the friend of the unemployed and the next day barring the door to relief already provided by law.

"In his strange hostility to relief, Gov. Pinchot stands alone among the governors of this country. His unabated bitterness to the relief is further proven by the fact that while one court has already sustained the law as constitutional he has ordered his attorney general to appeal to the Supreme Court to strike it dwon if possible. In the meantime the unemployed plead for jobs and Pinchot procrastinates.

"Let the American Congress and the American people judge whether he is sincerely seeking to relieve suffring or just playing old-fashioned Pinchot politics. What difference does it make to him whether the people get jobs or not, so long as he gets the headlines."

Part of Boy's Brain Removed to Save Life

Aid for Coast Guard Asked In Fight on Huge Rum Rings

10,000-Mile Front Defended by Three Lines of U. S. Craft, But More Ships Are Held Needed to Break Big Combines.

(Associated Press.)

On a 10,000-mile front the Coast Guard has drawn up three lines of defense against the rumrunners' advance on the shores of the United States.

Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant, seeking more vessels to combat "large, highly organized international combines," told the House appropriation committee that "if we had a sufficient number of Coast Guard craft to keep all the smuggling vessels under constant surveillance, we would have the situation entirely controlled."

But a lack of craft apparently has quickened the activities of this far-flung fleet of almost 400 sea-rovers.

Far out to sea, sometimes more than 200 miles, scurry fast destroyers or "scout" ships to carry the vanguard of defense. Capable of a 30-knot maximum speed, they bear lookout men through fair weather and foul, scanning the water for suspicious vessels.

Intelligence Bureau Aids.

Once a "black," Coast Guard name for liquor boat, is sighted the destroyer gets in radio connection with a cutter patrolling the second line of defense. The cutter is authorized to hang doggedly on the suspect's trail.

The destroyer, with wide cruising range over a regular area, usually spends five days out and ten in. It has a crew of about 75 men. Most of the "blacks" are known both by name and silhouette. The destroyers also get useful information, as do the other ships, from the intelligence department.

When a scout spots a quarry and turns it over to a vessel of the second line, it goes back to its post. Sometimes they steal along unlighted, alert for a wary boat. Often the craft sought has blinded its light and stands by for an opportunity to pass unnoticed.

The cutters, or patrol boats, which which form the second and third walls, are designed for "trailing." The 125 and 100 foot cutters, which usually patrol the second line, have a maximum speed of about 17 knots. That is deemed sufficient to overhaul a heavily loaded liquor boat.

Method of Seizure.

They are provisioned to spend as much as a month without relief in trailing a "black." When visibility is low, they crowd the craft. The powerful searchlights work overtime on murky nights. Not infrequently the rumrunner will throw out a smoke screen. A fog-filled night without a moon is the smuggler's ideal time.

Spied within the 12-mile zone, or what is considered an hour's sailing from the shore, the smuggler usually makes a supreme effort to escape. For within this zone, the battleground of the third line of defense, the ship can be legally boarded. After the liquor boats cut many capers here, sometimes going so far as ramming a patrol boat in an effort to reach the open sea, the domain of refuge.

If near enough, the suspected craft is usually commanded through a megaphone to "heave to." A siren or radio is used for greater distance. Coast Guard ships are authorized to give a warning shot before firing on a vessel which refuses to halt.

A smaller boat is sent to the side of the stopped craft with a group of men, who board it in the role of customs officers.

Aleutian Volcano in Full Eruption; People to Flee

Seward, Alaska, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Mount Shishaldin on Unimak Island was in full eruption late today, radio reports here said. Flames were shooting skyward 500 feet. Residents of the island, one of the largest in the Aleutian chain, were apprehensive and some decided to leave.

The volcano was in eruption February 13, when an amateur radio operator at False Pass said it shot flames 1,500 feet into the air. A week later the volcano threw ashes and belched smoke over a radius of approximately 10 miles.

Inventor to Leave Navy Service Soon

Cosponsor of Submarine Escape Device to Do Commercial Work.

Chief Gunner Clarence L. Tibbals, of the Navy, veteran diver and co-inventor of the "lung," a submarine escape device, will leave the Navy and enter commercial work, it became known yesterday.

Mr. Tibbals has reached the height of his naval career and can not be promoted further, except by special act of Congress to which Navy authorities are opposed on the grounds of setting a "precedent."

His application for retirement has been approved by the Navy Department and although a group of his friends in Congress are attempting to secure special legislation to promote him to the grade of lieutenant, the chances of getting it through before April 1, when he will retire, seem rather slim at the present time.

JAMES REED URGES "AMERICAN" STAND

Missouri's Democratic Candidate Discusses Needs of Party and Nation.

(Associated Press.)

The Democrats were urged yesterday by James A. Reed, of Missouri, to stand on an "America first" platform this year and nominate a man who "represents old-fashioned, solid Democratic principles."

Reed himself will go into the Democratic convention with the solid support of the Missouri delegation for him for President. He intends no campaign in other States and he is not commenting upon individual candidates.

Sitting down in the Senate judiciary committee room where in days past he played an important role as legislator and inquisitor, chewing on a cigar, Reed called for an end of foreign interference and ties and condemned the new economic measures just enacted.

Sees Lessons From Europe.

"It is time for the United States to quit acting in the role of brother bountiful for all the rest of the world," he said. "We should insist upon the inviolability of the obligation of the European nations to pay their debts even though we may not insist upon immediate payments. We must recognize the fact that those nations are able to maintain vast armies and navies and that in one or two countries the people are more prosperous than our own.

"French statesmen are looking after the interests of France and as a result France is the economic master of Europe. We need an American who similarly regards the interests of our own country.

"Treating the question in an entirely impersonal way I want to see some one nominated who represents old-fashioned, sound Democratic principles and who believes it is his interest to conserve the interests of America. I think we should, as speedily as our treaties permit, resume our old policies, namely, that America shall protect her own interests, cultivate peace with all the world and withdraw from any attempt at interference in the affairs of other nations.

"The country will in time emerge from the depression, but I think the revival must begin at the grass roots and come from below rather than above.

Bank Relief Assailed.

"There is no more reason for the Government taking the taxpayers' money to make up the losses of the banks than there is for the Government to assume the losses of millions of American people who invested in the same class of securities as the banks.

"The proposition to shift the burden of bad investments from the banks to the Treasury is, in the end, placing those burdens on the taxpayers of America.

"It is strange to find the financial overlords standing at the public Treasury demanding Government largess, when only a few years ago every proposition of Government aid for industry or labor was declared to be populistic and utterly unsound. I regard all such measures as unsound. The Government can not create wealth. While it can help disturbed economic conditions, it seldom can cure economic ills except in one way. It can cease placing unnecessary burdens on industry and the community and it can cease drawing from the veins of the people by incessant and unjust taxation."

BANK CREDITS BILL IS SENT TO HOOVER

ment to make in signing the bill today. Mr. Hoover also disclosed he was sending to Congress next week a special message on the subject of bankruptcy.

Coincidentally Senator Fletcher, of Florida, ranking Democrat on the banking committee, put before the Senate a bill to safeguard depositors in closed banks. He would have national banks contribute 5 per cent of their capital to establish a "depositors' guaranty fund." He also would make more stringent the penalties for banking law violations.

Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, joined Senator Fletcher in a Senate appeal for greater protection to depositors. Senator Glass has now before the banking committee a comprehensive measure including relief for depositors.

The Glass-Steagall bill, which becomes effective immediately upon Mr. Hoover's signing the act, is to be in operation only until March 3, 1933. However, it does contain a permanent provision making it possible for banks in groups of five to obtain the same emergency opening for new rediscounting privileges with the Federal Reserve as is allowed individual banks of less than $5,000,000 capitalization under the one-year provision of the law.

The bill makes it possible for one year to use direct Government obligations as collateral for currency, thus releasing about $750,000,000 in gold which is now put up in addition to the regular 40 per cent gold reserve requirements as collateral because of the shortage of eligible paper.

The other one-year provision of the bill allows individual banks of less than $5,000,000 capitalization to rediscount their promissory notes with the Federal Reserve to be secured by sound paper that can not now be rediscounted.

Senator Glass told the Senate that the $5,000,000 limitation would exclude only 62 of the 7,600 member banks of the Federal Reserve. He added that "embraced in those 62 are what we believe to be the speculative institutions."

Of course all banks can obtain this special rediscounting privilege by going into groups of five to present a promissory note.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation added $25,000,0000 to its $50,000,000 fund, set aside for agricultural loans yesterday as Secretary Hyde announced application blanks would be sent out next week.

There has been considerable dissatisfaction on Capitol Hill over the delay in getting the farm relief money into operation.

Under an agreement to the reconstruction corporation act by Senator Smith (Democrat), South Carolina, $200,000,000 was declared available for the farm loans. The corporation has not yet issued its debentures, and is now working on its $500,000,000 capitalization. However, it is willing to make $75,000,000 of this immediately available. Harvey Couch informed Senator Smith.

Swain Risks a Deluge To Make Plea for Mate

—By JOHN J. DALY—

A LONELY man down in Oklahoma is anxious to get married. He wants the world to know it. So, in his loneliness, he has addressed a form letter to all mayors in all cities in the United States, asking them to give this news to radio announcers and reporters.

"This is leap year," writes George Strand, of Muskogee, "and I am in the field for a life mate of some means and ability, some one who will aid me to make a living. So please notify the lonesome women."

Ah, the lonely women. The cities, towns, villages and hamlets are full of them, all waiting for their George Strands—to sing to them, in later years, "Silver Threads Among the Gold." They are the inspiration of song and story, the lonely women, with heart hunger heavy upon them.

* * * *

IF the radio announcers and reporters take this public appeal seriously, the little town of Muskogee, Okla., may witness a spectacle the world has never seen before. Should the lonely ladies get it into their pretty little heads to travel toward Muskogee, there to see George Strand, no longer will you hear the song, "California, Here I Come," but, instead, "Oklahoma, We're Muskogee Bound."

The question naturally arises, "Why should any one, even a lonely lady, go to Muskogee?"

Aside from the fact that George is there, Muskogee—except for its melodious name—is probably just like any number of towns in America. Main street and all, even to "The Other Side of the Track."

The Muskogee Chamber of Commerce will be glad to prove otherwise. Write for the booklet, "O, Gee, Muskogee, Past, Present and Future."

* * * *

LONELY ladies, answering the hunger call of a lonely heart, or the inner call of a hungry man, will see the sign, "Welcome to Muskogee." If they go a-flivvering, as so many do these days, they will also notice another sign, "Go Slow and See Muskogee! Go Fast and See the Sheriff!"

Unless George is the sheriff, this officer of the law is the last man the ladies, heart-hungry though they be, will want to see. If George is the sheriff, the successful suitor, this being leap year, will gladly help her newly found mate to lock the unsuccessful rivals in the Muskogee Hoosegow—that quaint little penthouse on the plains where pent-up emotions may be soothed and solaced by meditation.

Lonely ladies looking for companionship have two ways out of a dilemma in Muskogee.

HURLEY HITS RASKOB WORDS; GARNER ASSAILS PRESIDENT

ers talk on the action late yesterday of the Republican State committee of New Jersey in recommending that that State's delegation, yet to be selected, support Hoover for renomination and work for an eighteenth amendment repeal plank.

Several Eastern Republicans have been urging the President to stand for a wet or moist plank, but the general feeling here is this will have to be fought out on the convention floor without any commitments from the White House.

Asked by newspapermen for comment on the Democratic national chairman's statement, Secretary Hurley said:

"Mr. Raskob is in a position to speak much more accurately of the amount of money that he and his associates have spent slandering and misrepresenting the President than he is as to the President's views on the eighteenth amendment.

"It appears a little far-fetched for the chairman of the Democratic national committee to attempt to interpret the views of the President on the subject."

Garner's anti-Hoover assertion was in reply to a speech Thursday night at Wooster, Ohio, in which Assistant Secretary Jahncke of the Navy said President Hoover's leadership had made the Democrats "just a little bit dizzy."

"The country will determine the correctness of Jahncke's statements," the Texan said.

Representative Abernethy (Democrat), North Carolina, predicted trouble in Republican ranks over the dry issue.

"From what I saw here yesterday (the movement to sign a petition to permit a House vote on resubmission of the eighteenth amendment), and what Brother Raskob put up to President Hoover last night," the witty Tarheeler told the House, "I think you are going to have a heck of a time with the liquor question—as much trouble as the Democrats."

Over on the Senate side, James A. Reed, Missouri's candidate for the Democratic nomination, gathered a group of newspaper men around him and told them the party should nominate a man "who represents sound, old-fashioned Democratic principles and who puts the interests of America paramount." He declined to discuss his own or any other candidacy.

Meanwhile New York Republicans elected eleven delegates-at-large to the national convention. Eighty-six district delegates will be elected in the primary April 5.

HOOVER ACTS TO BAN RAIDS ON SECURITIES

short selling. I want to find if that is true and I want to find if legislation is necessary."

Rules Recently Announced.

The New York Stock Exchange recently announced rules intended to curb bear raiding. It was disclosed then by President Hoover that he had been in consultation with officers of the exchange.

But then this week the security market took another drop and the conviction obtains in high administration quarters that professional bear raiders are still at work, taking advantage of hard times and false rumors to drive down prices and profit at the distress of security holders and the country as a whole.

Just how many names he intended to put before the committee to be called, Senator Walcott did not reveal. He did intimate that the names of some foreigners were on the list.

Wall Street Excited.

New York, Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Wall street was excited today over the prospect that "big bears" in the stock market would be called individually to testify in the United States Senate inquiry into short selling.

The inquiry promised to tear the cloak of secrecy from market operations long the subject of rumor and conjecture. Comment from market operators who have been associated in brokerage gossip with bearish activity was completely lacking. Associates of some, however, said they would welcome an opportunity to justify market operations which they believe to be economically sound.

On the whole, however, prominent traders were said scarcely to relish the idea of having to disclose their operations. Owing to the public unpopularity of the bear side of the market, active short sellers have been anything but anxious to develop reputations of being "big bears."

Bernard E. Smith, a member of the Stock Exchange, who was for some time associated with the bear side of the market, was on the floor today, but declined to comment.

Traders Are Silent.

M. C. Brush, another well-known market operator, also made no comment. Mr. Brush is a director of several corporations, but associates state that he has never sold short stocks of his own companies.

William Danforth, Boston speculator, became known in Wall street as a big bear during the early stages of the bear market, but some months ago he stated that he had shifted to the bull side. Mr. Danforth was said to be in Florida today, as was Thomas Bragg, who has also been known in Wall street from time to time as a bear. Bernard M. Baruch, who has the reputation in Wall street of being one of the most astute traders, was said at his office to be out of town.

Wall street was busy with gossip as to whether the investigation would reach leading capitalists. It was believed in some quarters that some important holders of stocks had sold other stocks short to hedge their long positions.

FIVE RIVALS SEEKING JUDGE SELLERS' POST

her home from a broken hip, received in a fall several weeks ago. The fight for her retention is being carried on by her friends and it is unlikely that Judge Sellers will remain inactive while a movement is afoot to divest her of her official robes. The suggestion has been made that Judge Sellers may be given another position in the event that she is displaced.

Emergence of the name of Mr. Stewart is thought to have been occasioned by the frequent rifts which Judge Sellers has had with the Board of Public Welfare. On many occasions she has disagreed with their recommendations in cases in which both the Court and the welfare board have been jointly interested. His candidacy has the unofficial approval of several welfare board executives.

Stewart in Welfare Work.

Mr. Stewart was executive officer of the Board of Children's Guardians, back in 1926, and, later, when this unit was consolidated with others into the Board of Public Welfare, he became head of the children's division. He left here in 1929 to engage in welfare work in New York City, and then shifted to Cincinnati, where he is now similarly employed.

Miss McCall has been suggested for the position on the basis of her practical knowledge of sociological work, having for some time been in charge of all nonsupport cases before the District Supreme Court. Miss McCall had no knowledge that her name had been suggested for the prefixing of "Judge."

Miss Bentley, who, in addition to her position with the school system, is a member of the District bar, likewise had no "knowledge that her name had been suggested" as Judge Sellers' successor. Miss Bentley clashed with Judge Sellers last year on the question of parental responsibility for child truancy.

Friends of Miss Taggart have advanced her name conditionally. That is, they want her to be considered, providing that Judge Sellers is not to be reappointed. Before her admission to the bar, Miss Taggart was interested in social work for several years and was also a teacher.

Is Surprise to Walsh.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Walsh has been proposed for the office by his friends because of his knowledge of juvenile court work. He is in charge of prosecutions in the juvenile court and represents the corporation counsel before Judge Sellers. His advancement for the position was a surprise to him. He had not heard of it until informed by a reporter, he said.

Judge Sellers began her work in Juvenile Court on October 15, 1918, under a commission from President Wilson. In 1925 she was reappointed by President Coolidge. This appointment expired last year, and her backers are urging her name for selection for a third term.

The records of the juvenile court show that of the cases brought to its attention, it has been found possible to settle amicably 75 per cent of them, without bringing them to trial. This record has been highly praised by judicial authorities.

Judge Sellers is the fourth jurist to serve as head of the court, which was established July 1, 1906. Those who preceded her were Judge William De Lacy, from 1906 to 1913; Judge J. Wilmer Latimer, 1913 to 1917, and Judge George Aukam, from 1917 to 1918.

FILIPINOS' FREEDOM MEASURE ADVANCED

Senate Committee Approves Bill Giving Them Liberty Within 19 Years.

(Associated Press.)

A long step toward complete independence for the Philippine Islands was taken yesterday by the Senate territories committee which approved the amended Hawes-Cutting bill providing for a free Filipino nation within 19 years.

The measure was approved by all but three members of the committee, Senators King, Utah, and Broussard, Louisiana (Democrats), and Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, opposed it.

Two years after passage of the bill a Commonwealth would be established, providing the island people had agreed upon a constitution that met the approval of the President and Congress of the United States. The governor general would then be supplanted by an American high commissioner.

For a period of ten years following the inauguration of the Commonwealth, Philippine products, with certain limitations on sugar, coconut oil and cordage, would be admitted duty free to the United States. Five years from the expiration of the ten year period the Philippine people would decide by a plebiscite whether complete independence was desired.

During this interim Philippine products would be subject to duties, based on a yearly rising scale of 5 per cent of existing United States tariff schedules. At no time would duties exceed 25 per cent, and collections would be made in the Philippines as export taxes. Such receipts would be used to pay principal and interest of the Philippine public debt.

An immigration restriction of 100 yearly would be imposed on the Philippines beginning with the Commonwealth form of government.

At least 17 and not more than 19 years would be required to carry out all provisions of the bill.

Hoover May File In Ohio Primary

Brown Hints at Possibility After France Enters His Name There.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—President Hoover will decide within two weeks whether he will enter the Ohio primary next May on the presidential preference ballot, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, his pre-convention campaign manager, said tonight when advised that former United States Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland, had filed his formal declaration with the secretary of state.

New York, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Former Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland, served notice toda, that he would launch a political attack upon President Hoover as soon as the President declares himself a candidate for renomination in the Ohio primaries.

In a statement announcing his name had been formally entered for the Republican presidential nomination in Ohio, France said he would wait only for Mr. Hoover to become his opponent in that State before discussing his eligibility for renomination "without fear or favor and in most explicit terms."

Primary entries must be filed in Ohio by March 11.

Roosevelt's Name Filed For Nebraska Primary

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The name of Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, for President, will appear on the Democratic primary ballot in Nebraska.

Petitions for Roosevelt were filed at the capital late this afternoon by Arthur Mullen, jr., of Omaha. Deputy Secretary of State G. B. Thomas said there were easily 100 signatures for each of the five Congressional Districts, as required. No acceptance from the candidate is necessary to put the name on the ballot.

70 Feared Drowned in Capsizing.

Calcutta, India, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Seventy persons were feared drowned today as a result of the capsizing in the river Hooghly of a motor launch carrying 100 factory workers. Up to this afternoon only 30 had been rescued alive.

NEW JERSEY G. O. P. STANDS FOR REPEAL

Holds Writing of Platform Is Paramount to Naming of Candidate.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The Republican State committee, viewing the stand on the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow as "the solution of the liquor problem," today advocated the New Jersey delegation to the national convention be committed to repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Commending President Hoover's efforts to stimulate business recovery, the committee recommended the State's delegates "encourage the President by giving him their support," but maintained "that the sovereign right of the people to write the platform is paramount to that of naming a candidate."

Conflicting opinions were expressed by several members on whether the committee had unqualifiedly instructed the delegation to vote for the President's renomination.

Attention was directed to the phrase indorsing the President which recommended "that the delegates to the national convention, while recognizing their right under our laws to exercise their own choice, encourage the President in these good efforts by giving him their support."

A few party leaders saw in the terminology of the resolution an opportunity for New Jersey delegates to withdraw their support of President Hoover should he manifest an unwillingness to favor a repeal plank. However, many committee members were insistent the President would be supported.

THE SOVIET AND JAPAN.

Soviet Russia has maintained an ominous silence while hostilities developed between China and Japan. Moscow allowed Japan to invade Manchuria and set up a puppet government there without protest, in spite of the fact that Russia is a joint owner of the Chinese Eastern Railway. But apparently the Bolshevists have only been waiting to see which way the wind might blow.

Reports from Mukden say that 50,000 Soviet soldiers have been moved to the Manchurian frontier. Moscow officials have openly accused Japan of trying to secure use of the railway facilities jointly owned by China and the Soviet to transport Japanese troops to the Russian border. Japan is asked to explain reports that she is recruiting White Russians, presumably for an assault upon the Soviet. It would not be difficult to exaggerate these points of friction so as to cause a border clash of Japanese and Russian troops. Manchuria is a tinderbox where provocation for any sort of war might be conjured up.

The present stiffness of the Soviet's attitude toward Japan is in sharp contrast to the conciliatory policy heretofore assumed. Soviet officials were so friendly toward Japan that rumors of a secret understanding between the two countries circled the globe. But this was when a few Japanese soldiers were sweeping irregular Chinese troops before them like chaff. The Soviet had no intention of defending China or of interfering to protect its economic interests. Since that time the Chinese have made a valiant stand at Shanghai. Chinese prestige has made incalculable gains, while that of Japan has suffered a notable shrinkage.

The Soviet doubtless would be delighted to join with China in a war with Japan, if it had reasonable assurance of success. There seems to be no doubt that the rising nationalistic spirit in China has encouraged Moscow to change its attitude toward the whole affair. A war that would affiliate China with Russia would be a great victory for the Soviet regime. For years it has been trying to communize China, with considerable success. A common war against imperialistic Japan might encourage the Reds to hope that the doctrines of Lenin would take firmer root in that immense country.

Such a course would leave the world in a dilemma. At present the sympathies of virtually all nations are with China. But what would be the attitude if the cause of China were merged with that of Bolshevist Russia? No nation can be indifferent to the spread of communism. World opinion would doubtless conclude that even Japanese imperialism would be better for China than Soviet communism.

Soviet Russia threatens to complicate the situation. It is by no means improbable that Moscow sees in the Far Eastern crisis an opportunity to spread bolshevism and strike a blow in the direction of world revolution. Developments in Moscow will be watched with the most intense interest.

DEMOCRATS FAVOR TARIFF.

Tariff protection may be anathema to Democratic orators, but it looks like manna from heaven to the Democrats of Arizona. The Sunset State sends a solid Democratic delegation to Congress, yet that delegation can plead more vehemently for tariff protection than any other group, save the oil lobby.

Senator Ashurst feels insulted because "opponents of the Democratic party have attempted to staple to that party the epithet 'free trade'." In spite of the tirades by former Gov. Byrd, Senator Hull, Senator Harrison, and virtually every other Democratic leader who has already secured all the duties that his State needs, Senator Ashurst insists that the Democrats believe in protection against foreign competition. Was it not James Madison—"a great Democrat"—who piloted through Congress the first tariff bill? The very first measure that the new Congress adopted was designed, in addition to revenue purposes, for "the encouragement and protection" of America's industries.

In view of the present mood of his constituents, Senator Ashurst considers this a great heritage for the Democratic party. "Democrats," he told the Senate, "should assert themselves and vehemently point out these facts."

Arizona wants a tariff on copper. Representative Douglas, Democrat, of that State, has introduced a bill for that purpose. Senators Ashurst and Hayden, both Democrats, are doing their utmost to destroy the Democratic myth that protection and depression are synonymous. Let the oracles continue to spout that the tariff has ruined trade and brought on the depression, but the Democrats of Arizona will still maintain that it is the lack of a copper duty that has brought distress to their State.

Democrats in the oil-producing States plead with no less vociferation for a duty on petroleum. The "iniquities of the tariff" soon melt away when it is applied to industries of Democratic States. In the face of these organized drives to tax two imports that are now admitted free the howl of the central Democratic organization against the Smoot-Hawley act sounds like a wind blowing through an empty barrel.

A COALITION FOR PINCHOT.

Opportunity knocks at the door of Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania. For months the governor has kept the trail hot between Harrisburg and Washington. With indefatigable energy he has sought a candidate to oppose President Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination. But every wily insurgent in Congress has let him down. What is there left for the governor to do, except to run himself?

During all the time that Gov. Pinchot has been paying mysterious visits to Washington he has been credited with having a presidential bee in his own bonnet. For the most part he has spent his time trying to induce other insurgents to run, but there are indications that he only hoped they would return the compliment. Senators Borah, Johnson, Norris, Nye, Cutting and the rest of them have put an independent campaign out of their minds. It would be hopeless from the beginning; so why waste energy on it? Only Gov. Pinchot retains faith in his illusions.

The governor ought not to be discouraged. Here is his great opportunity. He can oppose President Hoover for the nomination without opposition from any of his insurgent confreres. Nor is it necessary for him to enter the fight alone. Is not that stalwart son of Maryland, former Senator Joseph I. France, campaigning against the President? Already Dr. France is able to predict that on March 8 he will have 296 delegates from the primary elections compared with none for President Hoover. Let the Pennsylvania governor take Dr. France into his camp on a compromise. Pinchot and France! There is a team that could turn the heads of insurgents giddy with enthusiasm.

If the governor moves adroitly he might be able to induce Gov. Alfalfa Bill Murray of Oklahoma to join forces with the rebels. Alfalfa Bill is out for the Democratic nomination, but he is insurgent at heart. He might feel more at home under the radical Pinchot banner. The Pennsylvania executive could plead for Federal handouts to the States and a dole for the unemployed. Gov. Murray could expound the bayonet methods he uses to make Oklahoma prosperous. Dr. France might qualify as an international expert, preparing the way for an era of world peace by the magic of oratory.

All hail America's rebel triumvirate! Let the forces of darkness depart, so that the glorious light of bigotry may flood the land!

NORRIS VS. HUMAN RIGHTS.

That brilliant constitutional lawyer, Senator Norris, is trying to push through the Senate a bill to override the Supreme Court. The chief feature of his so-called anti-injunction bill would render illegal all contracts between employers and employes wherein the latter agree not to join a labor union. In three different cases the Supreme Court has held that such contracts are valid and that no legislative body has authority to outlaw them.

Senator Hebert read into the Congressional Record extensive quotations from these decisions, which clearly uphold the right of contract as guaranteed in the Constitution. The senator from Nebraska can not ignore these decisions, but he feels certain that if Congress should accept his bill as a gesture of public policy the Supreme Court would reverse its stand so as not to disagree with him.

The right of free contract is deeply imbedded in the Federal Constitution. In the case of Adair vs. the United States the Supreme Court said:

> It is a part of every man's civil rights that he be left at liberty to refuse business relations with any person whomsoever, whether the refusal rests upon reason, or is the result of whim, caprice, prejudice or malice. It is also his right to have business relations with any one with whom he can make contracts, and if he is wrongfully deprived of this right by others, he is entitled to redress. * * * In such particulars the employer and the employe have equality of right, and any legislation that disturbs that equality is arbitrary interference with the liberty of contract which no government can legally justify in a free land.

In an entirely different case the supreme tribunal says that the right to contract "can not be infringed by the legislature without violating the letter and spirit of the Constitution." An employer has a clear right to close his shop to union labor and to contract with his employes on that basis. Likewise, labor unions have a right to contract with employers for the exclusion of nonunion men. In either case the contract is recognized as legal and beyond interference by legislative power.

Organized labor ought to be the last group to assault the freedom of contract. For centuries workingmen fought for the right to sell their services to whomsoever they pleased. Now organized unions of laboring men are seeking to limit the freedom of individuals who do not care to join with them. To encroach upon the rights of free contract would be to turn back on the road to vassalage again.

No one can deny that there have been abuses under the present system. Employers sometimes take advantage of men in dire circumstances by forbidding them to organize. The answer to that is better and more intelligent organization of workingmen—not limitation of the right to contract. If that right is once abridged it will be further weakened in the interests of powerful organizations that want all men to conform to their desires.

The Norris bill is an assault upon the declaration of human rights in the Constitution. Senator Norris asks Congress to adopt a policy that has already been pronounced unconstitutional. It will be surprising if the Senate should waste its time on such nonsense when there is a large volume of urgent legislation awaiting action.

JAPAN'S FIGHTING FORCE.

The German war machine in 1914 was more powerful in nearly every branch than is the Japanese organization today. Yet, according to American Army and Navy officers, it was no more efficient than Japan's machine is now, man for man. While testifying before a House committee Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of operations of the Navy, asserted that Japan had the most efficient fighting machine the world had ever seen. This statement has been challenged by several authorities, yet many experts agree that, from the standpoint of unified command the national defense system of the Japanese is superior to that of any other nation.

A force of about 250,000 men, well equipped and trained, comprises the Japanese army, while an organized reserve of about 1,900,000 has been trained for regular service. The air forces compare to advantage with any other nation. In active service there are 800 to 850 planes, with 250 to 260 in "immediate reserve," while there exists a much larger and undisclosed number in ordinary reserve. The navy air force numbers about 800 planes, with a personnel of 9,877 officers and men.

The London Treaty rates the Japanese navy numerically smaller than that of England and the United States in battleships. The great Mutsu and her sister, the Nagato, of 32,720 tons each, head the list of Japan's first line of battle, consisting of ten capital ships. Two of her aircraft carriers are of 26,900 tons each, while a third is of 7,470 tons and another nearing completion runs to 7,600 tons. The strength of Japan's heavy cruisers is exactly equivalent to that of this country, eight ships in commission and four under construction.

Small light cruisers form an important feature of Japan's operations against China. Of these ships, carrying 6.1 or smaller caliber guns, she had seventeen in service and one under construction. Japan's submarines and destroyers are rapidly nearing the treaty maximum. These ships are all well manned and kept in good condition, making for a navy of the greatest efficiency.

LEAP YEAR

By JOHN ARMSTRONG,
In the Journal of Calendar Reform.

Fact and fable are strangely mingled in the history of leap year. What would seem to be fable is revealed as founded on fact, and what has long been accepted as fact is often discovered to have historical basis as slender as the estimable nursery tale of George Washington and his father's cherry tree.

For an illustration of a leap year legend that would ordinarily be dismissed as pure fancy, take the traditional privilege of the fair sex to propose marriage during leap year. It will surprise most of us to find that this privilege is based on actual legislation, enacted into law by Scotland 650 years ago; in the year 1288. Here is the actual wording of the Scotch law:

"It is statut and ordaint that during the rein of hir maist blissit Megeste, for ilk yeare knowne as lepe yeare, ilk mayden ladye of bothe highe and lowe estait shall hae liberte to bespeke ye man she likes."

The facts of the origin of leap year are on record in the 7-foot chiseled surface of the Tanis or Canopus Stone, a cast of which may be seen in the National Museum at Washington. This stone was discovered by Karl Lepsius, the celebrated Orientalist, at Tanis, Egypt, in 1866. It bears a long inscription in Egyptian and Greek, a decree under date of 238 B. C., establishing leap year in Egypt. The decree, freely translated, reads as follows:

"In order that it may happen that the matters decreed to be done at each season of the year may be done in accordance with the position which the heavens have with reference to the things which have to be performed at the present time (so that occasion may not be given and the case may not arise that some of the winter festivals should be observed in the summer, in consequence of the rising of the calendar star Sirius advancing one day every four years); and on the other hand, in order that some of the summer festivals shall not in the future come to be celebrated in the winter (a thing which has actually happened in the past and would happen again if the year always consisted of 360 days and 5 additional days, according to the current practice):

"It is commanded that from this time onward, one day—a festival of the good-doing gods—shall be added every four years, so that every man shall know that the small amount of time which was lacking in the arrangement of the seasons and of the year and in the rules which passed as laws for the knowledge of their movements, has been corrected, and that this correction has been supplied by the good-doing gods."

This was precisely the leap year which was brought from Egypt to Rome by Sosigenes, the Alexandrian astronomer whom Caesar commissioned to draft, the new calendar.

But it was so much of a novelty, and so poorly understood by the Roman authorities, that for a generation they mistakenly made every third year a leap year instead of every fourth. This continued until there had been twelve leap years when there should have been but nine, and to make the proper correction Emperor Augustus ordered the omission of leap year for twelve years.

Have the News Stands Come to This?

POST HASTE.

Chairman Raskob didn't have much success in his attempt to saturate the Democratic committee, so he now essays elucidation of Mr. Hoover's prohibition plans.

By adopting the draft convention as a yardstick with which to begin to start to commence to measure armaments, the Geneva conference feels it has made progress.

If a guard of 145 companions can be formed, the wet resolution will be dragged from beneath the committee room table and made to take what is coming to it on its feet before the bar of the House.

Some Californians want to post Will Rogers for the Presidency, and they are checking up to see which party he has guyed least.

Those 2 per cent bonds won't make you rich unless you have an ungodly amount hoarded, but they will be a heap sight safer than cash in a backyard cache.

The world is beginning to wonder whether it underestimated Chinamen or overestimated Japanese.

Republican Treasurer Nutt pleads for lower political expenditures; the Democratic committee is already in the hole. Why not suspend the campaign this year since business conditions, not speeches, will decide the election?

Dr. France and Gov. Pinchot ought to effect some sort of combination so that each would be assured of two votes.

The most convincing assurance that could be given to offset the Russian fear of an invasion of Siberia would be for the Japanese to admit that honorable Shanghai, thank you, is quite a mouthful.

The good fight that Speaker Jack Garner is putting up to keep his name out of the State primaries shows that he would make a strong campaigner.

Congress must not cut the sales tax too thin. It might start a militant protest from us lower bracketeers if denied a chance to help support the Government.

Former Sheriff Farley thinks it is evidence of the picayunish days upon which we have fallen that a good Tammany man is called upon to account for an income that is a mere 2,400 per cent in excess of his salary.

Quite a number of Americans are pleased to see Uncle Sam flying a Chinese kite instead of being just one of the bobs on its tail.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE FISH FLY.

A fish fly from the waters flew
As millions of its fellows do
And circled for a time in air,
Fitfully darting here and there
Serving no purpose I could see
And yet it interested me.

It had been born and life it had,
But knew not neither good nor bad,
Nor God, nor man, nor home, nor place
And yet it had a certain grace
And seemed to move as though it knew
Just what it came to life to do.

In those brief moments of its time
It passed from youth to splendid prime,
Gazed at the world and left behind
The seed to reproduce its kind,
But watching it, I could not read
Into its life one earthly need.

Then as I stood to ponder there,
A swallow darted through the air
Bolted that fish fly, grown to age
And closed its brief mysterious page.
Thus, from the swallow's point of view,
Fish flies a useful service do.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY Dear Louise: When I was your age I was almost grown. So far as I could see, I was in all ways like other men. And since the others had no apparent advantage or peculiarity, except whiskers, I saw no reason to think them endowed with superior intelligence.

I suppose you feel the same way about it when you aren't permitted to use your own judgment. If you have a normal mind, why isn't it as trustworthy as the mind of a cranky old dad?

The explanation lies in the fact that wisdom is a product of stored-up knowledge. And knowledge is gained by experience.

A young mind may be keener than an old one, but the youngster who possesses it lacks the sound judgment that comes with age.

Youth lives only in the present moment, unmindful of the cost, while old age sees three jumps ahead. That's the difference.

A mind stored with the knowledge gained by much experience will automatically and subconsciously consult its stock of facts, balancing one against another, and thus produce a decision that is sound and wise.

A young mind can't do it because it hasn't an equal stock of goods. The man who has saved up $5,000 may have newer and brighter coins than the man who has saved $50,000, but the larger collection affords better security.

And that, my dear, explains my occasional insistence that you accept my judgment instead of your own. You have the ability to make decisions, but you are short of material.

That shortage is what makes so many of the world's rules seem silly. Many times you are tempted to rebel—especially when the world interferes with your plans or whims and offers no explanation.

But there is an explanation and a very simple one. The rule that irritates you is a product of long experience, arrived at by a process of trial and error. It represents mankind's best judgment and comes to you as a heritage from the centuries.

There must be rules in any game, and usually they are reasonable and necessary. The rules of life are like that. Examine any one of them, my dear, and you will realize what a mess the world would be without it. Love,

DAD.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

A Dark Shadow From Oklahoma.

Boston Transcript.

Little attention has been paid by New England Democrats to the now announced candidacy for President of William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, Governor of Oklahoma, but it is reported to be sending cold shivers down the backs of some of their conferees elsewhere who are capable of thinking of candidacies in terms of issues and not altogether of men. For Alfalfa Bill is no longer regarded wholly as an eccentric. As the acknowledged leader of a revived Bryanism, as the outspoken apostle of free silver, he can conjure up a ghost that will shake the knees of the Democratic captains of industry who are now so potent in party affairs. Of course he has Oklahoma behind him; he has entered in the primaries of North Dakota, and may win. He threatens to walk away with the Kansas delegation, and in a recent newspaper poll in Iowa he drew 4,777 votes to 3,920 for Roosevelt, and it is said he would have beaten the New York governor 2 to 1 if the tenant farmers and the laborers in the cities had been canvassed. In addition, Colorado, Wyoming, Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Montana and Nevada are free silver States, more or less, and while Gov. Murray may not get all their delegates, his platform of 16 to 1 may command their ardent sympathy.

No Trickery!

Minneapolis Journal.

The dry leaders in and out of Congress want prohibition continued in effect, and without modification. A great many citizens and newspapers—probably a heavy majority of all citizens and newspapers—want the same thing, at least until there has been ample time for the success or failure of what President Hoover has called an "experiment noble in purpose."

But let those in charge of the dry strategy down in Washington scorn the temptation to resort to parliamentary trickery of one sort or another for the furtherance of their cause. Let there be hatched no schemes to prevent congressional votes on moot wet-dry questions. Let there be, in short, no resort to the tactics that for years before 1920 were employed by the wet forces to foil and circumvent the drys.

A New Hoover Moratorium.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

The burden of work on the President is tremendous at all times, but especially now that so many difficult decisions await his judgment. It is not surprising, therefore, that Mr. Hoover has declared a new moratorium, this time on the highly developed art of presidential handshaking.

With the decades, it has come to be an accepted tradition that the Chief Executive is the symbolic head of the State, available for countless ceremonial functions, obliged to shake the hand of every citizen who troubles to saunter up the curving walk of the White House and offer his hand.

However expressive of our democratic spirit, the tradition is a foolish one, for the President is loaded down with a burden of cares matched in no other public office of the world.

Virginia Democrat Says States Can Vote Local Option if They Wish.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your corerspondent, Mr. Frank H. Page, in his letter appearing in The Post on Wednesday, reasons that the agitators for repeal or modification of the prohibition law "are confronted with a dilemma from which there is no escape." It is quite true that all of us who face the eighteenth amendment stare at a dilemma, but it is entirely too early to declare that there is "no escape" from the monster.

It will be recalled that it took several score of years for the advocates of prohibition to secure the adoption of the eighteenth amendment, and even then it could not have been adopted had it not been for the World War, a period of great stress and anxiety which was seized upon as the psychological moment in which to secure its enactment. Considering, therefore, the long number of years it took to secure the amendment, the progress made up to now for its repeal is by no means disheartening, even to the most ardent wet.

Moreover, up to a short time ago statements of those opposed to prohibition, to the effect that drinking and crime have greatly increased since prohibition, were flatly denied by the advocates of prohibition. But only a few days ago the Attorney General of the United States testified before a committee of Congress that 50 per cent of the time of his office was devoted exclusively to violations of the prohibition law, according to the press reports of that meeting.

There has, within the last 12 months, been a great movement from the dry to the wet cause, as evidenced by the elections all over the country. The people are indeed becoming aroused as the truth is becoming known.

Nor is it correct to say that the advocates for repeal or modification are "a house divided against itself," which is refuted by the bill recently introduced in the House for 4 per cent beer, or the bill now being advocated to return the question to the States for their separate determination. The principle of personal liberty would not be violated if, under such a provision, a State decided on local option. The question would be settled by the voters of that State, and the majority would rule, as in the case of all other acts which the State passes. There are doubtless some people who will oppose any and all laws enacted in the several States, but this is no reason for the claim that one does not enjoy personal liberty.

Navy Cut Endangers American Safety—Vigorous Demand for All-American Policy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Congress, preaching economy, refuses to build up the American Navy to its treaty limits, saying that it is imperative that the Government shall save as much money as possible. As an American citizen I can not, in any way, see how we are saving money by allowing our Navy to suffer. We "save" now, but when war comes, as come it will, our savings will be for naught, as we must then expend enormous sums in a sudden frantic effort to build ships that should have been already in service.

The American people do not want to save money in this way. They want our Navy to be a true representative and guardian of the greatest country in the world.

Certainly other nations were anxious for naval-limitation treaties like the one now in effect, because they knew that the United States, with more funds, better material, better designs, and better workmanship would soon outstrip them on the high seas if something wasn't done about it.

Who are we to sit idly by and let a couple of foreign nations tell us what to do and what not to do?

Somewhere in this great land there must be a leader who will bring us back to our standing of Washington's time, where a puny 4,000,000 Americans told the British Empire where to head off, while today a mighty America of 120,000,000 persons allows its affairs to be controlled by some half-baked foreign nation of one-third our population.

I am heartily disgusted, and, like 90 per cent of our people would say, "To hell with Europe and its trickery. I have troubles enough right here at home."

JOHN LARSEN DRINKWATER.

Suggests Illumination of F Street on Gala Occasions.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The City of Washington has risen to the occasion of gaily bedecking its principal streets and buildings with countless numbers of American flags. It was an inspiriting sight on Tuesday to see these flags fluttering in the sharp breezes that were blowing, and with the host of visitors here the city has taken on a gala appearance. There are some merchants, however, on F street, who never rise to the occasion of decorating on festive occasions. This was very noticeable during the Christmas season and is very noticeable now.

If the Commissioners of the District would have electric lights strung on either side of F street from the Treasury to Ninth street, that street would have a gala and festive appearance at night and would attract thousands of promenaders from among the visitors and the Washingtonians. I am sure the theaters and the merchants would be willing to pay their pro rata share of the expense. These electric lights could then be continued through the holiday season.

Graft Prosecutor Jailed in Contempt

Chicago Official Gets Five Days After Snapping Fingers at Court.

Chicago, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, who for two years prosecuted the $5,000,000 graft case involving former sanitary district officials, was himself sentenced to the county jail today for contempt of court.

Judge Philip L. Sullivan ordered him to serve five days in jail and pay $500 fine for snapping his fingers at the Court, indulging in belligerent and defiant acts and inspiring an "outrageous evasion of a writ of habeas corpus."

The contempt citation resulted from an incident of the sanitary district trial, in which Northup succeeded in convicting four defendants. Judge Sullivan sentenced James H. McQueeny, an extradition messenger for Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, to a 30-day term for indirect contempt and fined two of Northup's assistants $300 and $100 for similar offenses.

Mr. Hoyt, whose golden days in the pitcher's box were served with the New York Yankees, is now in the South seeking a baseball connection for the coming season. He and the former Dorothy Pyle were sweethearts as students at high school.

$800 Shoe Store Haul Includes All but Boxes

Princeville, Ill., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—If the fellow who took all the shoes from the Princeville Shoe Store will kindly call again he may have the boxes, too.

Imagine the embarrassment of the proprietor today when he pulled out a shoe box to wait on a customer and found it empty. He tried another, and it, too, was empty. The proprietor had quaint things to say about a burglar with a sense of humor who removed the entire stock—$800 worth of shoes—and filed every empty box back where it belonged.

Seized Gangster Criticizes Police

Suspect in Cleveland Murder Brags of His Sharp Wits.

New York, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—After he had been identified as the perpetrator of a New York holdup and had been told he was going back to Cleveland to face a murder charge, "Smiling Joe" Filkowski sent for reporters today and grinned through the bars of his cell as he bragged of outwitting the police.

"They're hounding me out in Cleveland," said the sullen-faced gunman, who has spent 13 of his 29 years in prison.

"Why?" he was asked. His face lighted up with the smile that gave him his underworld sobriquet. "Because when I got away I made a fool of them out there."

Lloyd George Has Severe Cold.

London, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—David Lloyd George, former leader of the Liberal party, will be confined to his home for several days because of a severe cold.

Income and Gasoline Tax Increased in New York

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Fifty per cent increases in the State's personal income and gasoline taxes became effective with the signature today by Gov. Roosevelt of two emergency revenue measures passed by the New York Legislature.

The income tax is retroactive to incomes for 1931, returns upon which are due on April 15. The gasoline tax will be in operation within a few days. The new tax is three cents a gallon.

Economy May Fix End Of Power Investigation

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Trade Commission may have to drop its searching investigation of the electric power industry unless something is done about the economy ideas of the Budget Bureau.

The budget cut $390,000 off the commission's request for $1,626,000 for the next fiscal year. Commissioner Humphrey said this would involve dismissal of about 180 employes and dropping a number of investigations now under way.

NEW TENOR MAKES DEBUT IN CAPITAL

Charles Cosentino Presents Program Sponsored by Mrs. W. N. Roach.

Charles Cosmo Cosentino, New York tenor, made his Washington debut in recital at the Congressional Club yesterday afternoon, under the sponsorship of Mrs. William N. Roach, widow of Senator Roach, of North Dakota.

His first number, the aria "Che Gelida Monina," from Puccini's "La Boheme," was sung with the spirit and dramatic quality, characteristic of Mr. Cosentino's art. Toselli's "Serenade," which followed, a direct contrast, was an excellent vehicle for his fine phrasing and tone control.

The second group of songs was of especial interest for the composer. Miss Pauline Winslow accompanied the artist. Included in this group were "Seeking," "Only One Hour," dedicated by the composer to the Metropolitan star, Martinelli, and "Roses of Youth." Prolonged applause showed the appreciation of the audience for Mr. Cosentino's sympathetic rendering of these charming compositions.

Voice Wins Compliments.

His voice, of extraordinary beauty and power, has been compared with Gigli's by critics who heard him at his recent concert in Carnegie Hall.

And his concert here more than fulfilled the expectations of those who had looked forward to hearing him. Rarely does one hear in so young an artist—he is only 27 years old—a voice of such lyric sweetness, combined with dramatic power, excellent enunciation and intelligent interpretation.

Mr. Cosentino's final numbers, "O Sole Mio" and "Mother Machree," sung at popular request, brought a climax to the enthusiasm which greeted this young artist. In these numbers the purity and richness of his tone quality, the finished artistry and the feeling with which they were sung, give promise of a great future for this comparatively unknown artist.

Miss Winslow Praised.

Much credit is due Miss Winslow, both for her compositions and her work at the piano.

Samuel Harwell, composer and pianist, also contributed to the program, playing Debussy's prelude, Paderewski's well known nocturne and two numbers of his own composition, prelude and etude.

Minnie Church Pollock, sister-in-law of Channing Pollock, gave several dramatic selections, accompanied by Miss Winslow, composer of the musical settings. Among these were a Browning group and characterizations of four of Channing Pollock's sketches, "The Land of Heart's Desire," "My Little Boy," "Life," and "Christian Science."

Post Washington Essays Timely, Sidwell Asserts

Principal of Friends School Holds Study of Patriot Prompts Insight.

Greater familiarity with the wisdom and achievements of George Washington as a means of calling the people of this generation back from wild excesses and selfishness to a saner and simpler life is one of the effects of The Post Washington Essay Contest, Thomas W. Sidwell, principal of Friends' School, indicated in his comment on the essay contest yesterday.

"The Washington Post is doing good work by stimulating interest in the life of George Washington," Mr. Sidwell said. "A more intimate acquaintance with this great American will enrich the lives of all who make this study, and will afford a deeper insight into the great struggles and sacrifices of Washington and of those who gained our independence and laid the foundations for a great Nation.

"At this time in particular we need a greater familiarity with the wisdom and achievements of this man to call us back from our wild excesses and selfishness to a saner and simpler life," he continued.

"There is now available a wealth of information relating to Washington and access to the many places where he lived that will enable us to know him as he was and to appreciate more fully his great character and service to his country. No one can know Washington without being a better citizen."

Additional Washington Compositions Received

Among the essays received yesterday were those from Mary Schwartz (age 12), 628 E street southwest; Joseph A. Sullivan (age 13), 2923 Tenth street northeast; Samuel Poole (age 12), Germantown, Md.; Adele Hayhoe, 925 Sixth street southwest; Charlotte Mirick (age 9), 3314 Newark street; Elizabeth Kelly (age 13), 439 Sixth street southwest; Margaret Louise Core (age 16), 2310 Connecticut avenue; Ella M. Two of Rival Clan May Solve Killings

Cleveland's Triple Gang Slaying Linked With Lonardo Brothers.

Cleveland, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—On two kinsmen of the Lonardo brothers, one-time barons of Cleveland's corn sugar industry, detectives tonight rested their hopes of solving a gangland vendetta that has cost seven lives.

Angelo Lonardo, nephew of the slain "Big Joe" Lonardo, and his cousin, Dominic Suspirato, were regarded by detectives as the key men who could explain yesterday's triple execution on Woodland avenue's "bloody corner."

Suspirato was held for questioning, while a search was under way for young Lonardo and other Lonardo henchmen. Lonardo and Suspirato were freed last November in a second trial on a charge of slaying "Black Sam" Todaro, lieutenant of the rival Porello clan, two years ago.

Meanwhile detectives said they learned yesterday's victims—Raymond and Rosario Porello and their bodyguard, Domenico Gueli—were slain when a truce between the Porello and Lonardo factions was broken. None of them was armed, all apparently thinking themselves secure.

U. S. Puts Guards At Capone's Cell

Terry Druggan Is Defeated in Effort to Avert Trip to Prison.

Chicago, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The Government today gave two front rank gang leaders further tastes of its authority. Federal guards were posted at the jail cell of "Scarface" Al Capone for a vigil which will extend around the clock daily until the gang chieftain is taken to Leavenworth Penitentiary or cleared of a conviction on income tax fraud.

A few hours later Terry Druggan, pioneer beer peddler of the prohibition era, was ordered taken to Leavenworth Prison by Federal Judge John P. Barnes to start serving a 30-month sentence for income tax evasion. Disregarding pleas of ill health which kept Druggan behind when his former partner, Frank Lake, was taken to the prison several weeks ago, Judge Barnes ordered Druggan taken to Leavenworth tonight.

By the guard about Capone's cell the Government authorities hoped rumors regarding loose custody of the gang leader in the county jail would be stopped.

Heroic Sea Captain Gets Gold Medal of Congress

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—A bluff old captain who knows his ship, his men and his lakes beamed satisfaction as he stuck out his chest today to receive a gold congressional medal for his life-saving exploits in 37 years of seafaring.

Capt. Charles H. Mohr received the medal. On September 26, 1930, he almost foundered his own freighter in a 55-mile southwester taking seven men off the sinking Our Son, last sailing schooner on the Great Lakes. Before that he had saved twenty lives.

Loudoun Physician In Far East Relief

Dr. J. R. B. Branch Aiding at Red Cross Hospital; U. S. Women Help.

Shanghai, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—American women are willingly aiding in this emergency which has filled Shanghai's hospitals with wounded soldiers, many of them mere boys.

Mrs. O. J. Bryant, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Roscoe Hambleton, of Long Beach, Calif., are on active duty at the Chinese General Red Cross Hospital, where there also are four American physicians, Dr. Athria Mowreath, a Fort Worth, Tex., woman; Dr. J. R. B. Branch, of Loudoun County, Va.; Dr. Love Ranging, Sweetwater, Tenn., and Dr. R. S. Lyman, Hartford, Conn.

They are putting in long hours without complaint, for the wounded stream into the wards day and night. They see war at its worst, for only the most serious cases are brought to their hospital. The victims are appallingly young, some of them not more than 14 or 15—boys who never will see again, children who have lost legs and arms, others frightfully wounded about the face.

Mother of 2 Gets Dry Law Sentence

Brandywine, Md., Widow Given 18 Months in Reformatory.

Mrs. Naomi Higgs, of Brandywine, Md., widow, and the mother of two children, was sentenced to eighteen months in jail yesterday when she pleaded guilty in Federal court in Baltimore on liquor charges.

She was charged with sale and possession after Samuel McLean, a prohibition agent, arranged to buy a large quantity of liquor from her every week. Joseph Brewer, leader of the Federal agents stationed at Waldorf, said that he had had numerous complaints about Mrs. Higgs selling liquor at her home. Mrs. Higgs will serve her sentence in the woman's reformatory

Mrs. Higgs appeared before Judge William C. Coleman last week and her case was referred to John F. Landis, Federal probation officer. In imposing sentence, Judge Coleman said Landis' report indicated that Mrs. Higgs had a reputation in the community for selling liquor.

Langley Workmen Charge Pay Slash

Complaint to Army Is That Doak's Wage Scale Is Violated.

(Associated Press.)

Attorneys for laborers at Langley Field, Va., yesterday laid before the War Department what they termed "conclusive evidence that the wage scale fixed by the Labor Department is not being observed."

The attorneys, Capt. C. C. Berkeley, candidate for lieutenant governor in 1929, and W. L. Carleton, both of Newport News, told Assistant Secretary Payne that some contractors, employed in building quarters for commissioned and noncommissioned officers at the field, were violating the law "by failure to pay the prevailing wage."

They asked back pay for carpenters and bricklayers, whose wages they said were below the legal scale, and assurance the proper wage be paid during the remainder of the work.

The scale fixed by Secretary Doak of the Labor Department last July, they pointed out, was 80 cents an hour for carpenters and $1.50 for bricklayers. In some cases, they said, the carpenters were paid from 40 to 65 cents an hour and bricklayers from 50 cents to $1.

Moss, alleged head of a Chicago bootlegging ring, was released in $10,000 bail today for hearing March 16 on a warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice. Moss was indicted by the Federal grand jury in Chicago for conspiracy to violate the customs and prohibition laws.

YOU'VE seen it in Movies... on bill-boards... in newspapers... and you've heard it over the radio. The famous slogan, "They Satisfy."

It means Chesterfields click... give smokers what they want. Now let us tell you the "reason why"!

Smoke-satisfaction in Chesterfield comes from just one thing... our rigid rule of making every Chesterfield cigarette the very best that money and science can produce.

That's why Chesterfield tobaccos are the mildest that grow. That's why the paper that's wrapped around Chesterfield is the whitest and purest cigarette paper made. That's why we not only blend our tobaccos... but cross-blend them. To bring out the fine flavor that is so definitely Chesterfield.

Everything the best... that's the whole Chesterfield story. Milder... taste better... pure. Good... they've got to be, because they're made that way. That's the reason why Chesterfields satisfy.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey—I have so much appreciated your Weight Guide in the column. Will you help me with my diet? I am 64 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 142 pounds. By following your suggestions I have already lost 6 pounds.

Thanking you for your courtesy.
E. T. G.

It is nice to know that you enjoy the colmun, E. T. G., and even nicer to know that you have really benefited by our advice. So much advice goes abegging, especially advice as to weight, eating habits and the like, that it is rather stimulating to feel that some of it really does fall upon fertile ground.

Now, about that weight of yours. You may be surprised to know that it is approximately correct. However, since it is better to weigh a little less rather than to be to any extent overweight after 50, I think it would be a wise precaution to continue with your reducing program. Just keep on as you have, and should you come upon any snag in the "royal road" do not hesitate to write for assistance. Watch your calories, keep up your spirit and take some moderate exercise every day. That is all that should be necessary to keep you fit. But in the event that a difficulty should present itself we shall be happy to advise you. Best of luck and thank you for your very nice letter.

Easter Salad Recipe Wins Post's Award

MRS. PEARCE P. SMITH.

Easter eggs are seen in a new setting in this week's Post $5 recipe award, "Easter Salad." In fact the formula is a good method for utilizing tinted eggs after the rolling days of Easter Monday are past.

The recipe was submitted by Mrs. Pearce P. Smith, of 2220 Perry street northeast. She has concocted a new and sightly salad in keeping with the seasonal tradition of Easter. The recipe follows:

6 Rockingham eggs
2-3 cup ground cooked ham
4 tablespoons Sanico mayonnaise

Cook the eggs hard, shell, chop and rub through a course sieve into a bowl. Add one-half teaspoon of salt, one-third teaspoon of dry mustard and a dash of pepper. Mix well and add the ham and mayonnaise. Blend well and form in egg shapes, dividing so there will be three eggs for each salad plate for four servings. Roll the eggs carefully in mayonnaise, then one-third in grated cheese, one-third in chopped pistachio nuts and the remaining third in minced parsley. Arrange them in a nest of shredded lettuce.

Genuine Chili Con Carne

Cut a pound and a half of the best boiling beef into pieces about 2 inches square, cover with water and boil until very tender (about 3 hours, more or less—this is very important). Put 2 large Mexican dried red chili peppers to soak in hot water enough to cover them after taking out seeds; soak until soft (about 10 minutes). Then rub them to a paste in a mortar, using a little of the water in which they were soaked.

If it is not possible to obtain the genuine Mexican red chili peppers you may use the prepared powdered form of peppers obtainable in most grocery stores—about one and one-half tablespoons for the above quantity of meat—making the powder into a paste with a little warm water as above described.

Melt one tablespoon of lard in a large skillet—chop a medium-sized onion fine and saute in hot lard—add to this 5 medium-sized tomatoes (ripe) or half a can of tomatoes if canned tomatoes are used—after they have been put through a colander. Then add one cupful of the stock the meat was boiled in—boil a few minutes and thicken with a tablespoon of flour—salt to taste.

Now add the meat, bring to a boil and serve while hot. The above will serve five persons.

This receipt was learned from the Mexicans in Mexico by an American woman who lived in that country for many years.

Never put beans in chili con carne. In Mexico beans are served only as dessert, and when you get your beans you are through. If you wish to add an American touch to the above serve with mashed potatoes and hot biscuits, and, boys and girls, what a feast you have before you.

Dried-Beef Rolls.

6 slices dried beef
2 to 3 tablespoons dried beef, minced
1½ cups mashed potatoes
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
1 tablespoon butter
2 cups hard cooked egg sauce

Have large slices of dried beef, kept whole. Pour hot water over the slices and allow to stand 10 minutes, then drain. Add minced beef and pepper to potato. Spread each slice of beef with the potato mixture, roll up, fasten with toothpicks. Lay rolls in baking dish and dot with butter. Cover and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for twenty minutes. Pour sauce over and serve. Serves six.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Cheese Cake, Secretly Made, Attracts Attention; Fish Suggestion for Lent; Fried Chicken Cheap; Tulips Seen in Markets.

With a French family living in New York State rests the secret of concocting the unusually excellent cheese cake that is sold in one of the big downtown Washington markets. Even the marketer who sells this and other high-class bakery goods at the aforesaid market can not discover the method of its making. He knows only that its chief ingredients are pure cream, cream cheese, the best of eggs, and fine flour. The texture of the cake is extremely smooth. Any menu that includes it should also be extremely smooth to those who partake. The Meanderer knows, for she had a generous sample.

Several market stalls away from the New York cheese cake stands a stately pound cake—or several pound cakes—from Roanoke, Va. For ten years these pound cakes have been made at a stately homestead down there. The dealer will show the purchaser a picture of the old manor which is now the pound-cake bakery. Actual butter—no substitutes—and eggs are used in this cake. Again—shall the Meanderer confess, or boast?—the cake was sampled. The sample was nearly two weeks old, but no fresh cake was ever better than the two-week-old sample. Today there is to be a lemon-flavored pound cake from the Roanoke shop, a particular favorite.

Surely, next to the cake should go the fried chicken. When, the Meanderer and every one else wonders, has it been possible to buy a hothouse broiler for 30 cents a pound at this season? There have been winters in the last ten years, an expert marketer told the Meanderer, when hothouse broilers were as much as 90 cents a pound. Right now the same quality of poultry, for broiling or frying, is only 30 cents. That means that the average young chicken, weighting from 2 to 3½ pounds, can cost scarcely more than a dollar, easily less. These reasonable hothouse broilers, the Meanderer discovered at a big terminal market, where poultry is handled in a big way. Correspondingly, roasting and stewing chickens are but 28 cents and 25 cents per pound, respectively. The finest of capons costs but 32 cents a pound. Fancy turkeys are 30 to 35 cents a pound.

Maple sugar from Vermont, in clever wooden boxes resembling books, is one of Washington's most tempting sweets. The Meanderer saw it in a corner of one of the largest open markets. Another sweet found there, known as a "beauty roll"—evidently made of several plummy things—sells for only 5 cents. Genuine pralines, rich with pecans, are 10 cents each.

The freshest of eggs at only 20 cents a dozen! How many angel cakes will Washington see over Sunday? Surely dozens.

Tulips—triumphant over the turnips and other lowly vegetables neighboring the flower stand—are selling for the new low price of $1 a dozen, or $1 a pot. The colors are varied and lovely—orchid, yellow, pink, many shadings of red, and white. Another big bit of flower news is that daffodils are also reduced to $1 a dozen. For weeks flower marketers asked $2 for daffodils, probably the most irresistible of the spring flowers. Varicolored hyacinths are $1 to $1.50 a dozen. The highest priced flower in the market booths is the Easter lilly, now $3 a dozen. Lovely roses, such as the Columbia pink roses, are but $1 a dozen. The Meanderer found these flower prices at a centrally located Washington flower market.

Antipasto—perfect hors d'oeuvres—such as the most knowing Italian restaurant might offer, in a glass container to show tempting quality, attracts the discerning buyer in a corner of this centrally located market, where the Meanderer spent much time last week. Anchovies, sardines, olives, pimientos, cauliflower, capers, tuna fish and cherries show through the glass container.

Week before last the Meanderer searched for fresh fish as suggestions for the Lenten weeks. Salt fish suggest fully as appetizing Lenten meals. Herrings of high quality, such as the Bismarck herrings and the roll mops, sell at three for 25 cents. The name roll mops for fish is said to have come from the method of rolling the herrings about the pickles. Spiced sardines at 35 cents a pound and anchovies, also 35 cents a pound, are excellent Lenten suggestions.

The tasty soup nuts and the egg drops or farfel, both particularly fancied by Jewish cooks, but very nice for any table, sell in packages for 10 cents each in one market that the Meanderer visited.

LAYMEN PREACHING FEATURE OF TIMES

Dr. Glazebrook, William T. Page, Attorney Linton Busy as Preachers.

One of the most interesting signs of the times in religious circles is the prominence that laymen are taking in church services. They are not only doing the duties the church lays upon them, but they are coming forward as preachers of the gospel.

Among the news items that have come to the church editor this week are several which announce preaching engagements of laymen. How much significance is to be attached to this movement or renaissance one can not at the moment tell.

Dr. Larkin W. Glazebrook, a well-known physician of this city, has given up a large and lucrative practice to devote his whole time to the furtherance of the gospel. It is said that he was inspired to do this by the challenge of the commission on evangelism of the Episcopal Church. Dr. Glazebrook preaches at Epiphany Chapel tomorrow morning.

Attorney Is Preaching.

I. H. Linton, an attorney practicing at the Washington bar, is another layman drawn into sincere religious teaching. He has been giving much attention to Christian work and is frequently found occupying a pulpit. He preaches tomorrow evening at the Washington City Church of the Brethren.

Tyler Page, so long associated with the House of Representatives and for many years its clerk, is another consecrated layman who seems never so happy as when teaching and preaching correct moral principles. His talks are practical and very effective.

I had a long and very interesting chat with Tyler Page on the street car the other day and was struck with his sincere devotion to his Christian principles. He said something to me that probably 10,000 laymen in this city—maybe ten times that number—will indorse.

World Hungry for Gospel.

"The world," said he, "was never so hungry for the simple gospel as it was preached by Christ and his disciples on Judean hills. Whenever men talk to me on this vital question—and they often do—they emphasize the fact that it is the gospel and only the gospel that they wish to hear from the pulpit. They want something to reflect on during the week, something that will carry them over in comfort and solace to the next Sunday."

"You regard this as more important than a 'social' gospel?" I asked him.

"It is the only important message the pulpit has for an erring and stumbling world," he replied.

Much else that this splendid and noble Christian layman said to me on this subject emphasized what was in his heart, and what is in the heart of many other laymen who talk with this humble and erring Church Editor.

Famous Painting Topic of Sermon

Dr. McCartney to Preach on Hunt's "Christ at Sheepfold."

Holman's famous painting of Christ at the door of the sheepfold will be the inspiration of the morning sermon at the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church tomorrow. The minister, Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, will preach. The painting belongs to Oxford University and hangs in Keble College, being one of the adornments in its beautiful chapel. Hunt named his picture "The Light of the World." And that is the title of Dr. McCartney's sermon.

Keble College is one of the youngest foundations of Oxford University, dating no further back than 1870, when it was incorporated by royal charter. The intention of its founders was to establish a "college wherein sober living and high cultivation of mind may be combined with Christian teaching based upon the principles of the Church of England."

The college bears the name of the Rev. John Keble, poet and priest, who is very famous for his volume of religious verse known as "The Christian Year."

(Isaiah, 9:2.) The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christ, the divine manifestation of God, which comes to the flesh to destroy incarnate error . . . DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

IT is utterly ridiculous to believe that the public prefers cheap music to good music, or that the public would rather hear trick chattering of untrained voices than the full, beautiful melody of the true artist, Jack Adams, of New York, head of the Adams Broadcasting Service, declares. "If it is true that radio audiences are less intent on broadcast offerings than they used to be," Mr. Adams concluded, "the reason is because of the immense amount of twaddle the ether carries."

In substantiation of his theory that great singers can be as popular with the mass audience as crooners, Adams has just signed up Charles Hackett, operatic star, leading tenor of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, who up until now has withstood the broadcast lure.

New York City has been slow to get into the game, but its new police radio system is now in constant touch with 220 police patrol cars which are constantly cruising about the city.

PART of Leo Delibes' opera, "Lakme," revived by the Metropolitan Opera Co. for Mme. Lily Pons, coloratura soprano, will be broadcast from the Metropolitan Opera House this afternoon (WRC, 3 o'clock). Until the revival for Mme. Pons, this opera, in which she made her debut in Europe, had not been heard in the Metropolitan repertory for 15 years. First produced in Paris in 1883, "Lakme" tells of the unhappy love between the daughter of a Brahman priest and an English army officer.

In addition to Mme. Pons, in the title role, the cast will include Georges Thill, tenor; Leon Rothier, bass; Guiseppe de Luca, barytone; Gladys Swarthout, contralto, and Rose Dorothea Flexer, contralto. Louis Hasselmans will conduct the orchestra. Deems Taylor will be the narrator.

Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York, will be the speaker on the National Democratic Forum program, to be presented over WMAL at 2:30 p. m. today. His subject will be "The Home Rule Plan as Applied to the Eighteenth Amendment."

There was an unusual address by Fulton R. Gordon, suburban realty operator, over WJSV, on the "Dawn of a New Civilization"—a story which is being prepared for screen material by John Fredericks, scenes of which will be made in Fairfax County and around the Capital.

"I'm going to revolutionize civilization," Mr. Gordon told the radio audience. "I shall change our system of prosecution and replace prosecuting attorneys with doctors and mental scientists, remove human beings from the gruesome houses of torture known as prisons that further destroy the weak mind of the unfortunates that have been caught in the net of the so-called law and justice, and place them in the Valley of Instructions where they will be trained by brain specialists to guard against their mental defects, and the wealth of knowledge hidden in the brain cells of the so-called criminals will be trained so that the constructive will dominate the destructive."

AN anniversary program, commemorating the birthday of the American poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, will be presented over the WJZ network at 4 p. m. today. * * * Graham McNamee and Grantland Rice have worked together on the Coca Cola program for two years. During that time they have interviewed nearly a hundred celebrities. * * * "Jungle Drums," a drama of the African wilds will be presented during the First Nighter broadcast over the WJZ network at 9:30 o'clock tonight. * * * Phil Cook, one man army of voices, sits on a high stool while broadcasting. * * * George Hicks, the announcer, went to school in Tacoma, Wash., with Robert Short, American aviator, killed while fighting with Chinese forces over Shanghai. * * * Mrs. Mary Patterson Shelton, prominent in the Daughters of the American Revolution, will tell "How Our Women Can Best Safeguard America" (WJZ network, 2 o'clock this afternoon). * * * Chick Godfrey, the Singing Marine, will do a fifteen minute program from the studios of WJSV at 7:45 p. m.

Ernest Schelling will conduct the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra in a program of numbers requested by children attending the concerts and hearing them over the radio today (WMAL, 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.).

Following is the program:

Tone poem, "Finlandia" (Sibelius); "Japanese Nocturne" (Eichheim); Maestoso: Allegro, from Symphony No. 3 (Saint-Saens); "Battle Hymn of the Republic" (sung by the children); "Perpetuum Mobile" (J. Strauss), and "Ride of the Valkyries" (Wagner).

Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, and Dr. Max Winkler, international banker, will speak over WRC at 2 p. m. today during a luncheon of the League for Industrial Democracy.

IT is a difficult matter, invariably based on conjecture, to approximate even how much great artists are paid for appearing on the radio. Figures given by Variety as the fees of artists for concert appearances may serve as a basis of calculation. Although a radio performance may be only 15 minutes, 30 minutes or an hour, the artist participating is required to take as much time for such an appearance, frequently, as a concert would require.

Some of the fees being asked per concert, according to the theatrical publication, are Galli-Curci, $4,500; John McCormack, $4,000; Lily Pons, $4,000; Feodor Challapin, $3,500; Benjamino Gigli, $3,500; Rosa Ponselle, $3,500; Lawrence Tibbett, $3,250; La Argentina, $3,000; Yehudi Menuhin, $3,000; Serge Rachmaninoff, $3,000; Roland Hayes, $3,000; Maria Jeritza, $2,500; Giovanni Martinelli, $2,500.

Also, Jascha Heifetz, $2,250; Ernestine Schumann-Heink, $2,000; Elisabeth Rethberg, $2,000; Rosa Raisa, $2,000; Josef Hoffman, $2,000; Lucrezia Bori, $2,000; Mary Garden, $1,750; Claudio Muzio, $1,750; Paul Robeson, $1,750; John Charles Thomas, $1,500; Vladimir Horowitz, $1,500; Richard Crooks, $1,500; Duis Giannini, $1,500; Mischa Elman, $1,250; Myra Hess, $1,250; Edward Johnson, $1,250; Efrem Zimbalist, $1,200; Josef Lhevinne, $1,200 and Jose Iturbi, $1,100.

PADEREWSKI and Kreisler, who have not been heard on the radio in this country, are listed at $5,000 and $4,500 per concert, respectively.

Dr. Rasmussen Will Preach on Fickleness

Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen, minister of Luther Place Memorial Church, is preaching a series of Lenten sermons in the evening worship on "Sins That Crucified Christ." The subject for tomorrow evening is "Fickleness."

On Sunday mornings Dr. Rasmussen is preaching a series of sermons on prayer.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Sunsuits With Many Uses

YOU'LL have more use for these sunsuits than you can imagine, for all sorts of hot-weather wear, whether it be for the beach or at home. And especially if you make one like the Fig. 1 version, and make any one of the skirts illustrated below to match it. For this Fig. 1, make the upper part as illustrated, gathering it to the band which goes clear around under the bust, and buttons rather tightly to hold it in place. If you care to you can add a strip down the front which I have indicated with dotted lines, and gather the garment a little with this strip, too. And then make your shorts to match, have them button around the waist with a band, and there you are for one type of the sunsuit which you can wear to the beach or on the sun roof with perfect ease, and be sure of your full quota of sun and health!

Now, as I said, if you want to make any one of the skirts illustrated below of the same material, do so and wear it right over your sun panties. And if you want to go further and make a blouse which can be tucked in under the skirt and worn right over the brassiere part of the sunsuit, why do so.

Figure 2 is another version of sunsuit which has a very snugly fitting top effect due to the crossed bands which button in the back. And this suit has very short and tight shorts, worn under the little pleated skirt which buttons on over them.

Figure 3 has more shoulders and upper part, and can either be worn as illustrated, or leaving no opening between the blouse and shorts. Note how these shorts have inverted pleats which are sewn down to give a snug hipline.

Figure 4 is a novelty suit which pretends to be made out of handkerchiefs, but handkerchiefs that wouldn't dream of being as nonchalant as they look! The upper part of this sunsuit is made out of two handkerchiefs or handkerchief effects tied to shoulder straps, and the skirt is another handkerchief effect sewn right down to the pleated pantie shorts. And one large matching handkerchief is used as a shoulder scarf or cape—to regulate your sun tan!

In Figure 6 is another complete sun frock, over which one can wear a skirt like Figure 10, which goes on where I have indicated with the dotted line on Figure 6.

Figures 7 and 8 are skirts that are suitable to this type of a dress because they are easily laundered, and because they can be worn right over the shorts which match them.

As to materials, do look at some of the seersuckers and terry cloths that are procurable nowadays. Or shantung, or lightweight soft woollens, making sure that they don't scratch! And be sure to iron these and make them very, very tailored and nicely finished, so that they won't look like inexpensive garments.

Au Revoir.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

IS the Gypsophila repens the variety of gypsophila which is used in wall planting and rock gardening? JESSIE P.

Yes.

I have an Easter lily which is just opening its last bud. I understand that after the flowers are over I must continue to water the plant until all the foliage has turned yellow. After that what care should be given the plant?

MRS. VERNON B.

After your lily is through blooming, gradually cease to water it. When the foliage has turned yellow cease all watering and set the pot aside in a dark, cool place. In late May or as soon as the soil becomes warm remove the bulb from the pot and plant it in a sunny place in your garden. The plant should bloom again in late summer.

I sowed some seeds of poppies and cornflowers in the early fall. Now I am wondering if I made a mistake.

MRS. NELSON O. L.

You did a wise thing when you sowed the seed in the fall and will find that you have flowers much earlier than if you had waited and sowed the seed in the spring. Almost any annual which self-sows is hardy and may be planted in the fall.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

My crassula is beginning to lose its leaves; even bits of the main stalks fall off. I am careful to water it every day and I have it in the sun.

MARGARET G. K.

You are giving the plant too much water. Better water it thoroughly once a week. The crassula is a native of the arid stretches of Arizona and is, therefore, a desert plant demanding a great deal of fresh air and sunshine and very little moisture.

How do you plant the seeds of a Jerusalem cherry? HELEN H. K.

Wash the pulp from the seeds and sow in light loam. When spring comes transplant the seedlings out of doors.

Can you please tell me whether grass seed should be soaked in water for 24 hours before planting?

MRS. JOHN D. F.

No, the seed must be sown dry.

Can you please tell me how often to transplant peonies? Mine have been in the same location more than six years. Last year they did very well so I hesitated to move them.

MRS. JOSEPH B. D.

Peonies require transplanting about once in ten years.

I have a honeysuckle vine which has become a matted mass. It is impossible to prune the vine and all I can do is to cut it back to the root. Will this treatment kill the plant or will it begin to send forth new growth from the root?

MRS. MARY G.

Cutting back your honeysuckle will be sure to benefit it. It will soon send forth plenty of new shoots. The only way to keep a honeysuckle vine within bounds is to prune it every month. Some growers even advocate prunning every two weeks.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SOME RULES FOR FRACTURES.

THE committee on fractures of the American College of Surgeons gives us the following advice as to treatment:

A person with a fracture should not move or be moved until the fractured part has been splinted. The jagged end of the broken bones are liable to cut and tear arteries, veins, nerves and muscles if the fracture is unsupported and if the bones are not held rigid.

Even after proper splinting the injured member should be handled gently. When possible, traction should be applied to the fracture with the first-aid dressing. This is often, but not always, possible. When it can not be applied with this first-aid dressing the delay should be as brief as possible.

In the examination of a part for a fracture, the grating together of the fractured bones should be done as sparingly as possible. While feel and sound are of first class help in proving that there is a fracture, it does considerable harm to the soft parts.

Whenever possible, X-rays should be used to diagnose the fracture, and also to prove that the bones are in position when the fracture is set. Fractures of bony prominences and breaks close to joints are not easily located except by X-rays and fluoroscope.

Just what is the best method of putting up a particular fracture is for the physician to determine in each case. The committee report gives a preferred method for treating a fracture of each bone. This preferred method is to be regarded as the rule, but each case is to be thought of as a possible exception. The physician must exercise judgment based on experience in adapting the treatment to each case.

The permanent dressings should be put on without delay. It is a mistake to leave the fracture loosely held in a fracture box until the swelling has gone down. The quicker the bones are splinted and extension is applied the better, assuming the case to be one in which extension is called for. If the dressings are put on tightly enough to hold the bones perfectly rigid, the compression in the soft parts will be too rigid. If they are loose enough to be thoroughly agreeable to the soft parts the bones will not be held rigid enough. The physician must exercise good judgment in choosing a middle path.

Whenever a plaster cast is put on to encircle a limb, it should be cut longitudinally into two halves or parts.

The object of treatment is to get a useful part. Good repair is only a way station on the route to the ultimate aim. It must be regarded as the prime consideration.

Fractured bones and near-by joints must not be kept immobile until muscles have atrophied beyond repair and joints have become stiff.

As soon as possible, gentle stroking of the soft parts should be done. Later on, massage and passive motion must be carried out. These exercises should not cause pain. Heat and light, locally applied, help to repair the soft parts. As soon as possible there must be some use of the injured parts.

FIND THE CAUSE FIRST.

M. J. writes: I would appreciate if you would write as to how one may overcome nervous spells, such as tightening of the chest and nervous headaches. I have suffered quite a while from these. When the attacks come on I imagine things that I know are not true, and feel terribly depressed.

REPLY.

The first step is to make certain that the nervous spells are not symptoms of some organic disease, some affection of the brain or spinal cord or chest organs. If these possibilities are eliminated, there remains what may be termed the habit of nervousness or, better, the nervous personality. The cure for that is a matter of training. It is a question of behavior, attitudes and reaction. If the taking of medicine is of benefit under such conditions it is because of psychic effects.

CHLOROSIS.

Mrs. J. L. writes: Please write something about the cause and treatment of chlorosis. A girl of 18 has been troubled that way for about two years. She doesn't improve at all. I give her steak and chops, and also milk and cream to keep up her strength. She hates liver. She goes to school regularly and was graduated from high last June.

REPLY.

When corsets were abandoned chlorosis became infrequent. Have your daughter wear loose garments, especially in the liver region. Other than this she needs to follow the laws of hygiene: Exercise in the open air, sunlight, regular bowel habits, proper foods and possibly iron and copper tonics.

APPROACHING WITH SUIT BIDS.

NO persons can be said to have learned the basic principle of success in Contract until they accept without question the principle of approaching with low suit bids. Such bids, as I have frequently pointed out, do not reduce the number of safe no-trump game contracts, but actually increase them, because the distribution of the combined hands may be investigated readily by beginning the bidding with a suit bid of one, while opening with a no-trump bid tends to make much more difficult the disclosure of distribution. When vulnerable, the requirements for biddable suits should be shaded, provided the hand is not a minimum, in order to guard against the dangers of no-trump contracts. An Opening suit bid of one permits partner to respond on a lower range of bidding than an Opening no-trump bid, and the efficacy of this course is well illustrated on the hand below.

North—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

	♠ A J 8 3 ♡ A 5 4 ◇ A 9 ♣ A 10 9 4
♠ K 7 2 ♡ 10 8 7 2 ◇ Q 7 5 4 ♣ Q J	N W E S	♠ Q 10 9 4 ♡ Q 9 3 ◇ K J ♣ 8 7 5 3
	♠ 6 5 ♡ K J 6 ◇ 10 8 6 3 2 ♣ K 6 2

The Bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♠	Pass	1NT	Pass
3NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Had North opened the bidding with a bid of one no-trump, South could not possibly respond, as the hand contained no biddable suit and did not hold sufficient honor-tricks to justify raising the no-trump bid, but when North opened with one spade, South, lacking adequate support for spades and 1½ honor-tricks in the hand, of course responded with a bid of one no-trump. North, holding all four Aces and other values in the hand and reading his partner's hand to contain a minimum of 1½ honor-tricks, raised his contract to three.

The play, as it will be observed, is not difficult. The contract, of course, was made.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The corner stone of successful Contract bidding is the accurate use of the Approach principle, which permits the exchange of information between partners, as a violation of it precludes it.

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

IF February 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:50 a.m. to 10 a.m. from 2 p. m. to 3:15 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:20 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:25 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m.

February 27 is augured as being a critical time, especially in the more personal side of life, and family difficulties will have to be solved. Good influences will be at work, but their effect will not be felt until a later date. A difficult time for elderly people through minor health troubles.

Children born on this February 27 will have keenly sensitive natures, and their lives will be deeply colored by their childhood impressions. They will require sympathy and understanding, for they will be creatures of varying moods. They will be far more affectionate than they appear to be.

Born February 27, your ability to talk will win both admiration and enemies. You are wrapped up in yourself, and you do and say everything with an eye to personal effects. You are a very poor listener and are visibly unhappy when you can not have the floor. You have more sentimentality than depth of feeling. You exaggeratedly flaunt both your joys and your griefs before the world; you only think and act in superlatives. You are excitable and are easily swept off your feet by emotional storms. You have an uncertain temper and are either very approachable and full of sunshine or most unapproachable and like a thunder cloud.

There is little fixity of purpose in your "make-up," and you often go off at a tangent before you reach your original goal. You do not lack intelligence, but it is difficult for you to keep your thoughts collected. It is hard for you to get down to brass tacks or to keep your feet long enough for you to see ungarnished, cold facts.

Your mate must not expect too much stability of your affections, for you are susceptible to flattery and love to be loved.

Successful people born February 27:

J. Campbell Phillips, portrait painter.

FRANCES M'DONALD

A Man's View.

REMEMBER Quandary who wanted to know whether she should marry and support the only man who had ever given her a glance? Quandary said he was "rather frail" and a singer, unable to make his way in the world, and she had money enough to finance both if they married. He was willing that she should, had accepted money for clothes, &c., in fact $700, so Quandary asked us to put it up to the readers to decide. And today two men tell what they think of the matter. Will it matter to Quandary? Anyway here are the letters:

Dear Frances McDonald: That girl Quandary is balmy. What makes her think that no other man would ever love her? Ten to one she has never met the sort of men who would appreciate the quiet type of girl. She has seen the lurid ones being given the rush and has shriveled up in her shell and decided she was a wash-out. Let her get out where real men are, spend some $700 on her own clothes instead of on some tenor's wardrobe, and she will find that she can attract more than one man. To my way of thinking such an arrangement as she contemplates is immoral. She says she does not love him. Yet she would marry him and keep him just to have an escort like other women. The girl needs a doctor, not an escort. Tell her to lay off and take a trip for her health. That is no wisecrack. I mean it. She has been thinking too much about her lack of boy friends. I would tell her to go ahead in a minute if she had said that she had fallen for this shrinking violet. But she admits that she does not care about him except as a means of justifying her right to be called a woman. That is all baloney. Lady Vere de Vere herself would make no hit with a lot of stevedores. Let the girl get among people of her own kind and she will have plenty of attention. Go South, Quandary, and be made love to by moonlight and it will not cost you 700 cents! Certainly do something to take your mind out in the open before you make such a rash step.

JUST A MARINE.

Now, Quandary, you see, even with Shanghai in flames, the marines are worrying about you! Ever been to Quantico, Quandary? Not many tenors there but lots of barytones and just oceans of marines and tons of worldly wisdom. Better listen when the marines take a hand!

And now another man whose advice is almost the same. He just knows the wedding bells will ring for Quandary but he does not think much of the frail singer person:

Dear Frances McDonald: Regarding "Quandary" and her problem. Quandary and the Boy Friend are not the only parties to be considered. I dare say that when this young lady is 35 years old she will be safely married and have children!

The health of the child depends quite an extent on the health of its parents. Remote as they may seem to be at present, she owes those little souls a thought. Let's assume, too, that she married the helpless friend of whom she writes and in due time she finds it necessary to stay at home to care for her child—maybe to care for her husband also. Her work—what about that? Her property might vanish—a lot of 1929 property owners are now in the bread line. Care—what a word—a word that can be borne on two pairs of shoulders but becomes an overpowering burden when one attempts to juggle it alone—at first carefully with the zest and joy of the knowledge that she is helping—then carelessly when it becomes monotonous, routine, and eventually wearily when tired of it all, maybe sick herself. Wouldn't it be better for a woman to be able to look around her home and see a man with a good-looking pair of arms and a willing, energetic manner (even though he had a face like a Mack truck) than it would be to gaze on a Lord Byron—"Handsome in a rather frail way," Q. said—did she not? Horrors! To put it rather crudely (if not rudely), I fail to find qualities in him with which he might gain her respect. Yes, there's one quality—believe he is truthful—shamelessly truthful. It is very doubtful if she would ever despise him in view of the fact that he is "ill a great deal." Respect is something which he has already lost—respect, the forerunner of love.

Quandary, if you are in a position to do so, just hop down to Bermuda, and this summer go to Atlantic City—to Old Orchard Beach—take the night boat to Albany—any, or all of these trips to rid yourself of that complex that "no other man will ever love me" and I'll be the best man when you take your wedding trip to Niagara Falls.

THE ONCE OVER

THE LADIES PICK A WINNER.

Scene—Clubhouse lawn at any winter race track.

Clara—Well, what'll we pick in this one, Nellie?

Nell—Lemme see . . . Oh, there's a horse in this race named Grand Slam. And I nearly made one last week, remember? That ought to be a hunch.

Clara (very reflectively)—I like Allah's Dream.

Nell—Why?

Clara—I heard a man talking about it in the hotel lobby this morning? What do you like, Charles?

Charles—Fleet Fox is the form horse.

Nell (studying the entries again)—Here's one called Poetic Reveries. Isn't that sweet? I'll bet he wins.

Clara—Look! Night Edition is in this race, and I wouldn't be a bit surprised if he won it. I have a cousin who works nights on a newspaper.

Nell—Do you think Poetic Dreams has a chance, Charles?

Charles (a little disgustedly)—The charts show he was never better than eleventh in eight races. Fleet Fox is the standout horse. He won his last four starts.

Nell (going over the chart again)—Here's a horse named Carrots. I think he's a good bet. Carrots are my favorite vegetable.

Clara—Oh, there's a horse called Loose Change in this race. Remember how that clerk gave me all nickels for a $2 bill this morning? That means something.

* * * *

(The horses parade to the post with the ladies still trying to make up their minds.)

Nell—Look at No. 1! Isn't he beautiful. He has such a lovely arched neck. I'm going to play him.

Clara—No. 4 looks awfully good. I always like horses with white legs like that. What do you think, Charles?

Charles (glumly)—Fleet Fox is a cinch. Those ain't white legs on that No. 4 horse; they're bandages.

* * * *

Nell—Oh, Clara, look at that No. 6 horse! He's so cool and collected! And the others look so excited!

Clara (very suddenly)—I'm going to play that last horse, Red Nose II.

Nell—Why?

Clara—He's No. 11 and that's always lucky for me. My room at the hotel is 1111 and our compartment on the train was No. 11. Jennie Lee's last name.

Nell—I like that chestnut horse, Hotsy Totsy. The jockey looks so strong and determined. Come, before the windows are closed. You play Jennie Lee to place and I'll play Hotsy Totsy to show.

Charles (warningly as they rushed to bet)—You're crazy. Fleet Fox is as good as in. He's the form horse. You can't beat figures.

* * * *

(The girls rush to the mutuel windows. Nell changes her mind at the last minute and bets $2 on Carrots to win. Clara also has a belated hunch and bets $2 on Loose Change to place.)

THE RACING RESULT.

First—Flying Goose.
Second—Maggie Mooney.
Third—King Nabbo.

Clara—I had a hunch on Flying Goose on the way out to the track, but forgot it.

Nell—I heard a man tip her in the paddock, and I meant to bet on her.

Charles (still wondering what became of Fleet Fox)—It's all done by mirrors!

REACTION TO A FEBRUARY BULL MARKET.

The markets soar;
I join the tide,
But only for
A little ride.

The stocks are spry;
As up they go,
I hear a cry,
"Look out below."

Again I've bought
The blue chips, yet
I wish I'd thought
To bring a net!

There ought to be the material for a Mother Goose rhyme beginning, "Little Jack Garner sat in, &c.," but we can't think of a suitable rhyme.

The Chinese-Japanese fighting is kept up, say students of the Far East, because of the fear of both that they will "lose face." If the League of Nations expects to be of any service it should specialize in face-lifting operations.

BYRD ROAD PLAN BILL WINS VIRGINIA HOUSE

Only 7 Members Register Opposition; Senate Acts to Speed Measure.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The Virginia House of Delegates, with only seven dissenting votes, today passed the Harman bill carrying out former Gov. Harry Byrd's suggestions for taking over county roads and abolishing county road taxes.

The taxes abolished aggregate $3,400,000 a year and the relief would be effective this year for land and personal property taxpayers.

The bill carried an amendment providing that with the consent of the State Highway Commission a portion of the funds due counties for use on the secondary system, if the funds were more than needed for maintenance of the county road system, might be used to pay interest and principal on county road obligations.

The amendment first adopted did not give the highway commission exclusive authority in applying the funds to county road bonds, but a substitute amendment was adopted just before the bill passed.

Meanwhile the Senate roads committee in executive session reported out the Ferguson bill which, as introduced, was identical with the Harman bill in the House. The Senate acted without waiting for the House bill.

Cities Given Guarantee.

The Senate bill was amended to guarantee cities whose streets are traversed by highways $1,400 a mile for street maintenance, in lieu of the maintenance funds originally provided and estimated at from $750 to $1,000 per mile. The committee rejected a proposal to give cities the gasoline tax from buses operated only on city streets.

Another of its amendments would require a representative of the highway department to meet with county boards of supervisors at least twice a year, and a third amendment would provide for towns voting on county road bonds to be included in a levy to retire such bonds.

The Senate, while the House was passing the Byrd plan, "killed" the Porter bill placing an inspection tax of 5 cents a pound on oleomargarine sold in Virginia, and passed the Noell bill for the establishment of a nautical school at Virginia Polytechnic Institute from Federal funds.

Both houses suspended constitutional readings and passed a bill permitting the State to accept a gift of $100,000 from John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, for the erection of a State art museum. The gift is contingent upon private funds being raised and the bill provided that it may be located on the soldiers home property at Richmond, or other suitable property. Judge Payne had already given Virginia many valuable works of art, which are now in Battle Abbey.

To Increase Highway Board.

Bills went into both houses seeking to increase the membership of the State highway commission from five to nine, effective in July, the same date that the Byrd plan of setting up a secondary highway system from the 40,000 miles of county roads would be effective. The members would be appointed by the governor, one from each of the nine congressional districts.

It was evident from the start that the House of Delegates would pass the Byrd plan bill, an attempt to postpone action until Monday going down to defeat, 23 to 59.

Hugh Reid, of Arlington, was successful with an amendment providing that boards of supervisors in counties adjoining cities and having suburban sections, might turn the levy for street improvement over to the highway department to be expended under directions of the supervisors.

E. H. Allen, of Fairfax, sponsored an amendment which was adopted to provide that counties exempting themselves from the provisions of the act would share in any general increase in the gasoline tax, rather than continue the amount they received in 1931.

Oleomargarin Bill Lost.

The motion in the Senate to indefinitely postpone consideration of the oleomargarin tax bill was offered by Senator Saxon Holt, of Newport News, and the motion carried, 24 to 13, after a running debate with Senator W. H. East leading the defense of the bill. Senator E. E. Holland, of Suffolk, said the bill would not increase the consumption of butter; would not curtail the use of oleomargarin; would interfere with the market for peanut oil; would raise the price of the "poor man's butter," and would levy a tax which would cost more to collect than the State would realize.

The Noell nautical school bill, humorously referred to as the "Swiss navy or mountain marine bill," passed, 31 to 6. Instructors for the nautical school would be provided by the Navy Department and a practical training ship would be maintained, probably at Hampton Roads.

Senator Lloyd M. Robinette, of Lee, offered in the Senate a resolution permitting persons otherwise qualified to vote without payment of poll tax. He said the resolution would not abolish poll taxes, but would not require payment as a prerequisite to voting.

PALACE

"EMMA." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a story by Frances Marion, adapted to the screen by Leonard Praskins, with additional dialogue by Zelda Sears, starring Marie Dressler, supported by Jean Hersholt, Richard Cromwell, Purnell Pratt, Myrna Loy, Barbara Kent, George Meeker, John Miljan, Kathryn Crawford, Dale Fuller, Andre Cheron and Dorothy Peterson. Directed by Clarence Brown. Previewed Tuesday midnight.

By NELSON B. BELL.

It is its honest depiction of the familiar and homely virtues—and a few of the forgivable frailties—of normal American home life that sets this picture a little apart from its contemporaries; that makes it great, if greatness be inherent in a character that epitomizes all that is noblest in that most unfailing of all mankind's boons, "mother instinct."

For it is the mother instinct in Emma, housekeeper in the Smith home, that makes her a tower of strength in the rearing of a brood of children whose mother dies at the birth of the youngest, that causes her to guard the failing health of her employer with a minute and unwavering vigilance; that makes her the dominant figure in a menage that would have been lost without her.

It is the mother instinct again that prompts Emma, after having married the father of the children she has reared and been acquitted of their trumped up charge of having murdered him when management of the fortune is left to her, to relinquish all claim to the money, seek new employment and begin all over again "mothering" a new family of youngsters over in Jersey.

There is something in this character of Emma that is at once heroic, pathetic and wholly disarming. She stands in a way, I presume, for all the drudgery, all the rugged honesty, all the kindly humor and all the tenderness the feminine sex can ever hope to be heir to.

In earlier comment upon this subject in these columns it has been pointed out that this is a role admirably fitted to the Dressler capabilities, which exceed those of almost any actress that can be brought to mind. This is a part that calls for none of the artificialties of "acting" and Miss Dressler brings none of them to it. On the contrary, she transcends the most perfected technique and by penetrating and perceptive power of intellect and greatness of heart makes of Emma a very real and lovable person. There is nothing superficial about this performance. It gets below the surface and into the heart.

There are occasions, perhaps, as in the railroad station and the courtroom, when the author has gone a little too far afield for comedy and dramatic effect, but even in these moments of exaggeration, Miss Dressler never becomes personally implausible.

The star, however, presents by no means a solitary example of isolated proficiency. In the surrounding cast are several who afford her distinguished support. Foremost among these I would place Richard Cromwell, as Ronnie, Emma's favorite of all the Smith children, who plays the juvenile lead with a naturalness and spontaneity no less notable than Miss Dressler's own. Then there are Jean Hersholt and Purnell Pratt, as Mr. Smith and his attorney, respectively, and Myrna Loy and George Meeker, in the unsympathetic roles of the older children, no less well done because they happen to be less likable. The remainder are minor roles in the hands of principal people.

On the stage, the sixth edition of Loew's Vaudeville Revue calls into action Rob Murphy, a corpulent, if not always convulsing, master of ceremonies already known to Washington audiences, who achieves his most productive moments when assisted by—or maybe it is assisting—his versatile son and daughter, Dick and Dorothy. Mr. Murphy, in turn, calls into action Al and Ray Samuels, among the most rhythmic of our precision dancers; Johnny Hyman, who does weird things with words and a blackboard; Dave Tannen, a grotesque eccentric dancer, and the dozen Chester Hale Girls, whose costumes, paradoxically, become most nearly nonexistent in the revue's Arctic Eskimo finale!

The Hearst Metrotone News, Mr. Borjes' "Doll Fantasy" prelude for the orchestra, and Mr. Gaige's organ interludes complete a program of outstanding merit.

COLUMBIA

"HELL DIVERS." A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization, with the cooperation of the United States Navy, of an original story by Lieut. Comdr. Wead, adapted to the screen by Harvey Gates and Howard Malcolm Boland; starring Wallace Beery and Clark Gable, supported by Conrad Nagel, Dorothy Jordan, Marie Prevost, Marjorie Rambeau and Cliff Edwards. Directed by George Hill.

While this is quite as much a glorification of the aviation service of the United States Navy as it is a fictional drama calculated to hold attention through the customary interplay of love, conflict and suspense, the net result to the spectator is eminently satisfactory, for he views all of these familiar elements of drama amid surroundings that are entirely new.

Never before, I believe, have the major developments of a screen play taken place upon the expansive decks of a Navy airplane carrier. It is the U. S. S. Saratoga that supplies the locale for much of the most exciting action of this generally exciting picture.

The movement of the plot carries the principals from a California naval base to the Panama Canal Zone and points south. Throughout there is an inspiring demonstration of the strength and prowess of the air forces of the Navy. The climax of the story affords the opportunity to emphasize the heroism that characterizes the men of the enlisted personnel. Whether the death of the hero and his burial at sea as the climactic episode of the drama is carrying logic and realism too far is a matter of individual opinion. Certainly it does not serve to close the film in any hurricane of hilarity.

Wallace Beery, Clark Gable, Marjorie Rambeau, Dorothy Jordan, Cliff Edwards, John Miljan and Alan Roscoe are among those who do most to lend credence to the portions of the narrative that are not a Navy field day.

The bill is completed by a new issue of the Paramount Sound News and other short sound subjects that afford a needed contrast to the major screen feature. N. B. B.

Beltsville School Exercises.

To raise funds for equipment for the auditorium of the Beltsville school, an entertainment will be given by the Parent-Teacher Association next Thursday night at the school. Featured on the program will be W. C. Carter, Miss Marjorie Beall, Miss Edna Sauder and Mrs. Wirt Ellen. Exercises by the children of the school are also scheduled.

FOX

"THE GAY CABALLERO." Fox picturization of the novel, "The Gay Bandit of the Border," by Tom Gill, adapted to the screen by Philip Klein and Barry Conners, featuring George O'Brien, Victor McLaglen, Conchita Montenegro and Weldon Heyburn, supported by Linda Watkins, C. Henry Gordon and Willard Robertson. Directed by Alfred Werker. Previewed Monday midnight.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Since the author of the original story, Mr. Tom Gill, of Washington, D. C., and the world at large, has expressed himself as well satisfied with the accuracy and fidelity with which the melodramatic romanticism of his border fiction has been translated to the screen, nothing more need be said for those who have read "The Gay Bandit of the Border." For those who have not, here is a hard-riding, quick-shooting, warm-loving tale of a Robin Hood of the Rio Grande, operating along the boundary line between this country and Mexico, that may be relied upon to quicken the pulse, whip up the blood pressure and curl the hair!

The whole exciting business is the outgrowth of the love that is felt by Ted Radcliffe for Adela Morales, ward of Don Paco, who is eagerly coveted also by a no-good hombre by the name of Jito, who suffers under somewhat the same delusions of grandeur as that other fabulous Mejicano, Don Jose Maria Lopez y Tostado, "the best damn caballero in all Mexico." It would have been just too bad for Ted, had not his activities been under the friendly aegis of Don Rob Harkness, a retributive sort of knight errant, who rode masked at the head of his men and righted the wrongs done the countryside by Don Paco Morales through the agency of his henchman, Jito. Perhaps that is sufficient indication of the clash of interests.

"Clash" is the word, precisely. And how these two-fisted gentlemen, two-gun triggermen and native knife-throwers do go at it when they set about the serious business of exterminating each other in one friendly way or another! This is no place to take your insomnia, because "The Gay Caballero" will never in this wide world put you to sleep.

George O'Brien is the Ted of the occasion, Victor McLaglen, Bob Harkness, who rides and whose head is sought under the name of "El Coyote;" Conchita Montenegro, Adela; C. Henry Gordon, Don Paco, and Weldon Heyburn, Jito. Of this group the only one who lapses occasionally from the true sound of a border resident is Victor McLaglen, who, despite flannel shirts and Stetson sombreros, now and then goes flagrantly Piccadilly! George O'Brien and Conchita Montenegro play their parts for all there is in them and Weldon Heyburn gives a thoroughly good account of himself in the thankless role of Jito. The fight he stages with O'Brien is a classic of murderous mayhem, with him on the receiving end.

In settings and costuming, the producers have quite caught the atmosphere and appearance of the subtropics and the photography is more often than not highly effective.

The chief item of interest on the stage, of course, is the personal appearance of El Brendel, the Swedish comedian of many Fox features, including, "Mr. Lemon of Orange," "Sunny Side Up," "Just Imagine," "Happy Days," "The Spider" and numerous others. Mr. Brendel is preceded on the boards by Flo Burt, who sings snatches of the song hits from the pictures in which he has appeared, and later joins him in a little snappy cross-fire and some high-temperature dances.

Mr. Brendel adheres to his Swedish character and monologues his way to many laughs before teaming with Miss Burt. A few of his gags might stand a trip to the renovators, but in the large view he adds up well on the side of decorum and exits after an all too-brief turn with the audience by no means satiated with his drollery. There is nothing of the amateur about El Brendel. He puts over his act with the surety of the veteran trouper that he is, despite a protracted allegiance to the films.

Fanchon & Marco's "About Town" Idea is a handsomely staged revue with some unusual routines for the Sunkist Beauties—including a punching bag number that is unique—and diverting specialties by Ted and Al Waldman, blackface comics and instrumentalists; Max and His Gang, a clever gymnast and a troupe of well trained fox terriers; Ben Dova, a remarkable "drunk" dancer, reminiscent of Billy Reeves; Paul Olsen, in a "dumb" act, and Joe Pasco, fancy bag puncher.

The Fox Movietone News and Al Mitchell's overture number, with Michael Casey, "singing engineer," are the hors d'oeuvres of an amusement feast.

METROPOLITAN

"THE MAN WHO PLAYED GOD." Warner Brothers' picturization of Jules Eckert Goodman's play from the short story by Gouverneur Morris, starring George Arliss, supported by Bettie Davis, Violet Heming, Ivan Simpson, Louise Closser Hale and Donald Cook. Directed by John C. Adolfi. Reviewed (second week) by Dorothea Lewis.

A performance excellent and authoritative every inch of the way in a play which almost, but not exactly, clicks.

That about sums up, on second thought, the Metropolitan's contribution to our entertainment this week and last.

For, despite all the play's interest and merit (and it is very good indeed), George Arliss is, as nearly always, better than his vehicle. His portrait of Royale, the great musician turned into a bitter, broken hermit by the sudden affliction of deafness, until he discovers his ability to play God from his high balcony looking down on the little people in the park and reading their lips and thoughts through his marvelous glasses, never falters from the high point of superlative playing reached in its very first scene.

On the other hand, the play leaves the vague impression that it has not quite realized its possibilities—perhaps because it has such an infinite number of them. It is handled skillfully, however, in "getting away" with its sentimentality, moments of improbability, and several scenes of almost melodramatic hokum. And it is unusual, it is philosophical, and it has rarely interesting ideas and moments of real power, to make it well worthwhile—even aside from Mr. Arliss.

Ivan Simpson gives a splendid account of himself as Royale's faithful servant, dominating several scenes. Louise Closser Hale does nicely by Royale's sister. Violet Heming and Bette Davis are attractive, but little more, as, respectively, one who loves, and one who thinks she loves, Royale.

RIALTO

"MURDERS IN THE RUE MORGUE." Universal picturization of the story by Edgar Allan Poe, adapted to the screen by Tom Reed and Dal Van Every, featuring Sidney Fox and Bela Lugosi, supported by Leon Waycoff, Bert Roach, Betty Ross Clarke, Brandon Hurst and extensive ensemble. Directed by Robert Florey.

The mystifying horrors of Edgar Allan Poe's eerie fiction continue to send the cold shivers racing up and down the spines of fascinated audiences at the Rialto.

Like "Dracula" and "Frankenstein," this latest of the film plays dedicated to gooseflesh and terror bases its appeal upon situations that are distinctly morbid in suggestion, if not in actual content. A sinister note is sounded early in the action, when Dr. Mirakle expounds his theory that the blood of human beings can be successfully blended with that of the gorilla family. It happens that proof of his fantastic theory occasions the death of a number of unidentified young women, who are all plucked out of the Seine at about the same point, and with the same gruesome marks on all of their bodies. A young medical student and embryo scientist solves the mystery just in time to rescue his betrothed from a similar fate.

The pivotal roles are played with uniform excellence by Bela Lugosi, as Mirakle; Sidney Fox, as the victim of his chicanery, and Leon Waycoff, as the lover-sleuth. Bert Roach, Betty Ross Clarke, Brandon Hurst and numerous others comprise an able supporting cast.

The picture gains appreciably from the skill of its lighting and the deftness with which the Paris of 1845 has been simulated before the cameras.

The bill is augmented by an amusing comedy and the Universal News, with Graham McNamee interpreting the pictured events. N. B. B.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

No greater assurance of the propriety and the equitable results to all concerned of the proposed amendment to the child labor law of the District of Columbia, embodied in the bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Capper, should be asked by those who have questioned the advisability of the changes it seeks to make than that the same bill has been introduced in the House by Representative Mary Norton, of New Jersey, chairman of the House District committee.

Here is a woman and a solon who has made child welfare a study. Her whole political background is woven into the warp and woof of welfare work and the safeguarding not only of children but of all members of the family and of the American home. It was her outstanding success in precisely this type of work that led to her induction into politics, election to Congress and the broadening of her field of usefulness to the country.

It happens to have fallen within my personal knowledge that Mrs. Norton looks with honest favor upon the changes in the law which will permit girls under 18 years of age and boys under 16 to appear in regularly licensed theaters as members of touring theatrical companies. This privilege is now denied, regardless of any provision that may be made for the protection of the child's physical, spiritual and moral welfare.

Amateur reformers might well accept Mrs. Norton's verdict with regard to the merit of the bill she has sponsored as the deliberate and thoughtful conclusion of an expert.

It is a strange commentary at best upon the oblique viewpoint of those who oppose the enactment of this legislation that they take for granted the pernicious influence of an hour or two's work a day in a theater, conducted by responsible and respected members of the community, but experience no qualms whatever, for example, at the spectacle of mere lads being employed many hours a day as messengers and subjected to all manner of evil influences in the routine pursuit of the duties imposed upon them!

Let there be a little reason in the contemplation of a salutary change in an unfair and an obnoxious law.

Out of deference to the clergy of Washington, who have brought to the attention of Miss Katharine Cornell and her associates that the opening of the box office sale of seats for her impending engagement at the Belasco in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," at 12 noon tomorrow would impinge upon the Sabbath hours consecrated to divine worship in the churches of Washington, announcement is made that the box office will not be opened until 1 p. m. Sunday February 28, instead of as originally announced.

World premieres, such as is to be celebrated at RKO-Keith's today, when "The Lost Squadron," starring Richard Dix, supported by Mary Astor, Erich Von Stroheim, Dorothy Jordan, Robert Armstrong, Hugh Herbert and many other screen notables, is to be publicly shown for the first time anywhere, are grand subjects for ballyhoo, but tough on those responsible for putting them over.

The mere fact that a print is rushed out to some theater or other, where a representative audience may be gathered with reasonable assurance, many days prior to its national release date is in itself sufficient earnest of a headache to those most vitally concerned. It means that none of the usual aids to successful publicity promotion is available. The press books are not ready, the stills are still at the photographers, the precise form of the picture in its final cutting may not even be definitely known—yet the boys on the receiving end are expected to put the pictures over in a big way. I know, because I have been through it myself in an earlier incarnation.

And that is what Mr. Meakin, Mr. Usilton and the rest of the boys at RKO-Keith's have been up against.

"The Lost Squadron," written by Dick Grace, author of the series of crash-thrill pictures appearing currently in the Tabloid Magazine of this paper, should, by every right, be a crackerjack bit of footage—seemingly it has everything—but how to let you know it definitely and concretely, is something else again.

I wish they would label some of these film ladies every time they appear on the screen. To me Kathryn Crawford and Dorothy Peterson look confusingly alike—and both very much indeed like Christie McDonald, the former star of musical comedy and operetta.

Bet you 8 to 5 that when you looked for it yesterday you couldn't find your rake.

RECEPTION IS HELD FOR LEGION GROUPS

3 Organizations Combine to Pay Honor to Alexandria Bodies at Gadsby's.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The committee from the Mount Vernon Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, headed by Mrs. C. A. S. Sinclair, regent; the Alexandria committee of the Colonial Dames of America in Virginia, headed by Mrs. D. Mauchlin Niven; and the Washington Society of Alexandria, headed by William Buckner McGroarty, president, held a reception last night in historic Gadsby's Tavern to the members of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, and the American Legion Auxiliary.

The rooms of the historic buildings composing the tavern were furnished for the recent Birthnight Ball with antiques from the homes of those in charge of the event, in a manner suited to a tavern of colonial times, and these furnishings have been retained this week to permit the many who were unable to attend the ball an opportunity to inspect the building as it should be furnished.

The committee will continue to keep the tavern open to the public charging an admission fee that will be applied toward the restoration fund, from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. today and from 2 to 6 p. m. tomorrow.

Mrs. Emma M. Hammersley, aged 39 years, wife of Charles E. Hammersley, of 418 North Patrick street, was taken suddenly ill on Thursday night while in front of 336 South Patrick street, and Mrs. M. K. Hammill notified the police to summon the Fire Rescue ambulance. Mrs. Hammersley was taken to the Alexandria Hospital, but pronounced dead upon arrival of the ambulance. Dr. T. Marshall Jones, city coroner, gave a certificate of death from natural causes. Besides her husband, she is survived by seven children.

The Alexandria Business and Professional Women's Club will observe National Business Women's Week from March 6 to 12, inclusive, and the principal event will be the public relations dinner on Thursday, March 10, in the George Mason Hotel. City officials and heads of other service organizations will be especial guests. Mrs. Helen V. Reed is in charge of reservations for club members and their guests.

Robert E. Knight is chairman of a committee of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce that will hold a dinner on Monday night at the George Mason Hotel for the purpose of devising ways and means for a reconstruction campaign. It is the aim of the committee to urge all people of the city to clean up, paint up and modernize their homes and buildings, in the interest of a more attractive city during the Bicentennial year, and also to provide employment.

The presentation of the dance pupils of Mrs. Mary Cabell Callaway will be held tonight at 7:45 o'clock in Lyceum Hall, when an Oriental fantasy in one act will be given, written and staged by Mrs. Callaway, entitled, "The Romance of Mee Loo and Li Chang." The junior board of the Anne Lee Memorial Home for the Aged is sponsoring the event.

Kidnaping Torture Bared to Congress

Ace Detective of "Secret Six" Tells Committee of Horror Chambers.

(Associated Press.)

Another spectacular tale of Midwest sufferings from the new "kidnaping racket" was unfolded yesterday before the House postoffice committee by Sergt. Leroy Steffens, ace detective for Chicago's "secret six."

The committee, considering legislation for interstate control of the kidnaping commerce, with death penalty requested, went into secret session to hear the sensational testimony of Steffens. His tale was the climax of the attempt of Robert Isham Randolph, head of the "secret six," to show that kidnaping had become a crime so extensive and baffling that local communities, however alert, could not deal with it.

Lime vats, rooms sprinkled with gasoline, diving suits for lowering victims in the lake, figured in Steffens' account of tortures and terrorism before Chairman Sumners cleared the room of witnesses so that the detective could talk freely of pending cases.

House Body Votes $5,000 to Orphan

Mother Was Electrocuted in Wine Cellar After Prohibition Raid.

(Associated Press.)

The House claims committee yesterday approved the Schafer bill to give $5,000 to the small child of the late Mrs. Helen Vasilzevic, who was electrocuted in a wine-flooded cellar at Milwaukee last year after a raid by Federal prohibition agents. Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, author of the bill, said he would seek early House consideration.

Prohibition agents raided the home of Michael Vasilzevic August 13, 1931, and took him into custody after destroying quantities of moonshine liquor and wine.

After the raid, Mrs. Vasilzevic went into the cellar to extinguish an electric light and was electrocuted as she stood in the liquor.

500-Gallon Still Raid Nets Hyattsville Arrest

One of the largest stills ever discovered in the northern section of Prince Georges County, Md., was seized by police last night and a man was arrested and held under a bond of $1,000 for possession and manufacture of liquor.

County Policemen Ralph Brown and H. G. Machen, together with Constables Kelly Woodell and Jack Wilson, descended on a vacant house on Wells avenue, Hyattsville, Md. They found a 500-gallon still, 11 cases of alleged liquor and 400 gallons of mash. A man who said his name was Frank Harper was operating the still, officers reported. He was taken to the Hyattsville Jail.

Stamp Collectors' Treat Is Prepared

Special Cachet Provided for Masonic Memorial Covers May 12.

"Covers" mailed from Alexandria, Va., May 12, the date of the dedication of the George Washington Masonic Memorial Temple, will have an additional feature attractive to stamp collectors, Frederick A. Tilton Assistant Postmaster General announced last night.

The Postoffice Department will prepare a special cachet which will be used in addition to the cancellation of stamps in Alexandria on that date, he announced. This cachet or seal will imprint upon the "covers" a replica of the temple, the date and the name of the postoffice.

On Washington's birthday, more than 500,000 letters were given special cancellation at Mount Vernon. More than $100,000 worth of Bicentennial stamps were sold for that cancellation.

Annapolis Citizens Fight W., B. & A. as 'Menace'

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 26.—That the continued operation of the interurban cars of the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad is a menace to public safety, especially in view of heavy automobile and other vehicular traffic, and detrimental in other ways, was voiced by a group of half a hundred citizens who appeared at an open hearing of the city council on the request of the company for an extension of its franchise from July 1 to January 1, next.

The council took the matter under consideration following the arguments, and Mayor Walter E. Quensted announced that a decision probably would be reached at the next regular meeting, which will be within three weeks. The railroad is now operating under receivership and the extension grant was asked by George Weems Williams, it being hinted that at the expiration of the time asked the receivership might be lifted.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 26.—In one of the most startling upsets in the history of the Southern Conferendce basket ball tournament here, the Old Liners, of Maryland, defending champions, were eliminated in the first round tonight by the Florida Alligators, 39 to 24.

Florida, an outside team in the pretourney figurings, was doped to give the Old Liners little more than a good warm-up game. The Gators have been an in-and-out outfit all season, but they played a wonderful brand of basket ball tonight, especially in the closing half.

Maryland was greatly crippled when Berger and Ronkin were ejected early in the last half on personal fouls. The champions seemed to go to pieces after this stunning stroke of misfortune. Before being sent from the floor, Berger was able to amass a total of 10 points for the Old Liners while Ronkin secured 4.

Rivals Tied at Half At 14 to 14.

The first half was a close battle, as is indicated by the 14-to-14 deadlock at the intermission. Maryland did not appear to be applying a great deal of pressure in the opening session. The Old Liners played a steady, cautious game in the first half, apparently intending to turn on the steam in the last half, but, after the loss of Berger and Ronkin, the steam just was not there.

The Old Liners displayed the same poise and ability during the first half as when they swept to the title here last year, but every semblance of team work disappeared when their offensive aces left the game.

Bradley and Cherry, of Florida, were constant thorns in the Maryland flesh. They accounted for 23 of the Alligator points. Bradley ringing 10 and Cherry, 13. Bozie Berger, Maryland's all-American courtman, made five field goals.

Maryland was not the only favorite beaten tonight, for Alabama bowed to Virginia in a game marked by close guarding, 20 to 16, while Tulane was beaten by Kentucky rather handily, 50 to 30. In the other games, North Carolina U. defeated Tennessee, 35 to 25; Duke routed Vanderbilt, 44-32, Georgia trounced Mississippi State, 48 to 26; Louisiana State downed Georgia Tech, 36 to 33, and Auburn nosed out North Carolina State, 34 to 33.

This latter game was the closest and fiercest of the day's play. The score was tied several times during the closing minutes and Auburn won simply because it happened to be on top when the whistle blew.

Virginia was trailing, 9 to 6, at the half in its game with Alabama, but put on a late rally which give it the verdict. North Carolina U. trailed until the last four minutes when it put on a spurt to give it the decision over Tennessee.

Nat Manager Depends on Brown

Johnson Instructing Hurler; Burke to Sign Today.

Southpaw Is Ready to Take Turn as Regular.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH (Sports Editor, The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., Feb. 26.—Manager Walter Johnson partially revealed his hand today when he ordered Lloyd Brown to the pitching mound proper and stood by for the best part of a half hour to observe the action of the iron-ribbed lefthander. Brown is ranked behind Crowder and Marberry in the appraisal of Washington's pitching strength but he holds the stage alone as the Nats' most dependable spring pitcher and on past records, he is the earliest among the veteran hurlers to reach best form.

The southpaw is slated to be the work horse of the mound staff in the early weeks of the season and Johnson is extremely solicitous of his condition at this stage of the campaign. Heretofore all the pitching of the mound candidates has been done in the numerous bullpens and Brown's entry into the box in the infield marked the official baptism of the field this season.

Brown Looks Good, Even Under Wraps.

Brown's southpaw shoots zoomed into the big mitt of Patsy Gharrity in the most approved fashion, although the pitcher labored under the check-rein of the ban on curves. He did let out a notch this morning, however, with the full sanction of Manager Johnson.

The Nats' training camp board of strategy, composed of Johnson, Clark Griffith, Gharrity and Mike Martin, appeared almost obsessed this season in its eagerness for a flying start away from the barrier when the pennant campaign opens and Brown's status is of consuming importance in view of the comparative dearth of veteran pitching talent and the hazard of Crowder's slowness of rounding into form.

With Bobby Burke having finally accepted the third of Griffith's last and positively final offers and due to arrive in camp tomorrow, thus ending his holdout gestures, the regular members of the Nats' pitching staff are increased to four. The talent among the younger group of hurlers, however, has been so impressive that Johnson is exuding a noticeable confidence that Fischer, Weaver and Griffith will come through excellently and be valued members of the staff. He sees Fischer and Weaver as potentially great.

A feature of the daily workouts thus far has been the coaching of the young catchers, Cliff Bolton and Howard Maple, by the two veterans, Patsy Gharrity and Eddie Ainsmith, who are veritable fountains of knowledge in the art of backstopping.

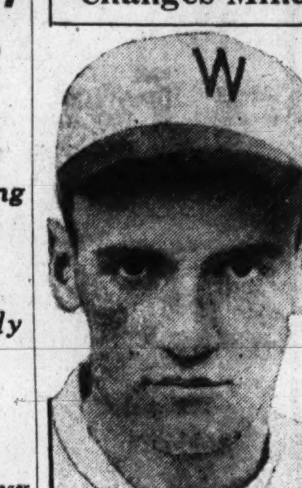
Bolton, Maple Getting Plenty Of Attention.

The business of tracking down pop flies is occupying both Bolton and Maple for a full hour every day and serves the twofold purpose of schooling the rookies in the art and slicing off the surplus weight that Maple, particularly, is sporting about his girth. The weakness of Bolton on pop flies has been noticeable since his advent with the Nats two years ago, but his hitting strength is counted so valuable that Johnson is disposed to go to great lengths to polish the mechanics of his catching.

President Griffith was slightly astounded when Maple put in his appearance at the camp here. The former all-America football star of the Oregon Aggies, who had been touted to the Nats' owner as a great athlete, a clever catcher and fair hitter, was proportioned on the lines of Foxy Grandpa when he introduced himself to Griffith. The latter at once turned him over to the ministrations of Trainer Mike Martin and that gentleman has had Maple working long before the rest of the squad starts and after they finish. Fifteen more pounds must be slithered from his frame before he can be pronounced fit, however, and two weeks is the guess.

Trainer Mike Martin was chased as the referee of the volley ball game today by Capts. Marberry and Crowder. The event marked the fifth referee who has thrown up the sponge and arbiters are becoming scarce with indications that the Biloxi natives will be drafted to act when the supply in the vicinity of the ball park is exhausted which appears not far off. Lynn Griffith and Young Johnny Friederichs, the Holy Cross boy, are the most sought after performers, with Weaver and Ragland ranking close up.

Changes Mind



BOBBY BURKE, who has agreed to President Griffith's terms and w.l join the Nats today.

MORE MARKS ARE SET BY CAMPBELL

Fails to Boost Mile Record; Successful at Distances.

By TED GILL.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Although he failed in his main objective of boosting his world 1-mile record, Sir Malcolm Campbell today brought down three more automobile speed marks, increasing his total of new world records to five within three days.

After a roaring two-way run up and down the beach in his Bluebird racer under conditions that were considerably short of ideal, the slim British driver was credited with smashing the world records for 5 kilometers, 5 miles and 10 kilometers.

The records he set for 1 mile and 1 kilometer two days ago withstood his latest assault. He may try again tomorrow to break these, although he had arranged to conclude his speed runs today and ship the Bluebird to New York.

Campbell's average speed for the mile today was 251.748 miles per hour, as compared with the record of 253.968 he established on Wednesday, but he sustained a higher rate of speed for a longer straightaway stretch than any man has ever done before.

Raises Mark by Six Miles.

The new record the British driver established over 5 kilometers was 247.941 miles an hour, which was 6.372 miles an hour faster than the speed of 241.569 he set up Wednesday.

His new record over the 5 mile route was 242.751. This exceeded by 31.260 the former record for that distance, which Campbell set at Verneuk Pan, South America, in 1929, at 211.491.

His new mark over the 10 kilometers was 238.669, which was 85.7 miles an hour faster than the old record of 152.9, set up by M. Borzacchini at Cremona, Italy, in 1929.

Campbell's two-day average speed over the kilometer today was 249.517 miles an hour. The record he established over the distance Wednesday was 251.340.

After completing his runs Campbell drove his 12-cylinder racing car to the grandstand. He appeared disappointed when told by officials he had not broken the record for the mile. He believed his tachometer, or engine speed indicator, showed he was traveling at a clip of approximately 270 miles an hour.

Sarah Palfrey Beats Betty Nuthall at Nets

Hamilton, Bermuda, Feb. 26 (U.P.). Sarah Palfrey, of Boston, retained her Bermuda title today by defeating Betty Nuthall, of Great Britain, in the final round singles of the Bermuda tennis championships, 6—4, 5—7, 6—2. Miss Nuthall is England's champion and a former United States champion. The Britisher extended Miss Palfrey to three sets.

New Records Due in C. U. Carnival

Many Stars Among Record Entry List in Meet Tonight.

41 Colleges, Schools and Clubs Enter 525 Athletes.

ALREADY one record has been broken in connection with Catholic University's third annual indoor games, to be held, starting at 7:30 o'clock tonight, at the Brookland gym, while several more marks are likely to fall after actual competition gets under way. The record broken is for number of entries received, a late check-up made last night showing the receipt of 525, representing 16 leading Eastern colleges and universities, 13 high and prep schools and 12 athletic clubs.

With the entry list including, as it does, such men as Finklestein, of Washington and Lee, holder of the world's record for the 70-yard hurdles and other equally noted performers, more than one of C. U.'s indoor records are due to go by the boards.

Five Threaten Dash Mark.

If Finklestein does not set a new mark for the 50-yard open event, then Scarlett, of Princeton; Antrim or Bryant, of Virginia, or Piggott, of Maryland, stand a good chance of doing so. Vinnie Fraatz, of C. U., will also be among the leaders. The Cardinal timber-topper recently equaled the Naval Academy record in a recent practice meet at Annapolis.

Washington track fans will see one of the best high school runners in the country in the person of Platt Bullard, of John Marshall High, Richmond. Although he did not get a break in the draw for positions in the 440 and 880 yard events, young Bullard is easily the class of the field and is almost sure to set at least one mark. He placed second in the 880-event at the national interscholastic meet in Chicago last spring and he is a consistent 50-second performer in the 440.

The old record of 55 1-5 seconds set by Jack Davis, of C. U., in the 440 open event, is also almost certain to be broken. Jack Green, of Pennsylvania State Teachers College, and Williams, a 49-second man and a holder of the Southern Conference title, are outstanding entrants.

High Jump Record In Danger.

The high-jump mark set at 5 feet 11 inches last year by Conway, of Navy, is liable to totter. Maryland has four men consistently clearing this height, and Conway himself will be back, better than ever.

The District A. A. U. three-mile run mark is more than apt to be cracked, and, if it is, it will probably be Ernest Wiles, representing the Central Y. M. C. A., who does it. Wiles, a former Tufts star, is the outstanding man in the event.

Both the 50-yard A. A. U. championship event and the Abbey Club invitation 50 promise to be hard-fought contests. The former is expected to develop into a battle between Quinn, of Maryland; Lyons, of C. U., and McChesney, unattached. In the latter event Lyons will probably battle it out with Waybright, of Navy; Abramson, of Virginia, and Capt. Garnet Smithers and Evan Shaw, of William and Mary.

Baker, of Villanova, one of the best distance men along the Eastern Seaboard, looks to be the best man in the intercollegiate mile. The two-mile mark is also apt to be shattered with such men contesting as Gibson and Griffith, of Navy, and Renn and Doane, of William and Mary.

Relay Races Promise Thrills.

Every one of the three college mile relays should be a thriller. The first section brings together Lafayette, Lehigh and Catholic U.; the second, Princeton, Navy and William and

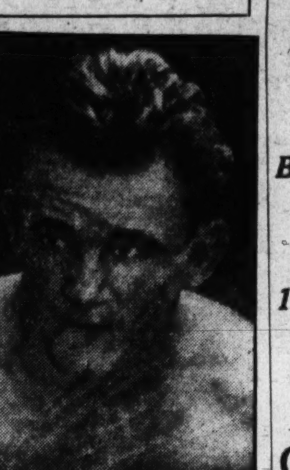
Wins Decision



ERNIE SCHAAF, Boston heavyweight, who earned a decision over Young Stribling last night at Chicago.

G. W. BEATEN BY SAINT FIVE

St. John's Rallies at Very End to Win Out, 40-37.

Special to The Washington Post.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 26.—George Washington University's team of basket ball giants could not stop the only big man on the St. John's College team here tonight and lost a 40-to-37 decision after leading until only eight minutes were left to play. Capt. Tom Neary, of the Brooklyn Indians, sank eight sensational baskets, three in a row coming in the pinch in the second half, to give St. John's the lead for the first time.

It was the fastest and cleanest game of the season, the referees calling only three fouls, all of which came in the second half. The Colonials hopped off to a 14-to-2 lead at the start, and at one time in the second half were ahead at 22 to 14, but were not clever enough to cope with the St. John's passwork and Neary's uncanny shooting.

Chambers Stars for Colonials.

Capt. Ike Chambers was the spearhead of the Washington attack in the first half, throwing three baskets that helped boost his team into a 20-to-14 lead.

Play was fast and furious as the Colonials hopped off to a 14-to-2 lead as Zahn and Parrack scored twice and Connor and Hertzler one apiece But St. John's came back with Capt Tom Neary, 220-pound center, scoring three baskets and Jack McGuinness, who entered the game late, two. The Indians pulled to 14 to 16, but dropped back to trail by 6 points at the half as Hertzler and Chambers broke through to score sensational baskets.

St. John's trailed at 22 to 14 in the second half before putting on its big spurt that finally captured the lead at 27 to 26, with eight minutes to go. The Colonials could not stop Neary, who crashed through for three successive baskets in the pinch. The Indians never surrendered the lead after Neary gained it for them.

Schmeling Gets Extension in View of Sharkey Fight June 16.

Chicago, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, of Germany, is still the heavyweight champion of the world in the eyes of the National Boxing Association.

The N. B. A. took a poll of its membership to determine whether the title should be vacated because Schmeling failed to live up to its rule by defending his crown within six months after his battle last July with W. L. (Young) Stribling. But the members voted to give him an extension of time. So the N. B. A. chiefs advised him he would be in good standing anyway until he met Jack Sharkey in their championship fight at New York, June 16.

Boston Youth Floors Foe In Fourth

Bell Saves Georgian, Who Is Punished Throughout.

11,000 Watch Battle; Unanimous Decision to Schaaf.

By CHARLES DUNKLEY.

CHICAGO STADIUM, Chicago, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Ernie Schaaf, the Boston Powerhouse, threw a real Boston tea party tonight. Schaaf overwhelmed the pride of Georgia, W. L. (Young) Stribling, in their savage ten-round battle in the Chicago Stadium, decisively defeating him and establishing himself as potential threat to the world's heavyweight championship. The verdict of the two judges and Referee Dave Barry was unanimous.

Schaaf, by his relentless, punishing attack, which he switched from head to body, was credited with being Stribling's master in eight of the ten rounds. He knocked Stribling to his haunches just before the bell ended the fourth round, driving him to the floor with a short left hook that didn't travel more than 6 inches, after cracking him unmercifully with four right uppercuts, delivered while he had Stribling tied up in a clinch.

The blow that floored Stribling was a sizzling left hook. The Georgian sat on his haunches, bewildered, and made no move to get up when the bell rang shortly after the count began. As the round ended, "Pa" Stribling, his father-manager, with other attendants, rushed to the center of the ring to drag Young Stribling to his corner, where restoratives were applied.

At the end of the fight, Stribling was a beaten, gory and battered fighter, with both eyes on the verge of closing. Blood streamed from ugly gashes under each eye.

Stribling made one of his greatest and most courageous fights, but he was unable to stand off the vicious battering of the blond boy from Boston, who was determined to score a knockout.

It was Stribling's attempt tonight to regain lost prestige, but he faded and failed with Schaaf passing him on the road that may lead to the heavyweight championship.

The battle was witnessed by a crowd of 11,000 spectators with receipts of $30,000.

Schaaf has a record of 21 victories in his last 22 starts, 11 of them by knockouts.

ROUND THREE—Schaaf was short with three lefts and they exchanged body punches as they came together. They traded lefts to the face and Stribling threw a right uppercut to the jaw. After exchanging left jabs they traded rights to the body. Stribling shot a right to the jaw and drew away from Schaaf's return. Schaaf jabbed three light lefts to the face and they clinched, going to the ropes. Stribling hooked a left to the face and Schaaf countered with three rights to the body. Stribling hooked a left and right to the jaw and backed into a corner, with Schaaf attempting to score with body punches.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Biloxi, Miss., Feb. 26.

BIG Fred Marberry, perennial playboy of the Nats, who annually is one of the last of the troupe to sign his contract, and in seasons past has been noted for his holdout gestures, confounded the scriveners at the training camp today by declaring that he has at no time had any salary difficulties with President Clark Griffith.

"He's just funny about contracts," Marberry advised. "Griff doesn't want the players to feel that he's anxious to sign 'em. Three years ago when I thought I rated an increase and submitted my figure, he argued for a month by mail and telegraph, and then gave me what I asked with a contract that he had filled out for the exact sum a month before."

Reports that he was a holdout this year were premature, said Marberry. "I told the reporters in Texas that the terms didn't suit me, but that I wasn't holding out. I never sign until I talk things over with Griff at the training camp."

"I wired Griffith from Corsicana last week that I was coming to Biloxi to talk terms. My wire said 'Will arrive Sunday stop. Expect raise stop.'

"Griffith telegraphed me back. His wire said 'Report Sunday stop. Do not expect raise.'

"I left Corsicana Saturday morning and wired Griffith again at the station, 'Am leaving today stop. Expect raise stop.'

"We didn't talk long in Biloxi. Griffith's last and positively final offer was fair enough, and I accepted."

Marberry sized up the salary situation in the big leagues sagely. "Yeah, they wanted me to take a cut. Griffith told me that Washington, like most of the other clubs last year, had a bad season financially, and couldn't be expected to increase any salaries."

"I told him perhaps so, but I had a good year. Won sixteen and lost only four with twelve wins coming in a row. I had a good year last season and they can't take it away from me.

"Suppose the club had a good year and I had a bad year, where would I get off? Would the club take care of me? When I have a good season, I want what I deserve. If I have a bad year, I expect to take a cut. We didn't have any trouble agreeing."

"I'll take Griff's word as well as his signature," the big pitcher went on. "He offered me bonuses of $500 in 1929 and 1930, and I collected them both. They weren't written into the contracts but it was all right with me. I'll work for him on his promise, any time.

"Griffith paid me off with the extra $500 two seasons ago. 'That makes a $1,000 you've stolen from me in the last two years,' he told me. "O. K., I said, but you're the first man who ever accused me of stealing that I laughed at."

Marberry's great worry in camp right now is not his pitching arm. "When do we hit?" he asked Johnson. "I want to get the feel of that old lumber again, it looks like a big year for me with the stick."

Marberry wasn't joking. If any ball player ever had consummate confidence in his hitting, it's the big pitcher. The records last season do not bear him out but when he was hitting .162 and .195 he still thought he was a great batter, not only as pitchers go, but as batters go.

"I want some new bats," he told Johnson. "Heavier ones, that I can't bring around so fast. I want to start slapping 'em for singles instead of extra basers. I gotta learn to bunt curve balls, too. I can handle the fast ones, but I guess I gotta step into the curves.

"They don't order me to bunt as much as they used to, which is O. K. with me. I like to hit 'em straight away. Wait 'til I get my new bats. My father was a great hitter, too."

Venzke's Record Attempt Magnet for K. C. Games

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Gene Venzke's assault on the American 1,500-meter record, his final indoor effort of the season, is the magnet counted upon to draw a capacity throng of track fans to Madison Square Garden tomorrow night for the thirteenth annual Knights of Columbus games.

Approximately 600 of the Nation's outstanding athletes, including ten national indoor champions, will take part in the meet, but it is the Pottstown marvel who will offer the main attraction.

Ever since he ran his record-breaking "4:10" mile a fortnight ago, track authorities have felt certain Venzke is capable of bettering both Lloyd Hahn's indoor mark of 3:55 4-5 and Ray Conger's indoor record of 3:55 for the 1,500 meters.

If the sensational high schooler feels like letting go with everything he has tomorrow night, it is predicted he will lower the record by at least one full second, maybe two. He was credited with having run the 1,500 meters in 3:54 the night he shattered the mile standard.

Venzke's showing at the new distance some 120 yards short of a mile will give a good idea of his chances of beating the world in the Olympics at Los Angeles. Following this appearance, he will start training exclusively at 1,500 meters in preparation for the Olympics.

One thing is assured tomorrow

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

Richardson Springs, Calif., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Because of the twin hazards of rattlesnakes and poison oak, Manager Bucky Harris has ordered his Detroit Tigers to keep to the roadways and deer trails on their conditioning hikes over the hills. Charlie Gehringer and Whitlow Wyatt broke out today with oak poisoning, from which Hugh Wise, recruit catcher, is just recovering.

Earl Whitehill and Harris were more fortunate in an encounter with a rattlesnake, but even Harris, who is not addicted to exaggeration, admitted it was a close call.

New Orleans, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians are still looking around for the same old thing—something good in the way of left-handed pitching.

Of sixteen moundsmen in camp, only two, Thornton Lee and Milburn Shoffner, are portsiders. Lee will be farmed out and that leaves it up to Shoffner, who has plenty of stuff and good control, but in two seasons with the Tribe has shown only occasional flashes of major league ability.

Paso Robles, Calif., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates are expected to do a lot of stealing this summer—base stealing, of course.

Manager George Gibson intends to make base stealing, particularly the pilfering of the second bag, one of the major features of the training schedule.

The second squad, the infielders and outfielders, is to blow into camp tomorrow. With the batterymen rounding out satisfactorily, and many of the other players reporting in good physical condition, Gibby hopes the camp ball games will get under way by Wednesday.

Bradenton, Fla., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Jess Haines, Cardinal pitcher who suffered a shoulder injury early last September that kept him off the mound the rest of the season, tested his pitching arm today and said he found it was "as good as ever."

After pitching for about fifteen minutes Haines said he felt no discomfort, but that he "was not bearing down."

Manager Gabby Street, of the world champions, said today he was highly pleased with the progress of his pitchers, and that there was not a sore arm in camp.

Boston, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The Boston Braves today headed for their spring training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla. Only two players, Bob Brown, rookie pitcher, and John Benson, catcher, were in the party. All of the other players except Catcher Al Spohrer, who boards the

Three Turfmen, Five Horses Banned in 'Gailmont' Case

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Two owners, a trainer and five horses today were suspended by the stewards of the Miami Jockey Club after an investigation of the running of a "ringer" under the name of Gailmont at Hialeah Park Tuesday. Those suspended were John P. Crawford and Willis Kane, owners; A. F. Tavenner, trainer, and the horses, Dunrock, Polish Prince, Lindby, Danish Prince and Gailmont.

The five horses, which were shipped here from Agua Caliente in charge of Tavenner, were the property of Crawford and Kane. Neither of the owners could be located by the stewards, although Tavenner received messages from them this morning, telling him to sell the horses. Crawford's message was from New York and Kane's from Savannah, Ga.

The horse, which was entered as the 3-year-old Gailmont, was identified as the 4-year-old Aknahton, a former member of Marshall Field's stable which also figured in a ringing case at Havre de Grace last fall. Gailmont broke down in Tuesday's race, finishing eleventh after racing with the leaders during the early part of the race.

The stewards of the Miami Jockey Club also referred the case to the Florida Racing Commission, which will probably rule the parties and horses concerned off the Florida turf Similar action was taken by the Maryland commission against "Nigger" Nate Raymond and eight associates after the Havre de Grace coup.

PRINCE TOKALON RETURNS TO WINNING WAYS AT HIALEAH

Gelding Wins Feature by A Head

Was Second Previous Race After 4 Victories in Row.

Waterway Is Second With Martis Next Over Finish Line.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Prince Tokalon, the gelding that won four Florida races in a row then finished a close second in his last start, returned to his winning ways here today and scored a smart victory in the Victor Hugo Purse, 1 mile feature. The son of Prince Pal gave Owner G. W. Ogle a double in beating Frank Grossman's Waterway by a head. Martis lost the place by a length and a half.

Prince Tokalon ran the 8 furlongs in 1:41 1-5 over the heaviest track of the season. He was favorite at $4.50 for $2.

Buddy Hanford, who is riding in rare form, kept the winner on the outside in the best going for the entire trip. The boy rated him close to the pace cut out by Martis and Waterway. Robertson was trying to keep out from the bad footing along the rail and allowed Waterway to sneak through on the inside round the bend. The latter took command in the stretch but Prince Tokalon, responding willingly to urging, wore down his rival in a bitter duel to the wire. Martis easily held Rip Van Winkle and Impish safe for the show honors.

Havana Feature Won by Nelson.

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Nelson, a 5-year-old son of Cherokee, flying the silks of J. E. Smallman, of London, Ontario, won a 6-furlong sprint, which featured an all-claiming program at Oriental Park today.

The victory was Nelson's first triumph in nearly two months with the result he was neglected in the wagering, paying 6 to 1. Jockey Willie Curran got the Canadian runner away with the leaders and with Cabaret showed the way to the final furlong pole, where the latter stopped.

John Lowe's Torchfire made a bid in the final sixteenth but had to be content with second money. Third went to C. E. Lenahan's Tamerlane.

Weideleen Easy Winner At New Orleans.

New Orleans, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Taking command at the half-mile post, E. F. Prichard's Weideleen easily won the 6-furlong Evangelena Purse at the Fair Grounds today.

James Poland's My Sweets set the pace to the quarter-mile, but from there on it was Weideleen's race, the 4-year-old filly beating E. R. Bradley's Harlem by a full length. Third went to My Sweets.

Weideleen, which has run in the money in each of his six starts at the Fair Grounds, ran the distance in 1:13 1-5. The filly was an even money favorite.

Takoma-Silver Spring Defeats Friends, 23-17

Takoma-Silver Spring High School, recently crowned champion of Montgomery County, took the measure of Friends School, 23-17, in an exciting game played at Silver Spring yesterday. Takoma led by a score of 13-4 at the half, and was never threatened thereafter. Bozie Bozievich was the outstanding player for the winners, while the work of Boyle for Friends was of high order.

In a preliminary game the Friends Juniors defeated Takoma-Silver Spring Junior Team, 24-13.

CAPTAIN ED was rated off the pace until rounding turn into home stretch, where he moved up stoutly, assumed an easy lead in stretch run and was drawing away at end. ANTHONY WAYNE broke rapidly and drew away into a commanding lead in early stages. He tired when challenged by the winner and was bearing out at end. SUN TEATIME saved ground all the way and finished down on inside.

BILLIE'S ORPHAN broke very fast and opened up a winning lead before they had gone a furlong. She was running well within herself all the way. IPRAL weakened at end. MODESTO, hard ridden entire journey, just lasted long enough to stall off NUTLET. Latter broke slow, but closed big gap and finished strong. MIKE REYNOLDS swerved to inside when break came and collided with MINT DRIFT.

FERVID broke forwardly and worked her way up on the outside, made a wide turn into home stretch and shook off DEDICATE in final furlong. She finished out in the middle of the track. DEDICATE tired when put to a drive. PARNELL BOUND, in rather close quarters in early running, hung when put to a drive. JALPUR showed lot of early speed, but quit after going three furlongs.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BILL SOUTHAM, $37.90, $17.20, $7.40; WINNIE C., $23.70, $8.90; ZEGORA, $6.30.

BILL SOUTHAM trailed in behind the pacemaker until well around the far turn, where he moved up in resolute fashion, shook off ZEGORA without effort, but had to be ridden out at end to stall off WINNIE C. Latter saved ground all the way and closed full of courage. ZEGORA showed lot of speed for five furlongs before she began to quit. RUBRIDGE raced on the outside until straightened out in home stretch, where he bore over to the inside rail. FAIR BLANCHE showed flash of early speed.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300; allowances. Victor Hugo Purse. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:21. Off at 4:22½. Winner, G. W. Ogle's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRINCE TOKALON, $4.50, $3.20, out; WATERWAY, $7.50, out; MARTIS, out.

PRINCE TOKALON, messed about in early stages, was finally taken to outside entering home stretch. He closed courageously in stretch run and was up in final strides. WATERWAY came through on inside at stretch turn, where he saved ground, went to the front at furlong pole, but hung last fifty yards. MARTIS was made lot of use of and he tired under the weight. RIP VAN WINKLE was never able to improve his position.

SIXTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:51. Off at 4:52½. Winner, Mrs. A. Carfano's blk. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GENERAL A., $3.10, out, out; DANCING MACK, out, out; JOHN F., out.

GENERAL A. opened up a long lead first quarter and was rated under slight restraint until final furlong. Mills was shaking him up at end. DANCING MACK, rated off the pace, moved up with a good burst of speed at top of home stretch, but swerved down to inside rail last sixteenth. JOHN F. a nonmudder, was wearing DANCING MACK down at end.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 5:19. Off at 5:20½. Winner, W. Duffy's b. h. GENIAL HOST ran very game race under clever handling. He broke fast and was perfectly rated with slight lead, ran BOUNDING DEEP into submission and held on tenaciously when challenged by STELLANOVA. Latter was rated well up for six furlongs, made up ground fast when called upon and was wearing winner down. CHAS. CLARKE, far back for six furlongs, closed with a rush to beat LIONHEARTED. Latter reached leaders turning into stretch, but faltered under pressure. BOUNDING DEEP tired chasing the pace.

HIALEAH PARK RACE TRACK, Fla., Feb. 26.—The Miami Jockey Club's meeting of 39 days comes to a close with the running of tomorrow's program. One of the most interesting cards of the current session has been arranged. The Florida Derby, a $10,000 added event, for 3-year-olds exclusively, which will be contested over the gruelling mile-and-an-eighth route, received a list of eight sterling performers in this feature.

Many of the supporting events have attracted some highly regarded juveniles and platers and the card bristles with class from beginning to end. Despite the cloudy weather and the heavy track, which will undoubtedly prevail, the management is expecting a crowd of record-breaking proportions to attend the brilliant closing day program.

In the Florida Derby, G. D. Widener's sensational filly, EVENING, which equaled the track record at seven furlongs and subsequently scored in two important events at one mile, holds a strong chance to capture the honors in the main event. The St. James filly is in receipt of thirteen pounds from J. J. Robinson's LUCKY TOM. The latter, one of the leading juveniles of last season, has had several conditioning races, but, with the gruelling impost of 126 pounds, may falter under the burden. CATHOP has reached the peak of his form and in his present condition must be considered a serious threat for the major honors.

FIRST RACE—MORDEN faltered last start after setting the pace and with that effort as a tightener should hold his opponents safe. NORWALK and PARTIES have shown improvement in recent starts and are selected to battle it out for the remainder of the purse.

SECOND RACE—BROOKSIE showed a return to winning form the other day, and over the heavy course may encounter stern opposition from KNOWLTON for the major prize. The latter is a steady mud runner. POLYGAMOUS has raced well against this class and is the show selection.

THIRD RACE—FETISH has demonstrated his ability to negotiate a route and is given the call. SILVERY is the place choice, with FAIR BILL, a consistent plater, favored for the minor award.

FOURTH RACE—MEANY holds a decided edge over his ten rivals. The Lowenstein colt raced Okapi to a nose in the Nursery States, which points him out as the winner of this number. MEANTIC has shown steady form in his previous starts and should force the pace. LE BRUYERS displayed a nice effort last outing and figures best of the remaining starters.

SIXTH RACE—SOUTHCO, on his recent second to James River, appears best. PRINCE FOX is given the place call, with MY PURCHASE favored over DR. SYNTAX for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—The concluding event of the day and meeting attracted ten eligibles. WAR SAINT has the speed and class of this group, and is the logical choice. BOSAFABO is on the improve and should finish in the runner-up position. MIKE CAREY figures to finish in the money.

ALEXANDRIA TITLE PLAY PLANNED

Series for Junior and Senior Fives Likely Next Month.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 26—Plans for a junior and senior basket ball series to be held here in March are being worked out by Robert McDonald, local basket ball impresario. McDonald hopes to secure twelve teams for play in the two leagues. The junior class will be open to clubs averaging 120 pounds, while the senior division will find teams weighing in at 145 pounds.

Twelve dates will be open at the armory next month and it is proposed to stage the tournament on these nights. Alexandria teams wishing to enter in the local tourney are requested to communicate with McDonald at Alexandria 2256 or to file their names at the Gazette sports department.

Community Center Plan In Vogue.

After the local clubs have signed up, a night will be set aside for a meeting and the weighing in of the players. It is proposed to have the league operate on the community center plan, with each player paying ten cents the night his team performs in the armory. This will do away with the entrance fee and make it possible for every individual to play in the tourney and carry all operating expenses.

Managers Ralph Scrivener, of the Fraters, Tommy Lucas, of the Lyceum, and Jack Watt, of the Virginians have pledged their cooperation to make the series a success. The Columbias copped the unlimited championship here. They were undefeated in the city series.

Western High School courtmen will invade this city Saturday night to close the schedule of the Alexandria High School team in outside games. The Westerners defeated the "Twins" early in the season by a close score.

Athletic Director Given, of the A. H. S. announced today the Fraters and Scholastics would perform in the preliminary.

IOWA MIDGETS WIN.

The Iowa Midgets beat the J. C. C. Midgets yesterday, 26-14, at the J. C. C.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

STRANGE as it seems • • • Among other cheery Christmas greetings received by Emil Bakken, of Minneapolis, was one from Hell • • • Norway.

• • • •

John McKelvey, 72, Long Beach, Calif., twice placed a pistol to his head and fired • • • without success. His skull was too hard.

• • • •

A unique contest was held at Belle Plaine, Iowa, a year or so ago. A prize was offered • • • $100 for the most flea-bitten dog in four counties. A police dog walked off with the honors and without his 113 fleas. Then he was put at the head of the 48 other contestants and paraded through the principal streets of Belle Plaine amid the cheers of thousands.

CENTRAL IS BEATEN BY G. U. PREPS

Prep Tossers Lead From Start to Win, 28-25.

GEORGETOWN PREP, runner-up in the prep school championship, won one of its most important victories of the year yesterday afternoon at Garrett Park when Central High was trimmed by a score of 28 to 25 in a close and exciting game.

Georgetown Prep, going into the game on the short end of the odds, led from the beginning right down to the end, with Central but a half a step behind. The Prep Team was off to an early start, when Tom Keating, Allan and Nee peppered the Central goal to give their side a lead of 10-3 in the first quarter and 15-10 at the half.

Central Gaining Near Finish.

Keating continued his fine shooting throughout the game. Buddy Nau was the bulwark of the losing team.

Three Games Today For D. C. School Fives

Tech and Western wind up their regular basket ball seasons today, when they take on the Georgetown University Freshmen and Alexandria, respectively. Tech meets the Hoya Frosh at Tech at 7:15 p. m. as a preliminary to the Georgetown-Carnegie Tech game. Western plays Alexandria this afternoon at Alexandria.

St. Alban's entertains Christ Church in the only other game involving a local scholastic team.

G. W. Mermen Hosts To Duke U. Tonight

George Washington University's swimming team will play host to Duke University tonight at 7 o'clock in the Ambassador Hotel pool. One of the most interesting meets of the year should result as the two teams are about on par. The Colonials are banking heavily on Capt. Max Rote and his teammates to bring home the bacon. Rote will compete in the dash and back stroke events. Jimmy Kinsler, breaststroke; Burnside, 440-yard, and Gale Heslop, fancy diving, are other George Washington worthies who will swim.

The freshman teams of the two schools will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Duke Swimmers Win From Central, 45-30

Finishing first in five of the seven events, Duke University's freshman swimming team defeated the strong Central High aggregation, 45 to 30, in a meet contested in the Central pool yesterday. Bob Knight and the 150-yard medley relay team furnished the only Central victories of the day. Knight gave a brilliant exhibition of fancy diving to win that event with ease.

The Duke natators are scheduled to meet the George Washington freshmen today at 4 p. m.

100 QUINTETS AWAIT DISTRICT A. A. U. TOURNAMENT OPENING

Post's Event Will Start Tuesday

High Officials to See First of Championship Contests.

Boys Weigh in for Games; Races Are Wide Open.

THE greatest assortment of basket ball players ever gathered in a court tournament east of Chicago, 100 teams and nearly 1,000 players, await the opening gun of the District A. A. U. tournament, which blares into action Tuesday night at Tech High Gymnasium before a distinguished group of publicists, including Dr. George C. Havenner, executive vice president of the District George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

A. A. U. officials are at work mapping out the giant schedule, and may possibly complete their task today or tomorrow. It is planned to hold three games the first night, and four each succeeding night until seven District A. A. U. champions emerge from the fire of competition. It is likely to take a month of solid play to finish the tournament.

Those few stragglers whom officials were unable to weigh in last night may hop on the scales tonight between 7:30 and 8:30. At 8:30 the weighing-in will cease completely, and any player in the 100, 115, 130 or 145 pound class who has not proven that he can make the weight will be omitted from the tournament, or forced to ascend to another team in a higher weight class.

Boys Labor to "Make" Weight.

Several hundred youths were weighed in last night, and the majority slipped through without much trouble, although the streets around the Boys Club found many running around the block garbed in three sweaters in a hard-working attempt to make the weight class. Some others chose the hot showers at the club.

Never in the six-year history of the tournament has such a conglomeration of basket ball talent been noticeable in the unlimited division. The Potomac Boat Club is defending its title, but any of ten teams seem capable of upsetting the Boatmen, and the Boatmen, on the other hand, might well upset them.

The Quantico Marines, for one, loom as powers and fancy drawing cards. The Marines are a big, rawboned crew, with one of the best natural shots in this region of the country, Sergt Locke, jumping center. Yet Saks' Clothers, another unlimited entrant, has beaten the Marines, Saks has been bumped off by the Potomac Boat Club, Mount Vernon and Griffith Consumers, Delaware and Hudson beat the Boat Club.

High School Players Compete.

To this crew has been added three great high school court combinations, the Eastern Scholastics, Maroon Scholastics, composed of Tech boys, and Central "C" Club. Big fast quints, with a preponderance of expert basketers, this trio might well produce the winner of the unlimited tournament among them.

The 145-pound ranks see at least five teams capable of crashing through to victory. Business High with much the same crew which thrilled thousands of high school fans this season, is one of the favorites. St. Martin's has a fine chance, with the Plant boys, Augusterfer and Dolan, while the Shade Shop, with many of last year's Boys' Club Big Five in the line-up, must not be overlooked. The Boys' Club entrant is a strong contender, as are the St. John's Victors, the latter team, headed by Mike Scanlon, rated the most valuable player in prep school ranks.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

THREE sweepstakes and one special match are on the bowling card today. The stake events are the Potomac doubles and singles, to be rolled at Temple; the American Legion Handicap, the scene of which will be Arcadia, and the Suburban Doubles which will be inaugurated at Georgetown Recreation.

Since the Potomac and Suburban affairs conflict with one another, "Reds" Megaw, the guiding hand behind the former, has announced that those teams desiring to participate in the Potomac may roll in either the afternoon or evening. The singles will be rolled in the afternoon and the doubles are scheduled at night, but under Megaw's plan participants will be enabled to get in the necessary number of games at their convenience.

The American Legion affair also will move in three stages. The first goes at 3 p. m., the second at 6 o'clock and the final at 8. The Suburban will get under way promptly at 7:30 p. m.

Harry Viehmeyer's 159 and 374 scores copped the individual awards in the Odd Fellows League at Convention Hall. Phoenix was the best of the teams, rolling a 580 game and 1,602 total.

The Accounting team bagged the team honors in the Washington Gaslight loop at the Hall with its 556 and 1,524 scores. Kline's 145 game and 361 set were prize-winners.

Willy Watt rolled a set of 350 for one of the Veteran's Bureau League's individual prizes at the Hall. Kelsey's 132 game was high in this respect. Claims outdistanced the teams with its 567 game and 1,572 total for the trio.

Joe Jacobs was the big gun in the Bureau of Engraving loop at the same alleys. He spilled the ducks for a 146 and finished out the string with 368. Section No. 4 clamped down on the team game laurels with 552, and the Engineers contrived to win the set award with their 1,554

Patents No. 2 made it twelve in a row when it took all of the candy from Patents No. 2 in the Department of Commerce loop last night. Kaschub (not pronounced catsup) was the big strike and spare man with a game of 142 and 355 set. Standards won everytihng there was to win from Patents No. 1. Coast Survey did the same to Foreign and Domestic, while Mines won over Census by a like margin. Hargett outdid Mr. Kaschub by rolling a 149 game and 399 set.

Messrs. Young and Simon continue in reverse gear. Last night they finished on the short end of a 2-1 score with Lucky Strike. The latter five rolled games of 646, 610 and 552, while their opponents marked up games of 594, 515 and 583. Lee Atwell's 148 and Paul Brill's 386 were high.

The General Counsel Men's circuit held forth at the same alleys and the Indians scalped a few pins for a 556 game while the Yankees battered their way through the maples for a 1,523 set. Weekly's 131 game and Drake's 351 set fitted right in with the picture.

The only special match listed for the day is that between Maxie Rosenberg's Northeast Hupmobile Team and the Martin Sales Team, of Richmond, to be rolled at 8 p. m. at Convention Hall. The locals secured an 83-pin hold on the lead in the first block of the match, rolled at Richmond last week. Astor Clarke, Joe Harrison, Johnny Anderson, Jack Wolstenholme, Earl McPhilomy, Joe Pricci and Maxie will oppose the invaders. "Hobnails" Francis, Jimmy Neagle, "Red" Neblett, Louis Davis, Bill Byrne and Bill Inge will do the invading. Inge is a former resident of this city and cut quite a figure in the Masonic League a few years back.

A meeting of the Washington Suburban Duckpin Association will be held at 2 p. m. today at the Mount Rainier alleys. Officers will be elected and other important business transacted.

A petition has been drawn up by members of the Golf Clubs Bowling League, by which Clark Griffith, president of the local baseball club, will be requested to order Sam Rice to report for training immediately. The boys simply can't win a thing with Sam hanging around. Last night he rolled a 368 set and led the loop. Charley O'Connell's 148 game was the best recorded. Indian Spring hung up a new set record for the league of 1,717, which included a 611 game. Congressional and Chevy Chase concluded their match in a unique manner, each winning a game with the third ending in a draw, and the boys let it go at that. Air Corps was on the losing end of two matches, falling before Manor, 2-1, and bowing to Indian Spring by the same score. The latter also whitewashed Beaver Dam. Columbia was 1 up on Argyle.

All local bowlers intending to compete in the national tournament to be held at Norfolk in March are invited to attend a meeting of the National Duckpin Congress to be held in the sketch room of the Annapolis tomorrow. Reservations for hotels and transportation will be accepted at this time.

Pay and Travel (and as Charley Bell said, "Raise mine and I'll do it") romped off with the team set honors in the General Accounting Office circuit at the Hall, with a score of 1,562. Accounting took the game honors with its 458. Seyfarth's 137 game and Minster's 352 total for the three were the best of the individual counts.

Ed Winn's bowling was the feature of the Quartermaster Men's loop at Columbia. He rattled the furniture for a 357 set, which included a 134 game. Construction's 1,566 and 537 scores not only garnered the team awards but enabled it to whitewash Depot. Design, Engineers and Supply won the odd ones from Power, Mechanics and Transportation.

The deuce was wild in the Ladies Division of the Quartermaster loop at the same alleys. Supply, Construction and Executives had the even numbers. Personnel, Real Estate and Engineers were left holding the bag. Construction's 465 game and 1,344 set, Miss Hamm's 316 set and the 115 games rolled by Miss Ross and Miss Milliken were good for prizes.

Esther Burton was the leading lady as Lucky Strike won a pair from Georgetown Recreation in the Ladies District League. Her best game was 122, and her set, 348.

The R. Harris Seniors hung up an all-time record for the Jewelers League when they rolled a 1,639 set at Columbia and won all three from Limon. They also had high game for the night, 587. Tobey's 354 set and Jack Preller's 141 game topped the individual scoring.

Steele-Kotsonaros In Wrestle Feature

Roebuck Also on Card as Mat Scene Shifts to Auditorium.

Scheduled for the Washington Auditorium for the first time in three weeks of wrestling cards, next Thursday night's mat show will be headed by Ray Steele, generally rated just below Londos in the Eastern circuit. Steele will meet George Kotsonaros, the reformed movie villain and former wrestler, who has not been beaten in rassling ranks except by Londos since deserting Kliegland.

Tiny Roebuck, the only warrior left in the Choctaw tribe, is back on the bill, slated to match tackles with Frank Spears, a former Georgia Tech football player. This also is a finish match. The rest of the card will be arranged during the week.

Kotsonaros has not been beaten in Washington in many appearances. He has tossed Sandor Szabo three times in Philadelphia.

C. U. Boxers Hosts To Loyola Monday

4 Card Regulars Out; Subs to Get Drill for Coming Temple Match.

Catholic University and Loyola, of Baltimore, long rivals on the gridiron and basket ball court, meet in the ring for the first time Monday night when the Cardinals travel to the neighboring city.

The contest with Loyola was not on the Cards' regular schedule, but was hurriedly arranged yesterday. This is the first year that Loyola has taken up boxing, and the Baltimoreans are anxious to gain some experience. Faced with the prospect of meeting Temple, one of his hardest opponents, next Saturday, with the possibility of four regulars being out of the line-up, Coach Eddie LaFond, of C. U., was equally anxious to hook up with Loyola to give his substitutes some much-needed experience.

Miro, bantamweight, has had a bad nose; Calabrese, featherweight, and Stines, welterweight, are both down with the grippe, and DiGiacomo, lightweight, is ailing. LaFond plans to use Bruton in the 115-pound class, Generazzo or Gleason in the 125-pound, and Thibodeau in the 135-pound class against Loyola. If Stines is no better, C. U. may be forced to forfeit the welterweight bout. Stapleton will fight at 155, Pyne at 165, Gearty at 175, and Flynn, unlimited.

Loyola has had only one other match, having lost, 6 to 1, to Western Maryland. Its only bout was won by Tom Farrell, 210-pound tackle of the grid team, who was once enrolled at C. U.

Virginia Medicos Bow To Gallaudet, 45-32

Piling up a 26-to-11 lead in the first half, Gallaudet College's court team encountered but little opposition from Virginia Medical College and won by a score of 45 to 32 before a large crowd at Kendall Green last night.

The Silents exhibited a great passing attack which penetrated the Medicos' defense like water running through a sieve. Marty Jensen led the attack, ringing up 14 points. Al Brown was second in this respect with 13.

Boote, Montgomery and Oliver played well for the visitors. The trio led the Virginia rally in the second half, which for a time threatened to overhaul the flying Gallaudet combination. "Bilbo" Monoghan's splendid defense work in the final period retarded the uprising.

BIG PROGRAM FOR NAVY TODAY

Boxing Bouts With Syracuse Will Feature Card.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 26.—With the basket ball season at an end, and the varsity swimming and water polo teams idle for the day, the athletic carnival at the Naval Academy tomorrow will be somewhat curtailed compared to the last few Saturdays.

However, the Middies will be active along several lines with the boxing match with Syracuse to be held at night as the outstanding feature. Wrestling bouts with representatives of Brown University will dominate the afternoon card.

Boxing always is a big drawing card, but tomorrow's meet is attracting more than usual interest, as the Tars went down to defeat before the Syracusans last year, it being their only reverse in a dual meet in twelve years of campaigning. The Orange is said to have practically a veteran team, so it would appear the Middies will be in for a busy time of it.

The card of home events for the day follows:

1:30 p. m.—Rifle shooting, varsity against University of West Virginia; plebes against Western High of Washington.

2 p. m.—Swimming, plebes against Mercersburg Academy of Mercersburg, Pa.; water polo, plebes against Baltimore Polytechnic.

2:30 p. m.—Fencing, varsity against Princeton; gymnastics, varsity against Temple University of Philadelphia; boxing, plebes against Augusta Military Academy of Fort Defiance, Va.; wrestling, plebes against Virginia Military Institute freshmen.

4 p. m.—Wrestling, varsity against Brown.

8 p. m.—Boxing, varsity against Syracuse.

St. John's Five Wins From Boys Club, 24-14

St. John's, prep school champions, stepped away in the last half of their game last night to take a 24-14 tussle from the Boys Club Big Five. The game was played at the Boys Club Gymnasium before an almost capacity house and was fast and fiercely played throughout.

The teams battled to 3-3 at the quarter and 7-7 at the half. Fine floor play on the part of the Cadets, plus the shooting of John McCarthy, center, were the deciding factors.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Though suffering from a slight concussion of the brain, John Maxos, young Greek wrestler, injured in a bout with Ed (Strangler) Lewis, is showing signs of recovery tonight.

Lewis, former heavyweight champion of the world, arrested shortly after his opponent was injured last night, is free on $500 bail. Lewis left today for Philadelphia.

The men had grappled 27 minutes 25 seconds when Lewis tossed his opponent to the floor. Maxos writhed for a time, then lapsed into unconsciousness. He was taken to a hospital.

Welsh, Other Stars Here Today to Finish Training

Strickler-Lawson to Wage Real Battle Monday Night.

DICK WELSH, Vince Forgione and Al Trainor, participants in the all-star boxing card to be presented at Ritchie Coliseum Monday night, will arrive here tomorrow to conclude training for their engagements.

Welsh will be brought here from Philadelphia, where he has been working out, by his manager, Chris Dundee, while Forgione and Trainor are due today.

Young Welsh's exhibition against Kocsis will be watched with much interest, not only by local boxing fans, but by promoters in Philadelphia and New York, where negotiations are under way to match him against leading bantamweight talent within the near future.

Strickler Tough Foe For Trainor.

Trainor will have his hands full with Billy Strickler, local light-heavyweight, when they get together in one of the eight rounders.

Strickler is one of the toughest boys in this vicinity when it comes to boxing. He proved his mettle against Eric Lawson. Billy is in tip-top shape for the melee. He will conclude training today at the Terminal Y. M. C. A.

Eric Lawson will not put in an appearance here until Monday afternoon when all the boxers will weigh in at Rigg's Turkish Bath at 2 o'clock.

The real set of the night, which has fans in this neck of the woods stirred up is the Bobby Burns-Louis Jallos go.

Both boys have been pounding away all week, especially Bobby, who is anxious to prove that his victory over Jallos at Portner's recently was no fluke.

Fans who expect to attend the bouts by automobile can follow the route via Rhode Island avenue to Hyattsville. The Coliseum is located just beyond Hyattsville.

Large Advance Sale.

The largest advance sale of the season indicated a record breaking crowd, but excellent seats are still available and there will be no advance in the original popular prices, $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50.

Boxing and Wrestling At Potomac Boat Club

The Potomac Boat Club, veteran D. C. sporting organization, will branch out tonight into more widely spread fields of endeavor when it holds its first of a series of athletic nights, featuring boxing and wrestling.

Among the fighters on tonight's card are Lou Bevinson and Mike Tardugno, capable District A. A. U. champions, who will meet unannounced opponents.

Bill and Bud Haven, former A. A. U. heavyweight wrestling champions, meet Harry Smith and Joe McLoughlin, respectively, on the mat. A buffet supper and dance will follow.

Y. M. C. A. FIVE IN PHILLY.

The Y. M. C. A. unlimited basket-ball team will journey to Philadelphia today where it is scheduled to meet the Germantown quintet tonight. The locals have compiled an impressive record for the season, winning 23 games and losing 5. All players are requested to meet at the Y. M. C. A. this morning at 10 o'clock.

FAIRLAWN SEEKS GAMES.

The Fairlawn 145-pound quintet would like to arrange games with teams in its class. Call the manager at Lincoln 4351-J.

M. G. A. BODY ARRANGES DATES

Season's Golf Card Planned; Tourney at Columbia.

THE program of golf events for the approaching season, to be staged under the management of the Maryland State Golf Association, was arranged last night at a meeting of the association held at the Chevy Chase Club, with Edgar A. Peppler, of the Rolling Road Club and president of the association, presiding.

It was decided to hold the Maryland State open on the course of the Columbia Club on Wednesday, September 28. The Maryland women's championship will be held on the Elkridge course, Baltimore, during the first week in June, while the junior championship was assigned to the Maryland Country Club, the senior championship to Green Spring Valley, Baltimore, and the amateur championship to Hillendale, Baltimore.

Congressional to Hold Scotch Foursome.

The dates for the three last-named events were not fixed. It was also decided that a Scotch foursome would be held in the future on the course of the Congressional Club.

During the meeting a letter was read from S. Prescott Bush, secretary of the United States Golf Association, confirming the statement printed in The Post several days ago, that the qualification round for the national amateur championship would be held on the Chevy Chase course on Tuesday, August 16. After some discussion it was agreed that the details of this event should be left to the officials of the District Golf Association.

The question of handicapping also was considered at some length, and it was finally decided that during the present year the Colkins system, which is imperative upon the District clubs, should be recognized by the association for local organizations, and that the Maryland clubs should continue with the Watson-Smith system, which has been adopted for the Maryland association. This determination was reached in lieu of a suggestion that the whole matter be left to the decision of the Middle Atlantic Golf Association, which meets in this city on March 5.

Many Clubs Represented At Meeting.

Among those present at the meeting, in addition to President Peppler, were Emmett Gary, assistant secretary; William S. Waxter, Baltimore Country Club; Nathan Kaufman, Suburban Club, Baltimore; Philip Heusler, Rolling Road, chairman of the senior division; William Parker Hall, Maryland Country Club; Robert McLean, former president of the Maryland State Golf Association; J. W. Byron, vice president for the Hagerstown section, and the following representing Washington clubs: Robert Stead, jr., Chevy Chase; M. H. Maier, Beaver Dam; David L. Thomson, Manor, and president of the District Golf Association; George P. James, Columbia; P. S. Ridsdale, Chevy Chase; Albert E. Steinem, Woodmont; M. Parker Nolan, Congressional, and George H. Llewellyn, Kenwood.

train at Philadelphia, will go direct from their homes.

Fort Myers, Fla., Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The Athletics have their usual giant rookie hurler in training camp this year. Last season there was Hank McDonald, big boy from the Pacific Coast, and the year before somebody else.

This time it's Robert E. Chandler, from Decatur, Ala., 19 years old, 6 feet 4, 194 pounds, right-handed. He says a traveling salesman discovered him and wrote Connie Mack about him and Mack invited him down.

He's a fast-ball pitcher, but he hasn't been allowed to take the wraps off yet. He also is said to have a curve unusual for his type of flinger.

Mineral Wells, Tex., Feb. 16 (U.P.).—The Chicago White Sox today launched their week's program of batting and hiking with an enthusiasm rarely shown in the days when the team started training with actual baseball maneuvers.

The battery men and the fielders are being handled as separate units, even during the hikes. During the entire training season the pitchers and catchers will wear blue uniforms and the fielders white, an innovation designed to check up digressions and loafing. The last chance of holdout excitement disappeared today with the signing of Carey Selph, Houston infielder, who was first pick in the 1931 draft. Selph had said he never would play any place except Houston.

Los Angeles, Feb. 26 (U.P.).—With Fred Fitzsimmons, pitcher, and Eddie Moore, second baseman, having signed their contracts, the New York Giants today boasted a complete roster as the rookies and a few regulars held brisk workouts while awaiting the arrival of the rest of the squad this week-end.

Frank Hogan, catcher, who ran into a concrete grandstand yesterday, was in bed with a badly injured knee, and it was uncertain when he would be able to workout again.

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 26 (U.P.).—There are strong indications here that Waite Hoyt, veteran major league pitcher, recently released by the Athletics, will soon sign a Brooklyn contract. Manager Carey and Hoyt had a long conference last night and early today the Robins boss said that Hoyt had been made an offer which he probably would accept.

Carey is satisfied with Hoyt's condition and believes he'll strengthen the staff. Hoyt is down to 178 pounds, 28 pounds lighter than he was when he started a world series game in Philadelphia last fall.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 26 (U.P.).—A fielding drill for the Yankee pitchers was the chief feature of today's workout at Huggins Field here. Manager McCarthy stressed the point that games are too often lost by the inability of pitchers to field bunts and cover first base.

Cy Perkins surpervised the drill under the direction of McCarthy. There were no new arirvals for today's workout, but McCarthy announced that Ben Chapman had called him from Birmingham and accepted terms.

STOCK MARKET SAGS IN NARROW TRADING

Fixed Income Issues Gain on Easy Money Outlook; Steel Is Lower.

New York, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—On effects of the lower bank rate, stocks refused today to commit themselves, edging narrowly up and down in a highly professional market, and finally closing with a scattering of small losses, to put the averages down one-tenth of a point.

Fixed income securities, including some preferred equities, responded promptly to the promise of easier money. Bankers acceptance dealers adjusted rates to conform to the central bank rate, and the Federal raised its own buying price.

Stock sales fell to 894,145 shares. Range of fluctuations was notably narrow, in many instances amounting to not more than a point. Several issues that managed to get out of the rut emerged on the upside, National Lead, United Biscuit and Industrial Rayon being in this group. Gillette rallied in a substantial turnover, while the preferred shares rose more than 5. Auburn came within a fraction of its recent low and then retraced part of the ground lost.

Steels Close Lower.

General Electric, Westinghouse and General Motors closed unchanged. United States Steel, American Telephone, Woolworth, Du Pont, American Can, New York Central and Consolidated Gas closed ½ to a point lower. Utilities Power & Light A was soft, making a new 1932 minimum at 6. Southern Pacific was also heavy.

Poor earnings statements by railroads are being taken as a matter of course, which is doubtless the reason why the January figures are being largely ignored marketwise. "Net railway operating income" in many instances turned out to be a deficit last month and the persistent decline is taken to mean that more roads will go to the credit agencies for assistance.

Aid given thus far is said to have prevented some embarrassing situations, but the point is made that the aid was at hand when needed and that more is available. It will be another month before the wage cuts are reflected in the periodic reports.

Status of Business.

February draws to its close leaving business little changed from its state at the beginning of the month. This is the time for a between-season letdown in some lines and such a reaction is appearing, although the weekly mercantile reviews maintained that buying continued to hold its own.

Bradstreet's said the optimism apparent in its reports was based on the smaller number of bank suspensions and "the belief that the spring will witness some general increase in activity."

Federal Reserve Bank activity in the bill market slackened, for the supply of offerings was smaller, evidently because holders of acceptances anticipated higher prices. The bank's recent purchases were largely to replace maturities and apparently had no connection with an easy money policy. It was nevertheless reported that the bank was ready to absorb all bills not taken by other buyers, although this might be because its immediate requirements were still unsatisfied.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Aroused by big price advances in European continental markets, wheat scored material gains here today, but failed to hold the bulges.

Indications that Farm Board agencies had wheat for sale at 62¾ cents May delivery acted at least temporarily as an offset to sensational jumps in wheat values abroad. Wheat at Hamburg, Germany, closed 4⅛ higher, Copenhagen, Denmark, 4⅜ up, and Genoa, Italy, showing 7⅛ rise.

Chicago wheat futures closed steady at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅜ lower, corn ⅛-⅜ off, oats unchanged to ¼ down, and provisions 2 to 32 cents up.

Active buying developed at times in connection with Chicago wheat market upturns, but liquidating sales on the part of speculative holders broadened out in the last 30 minutes. The unloading accompanied expressions of beliefe that Farm Board agencies were feeding the pit with wheat at around the day's top level. Earlier, the market was stimulated by intimations of further export interest in United States hard winter wheat at the Gulf of Mexico, some concern about crop complaints from Ohio, and by word from various Kansas points that grasshoppers had appeared in large numbers.

A bullish construction in some quarters was put upon reports that American, British and French ambassadors were insisting no more Japanese troops be landed at the Shanghai International Settlement, and that Japanese warships' position be altered. Advices were also current that Russia had expressed dissatisfaction with Japanese activities relative to Manchuria. Another source of bullish sentiment was word that Russia had practically ceased exporting wheat, and was shipping grain to famine stricken home districts. On the other hand, early estimates of large export purchases of North American wheat were not substantiated, and dwindled finally to 500,000 bushels.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. Mild weather made feeding demand slow, and shipping call here was nil.

BOND PRICES HIGHER IN HEAVY TURNOVERS

Sales Total $12,041,000, as List of 60 Securities Records Gains.

New York, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The bond market today made a bow to higher prices, with United States Government issues still occupying the center of the investment stage.

Renewed enthusiasm was injected into the Federal list by the New York Federal Reserve Bank's cutting of the rediscount yesterday and a reduction today in the bankers' acceptance rate. Dealers generally believed that lower interest on the Government's March financing was indicated.

Three of the Liberty loans reached new highs during the session, but reacted moderately later under flurries of profit-taking. All of these, however, retained some of their gains. Two of the Treasuries closed at new top figures for the year, but some of them eased slightly under realizing.

The utilities, for the first time in several weeks, attracted some attention. Gains of fractions to a point or more were made by some liens of American Telephone, American & Foreign Power, Brooklyn Edison, New York Edison, Brooklyn Union Gas, Columbia Gas & Electric, Consolidated Gas, General Public Service, Western Electric and International Telephone.

The railways also followed the upward trail, and reasonable advances were recorded by the majority. Chicago & Northwestern General 5s gained 12½ points on the sale of two bonds. St. Louis Southwestern Consolidated 4s, due this year, were in the greatest demand of all the carriers, closing 5¾ points higher. Rock Island, Arkansas & Louisville division, 4½s, added 5⅛ points to their previous price.

The industrials were not so buoyant, but they were sufficiently strong to raise their averages slightly. International Match liens continued to sag, losing from 2½ to 3 points. Goodrich loans were up more than 2 points. Oil company bonds also advanced.

Japanese obligations, although traded in only moderately, were heavy. Substantial advances, however, were made by issues of Argentine, Buenos Aires, Chile, Canada, Columbia, Dutch East Indies, Australia, New South Wales and Germany. Graz Municipal 8s were 10 points higher. British loans gained from ¼ to 4⅞ points.

Sales totaled $12,041,000 and the average for 60 corporate securities gained 2-10 of a point.

25 Reports and Addresses Arranged for Meeting to Last Four Days.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

An assemblage of architects, engineers, scientists and other experts in design and use of concrete for all construction purposes, opening March 1 for a four-day session at the Wardman Park Hotel, was announced yesterday by Duff A. Abrams, president of the American Concrete Institute, who is making arrangements for this twenty-eighth annual meeting.

The program indicates that the use of concrete in building and construction work of all kinds will be discussed by experts in meetings that are open to the public. There is a program of 25 reports and addresses. Tentative construction specifications for concrete work on ordinary building will be reported by a committee as well as specifications for reinforcing steel.

Other reports and papers will cover the special finish of concrete sidewalks in Washington, the design and building of the Mount Vernon Memorial highway, concrete walls, arches and bridges, construction of irrigation and dam structures of concrete, curing by steam and the strength and deflection of columns of concrete. Cast stone as a means of color in architecture will be discussed by F. E. Lear, professor of architectural design, Syracuse University.

Curb Review

New York, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Curb prices drifted uncertainly in another sluggish session today, in which trading aggregated only 150,000 shares.

The market maintained a fairly steady tone during most of the session, although some selling came into the utilities and miscellaneous industrials.

American Gas & Electric lost ¾ of a point. Middle West Utilities sagged ⅜ to ¾, then recovered to 4. Some selling appeared in Middle West bonds, the convertible 5s of 1932 reaching a new low at 64.

Electric Bond & Share was about steady, closing at 9⅞, off ⅛. Niagara Hudson was virtually unaffected by its 1931 earnings report showing 51 cents a share, and the proposal to exchange one new share for each three of the present shares. The stock closed at 6½, off ⅛. Utilities Power & Light reached a new low at 1⅝, and closed at 2, off ½ net.

Among the petroleum issues, Eureka Pipeline mounted 2 points to a new top for the year at 32, coincident with announcement of an advance of 5 cents a barrel to $1.50 in the price of Pennsylvania crude in its lines. Standard of Indiana dipped ¼ to 15½. Gulf was steady.

Industrials were mixed. New York Shipbuilding, Western Air Express and Aluminum Co. gained about a point. New York steam rose a fraction in response to report of record earnings for 1931. New Jersey Zinc was off a point, coincident with a sag in zinc prices. Glen Alden Coal also lost a point, registering a new low.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—A slight opening advance in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables was followed by reactions in the cotton market today.

May contracts sold off from 7.16 to 7.05 in the late trading under realizing and Southern selling, and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net losses of 6 to 9 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 to 4 points on overnight buying orders, which seemed to come partly from the trade. The demand was supplied by Southern selling and realizing, however, and the market worked gradually lower later in the day.

The action of the stock market following the reduction in the New York Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate was considered disappointing, and may have accounted for some scattered liquidation.

Offerings increased toward the close, with March selling off to 6.91 and October to 7.44, and final quotations were at the lowest of the day on all active positions.

There were reports of a continued steady spot situation, which were probably reflected by some of the early buying and may have brought in some support in the decline.

Weather reports indicated more favorable conditions in the South, but were not generally mentioned in connection with the action of the market.

Liverpool cables said that covering and Bombay buying had been supplied by realizing or liquidation in that market and reported an improved cloth demand from South America.

The passage of the Glass-Steagall bill had been generally anticipated, but its failure to stimulate buying may have been a factor on the late decline. Exports today, 47,461, making 5,816,508 so far this season. Port receipts, 59,549. U. S. port stocks, 4,782,904.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—It was reported today that the General Electric Co. recently made several shipments of turbines and power apparatus from its Lynn, Mass., plants to Russia. Employment at the Lynn plants is said to be around 5,000, against 8,000 in former years.

A cheerful note for stockholders of the Eureka Vacuum Cleaner Co. was sounded today by the company's president, Fred Wardel. He reported a $19,200 profit for January—the first the company has enjoyed in 21 months.

New York City today arranged for a loan of $18,000,000 at 5¾ per cent on revenue bills due June 10 next. The borrowing was effected under the recent agreement with a group of New York City banks for a revolving fund of $151,000,000.

Reorganization plans for the Tri-Utilities Corporation will be delayed, it is believed in Wall street, in consequence of the removal from the Tri-Utilities group of the Federal Water Service Corporation through the sale of all the class B stock of the Federal company at auction to satisfy notes of the Tri-Utilities Corporation held by the Chase National Bank and Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co. These banking institutions are understood to have bought stock, giving them control of the Federal company.

Construction contracts awarded in the first fifteen days of February in the 37 States east of the Rockies amounted to $55,028,500, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation. Nonresidential building led among the three major construction classes with $21,857,800.

Pullman Car & Manufacturing Corporation has recalled about 400 employes to its Chicago shops to do the air reconditioning work ordered by several railroads.

New bond offerings dwindled this week, totaling $5,872,000, against $25,000,000 last week and $19,951,000 a year ago.

The St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad has been granted $3,000,000 of the $13,700,000 in loans it is seeking from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, it was learned today.

This loan will permit the road to meet its financial requirements until June 1. Renewal of the application for additional funds of $10,700,000 to meet the bond interest and maturities between June 1 and the end of the year is expected later.

Denver & Rio Grande Asks Delay on Cut-Off

Denver, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad today applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to delay construction of the Dotsero cut-off for one year and at the same time asked the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan of $4,000,000 to meet current needs of the present year. The Interstate Commerce Commission also was advised that the $18,000,000 Moffat Tunnel, which was completed only a few years ago, needs to be relined at a cost of $1,600,000 before it can be used for transcontinental traffic.

Inability of the D. & R. G. W. to finance the cut-off construction and the recent purchase of outstanding Denver & Salt Lake (Moffat) Road stock were given as the reasons for asking a year's extension. Under the commission's orders the road was required to begin the construction April 15 and to buy at not more than $155 a share all Moffat road stock by March 15.

CORD DENIES WAGE FIGHT WITH PILOTS

Defends Competence and Pay of Men on Century Air Lines.

(Associated Press.)

E. L. Cord, president of Century Airlines, Inc., which has been engaged for weeks in a wage dispute with pilots, said last night his flyers "are not underpaid and they are not incompetent."

In the first formal statement he has made on the disagreement Cord scored persons he said had given the impression that readjustment in pilots' compensation of the Middle Western lines reduces them to only $150 a month. He explained that figure is the minimum guarantee, even though a pilot does no flying during the month, and that the new wage basis enables him to earn $3 an hour for daylight and $5 for night flying when he works.

He estimated on the year-around average of 70 per cent night flying, weather permitting operations of schedules of up to 105 hours a month, the pilots could make $375, with an average of $300 a month or more.

Defending the ability of pilots on his lines, Cord said the Commerce Department had the entire responsibility for determining the competency of transport pilots on all airlines.

"We have no wage disputes with our pilots, who are daily operating our * * * planes * * *," he said. "They are the highest type of flying personnel and we feel that we have an obligation to them as their employers to correct the malicious propaganda which not only reflects upon the United States Department of Commerce and is therefore traitorous in nature, but is also an attempt to deprive these pilots from their means of livelihood."

St. Aloysius Will See "Sacred Story of Mass"

A special interpretation of "The Sacred Love Story of the Mass," a dramatic portrayal, will be presented tomorrow at the St. Aloysius Church, North Capitol and I streets, by the Rev. George A. Keith, whose collection of mass pictures have been taken from some of the greatest masterpieces of art.

Father Keith, in presenting the pictures, shifts the scenes constantly from the ancient to the modern, and with one transition goes back from the beginning of time to Abel's sacrifice of the lamb on the altar of God to the mass, the modern sacrifice. He presents the ceremony of the mass, showing that each movement of the priest has an important significance.

PUIG DENIES MEXICO 'BACKWARD NATION'

Asserts Selfishness of Upper Classes Alone Prevents Progress.

(Associated Press.)

Ambassador Puig of Mexico last night told a Brookings Institution audience that Mexico's contribution to human progress would be equal to that of any of the other nations if the individual and collective selfishness of the upper classes could be eradicated.

His remarks were made in connection with the showing by Frank Tannenbaum of a moving picture of rural life in Mexico. Puig referred to Tannenbaum, author of "The Mexican Agrarian Revolution," as one of the few foreigners who had truly interpreted the spirit of Mexico.

Dr. Puig combated the belief which he said he has found in the United States that Mexico was a backward nation as a result of the inferior racial quality of some of its ethnical elements. Admitting the country is in some respects "backward," Puig said the charge of inferiority as far as the Indian population is concerned is "a grave error."

He said an analysis of scientific facts indicated "that the Mexican people can and will contribute, in the same degree as any of the fully civilized nations, to the progress of humanity, if only the men directing its destinies are willing to perform their duty, and if only we succeed in eradicating the sole but very real flaw afflicting the upper or cultivated Mexican classes; that is, their individual and collective selfishness.

"Because the truth is this," he said: "The Mexican people, the Mexican Indian, the Mexican half-breed are not inferior ethical elements, but 'abandoned social groups,' and their abandon, perpetual and total with regard to the Indians and the great Mexican communities dwelling in the country, a criminal and systematic abandonment on the part of selfish government, from the Spanish conquest up to the governments emanating from the revolution of 1910, is the real and basic cause of the backwardness of Mexico, and is, as well, in a great proportion, the cause of the frequent internal commotions and the sufferings of every description endured by our country during its life as an independent nation."

He said Gen. Obregon's administration deserved the credit for having actually begun the task of educational redemption of Mexico's masses. In the rural educational centers today, Puig said, Mexico is trying to give her peasants not only a knowledge of reading and writing, but the principles of agriculture and industry. These schools, he said, were the true nuclei of social action.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 205

There were originally three towers built in 1912. One is 600 feet and two are 450 feet each. Since then two more have been added, each 200 feet tall. Time signals are broadcast 3 times out of the 24 hours to all parts of the world from these towers, also storm warnings and other data sent to ships of the United States Navy in every part of the globe.

When the project of erecting these towers was first considered, they were going to be placed at the U. S. Weather Bureau, at Twenty-first and M streets, but the close proximtiy of the Washington Monument made this place impracticable, so Arlington was selected.

SUICIDE THEORY HELD AS BODY OF WOMAN IS TAKEN FROM TUB

Wife of Army Mechanic Is Believed to Have Died From Poisoning.

DESPONDENCY RELATED IN NOTE LEFT TO MATE

Autopsy Will Be Held Today to Ascertain Cause of Victim's Death.

The body of Joan Murray, 22 years old, was found in the bathroom of her home at 1300 E street southeast, an apparent victim of poison, which police believe she took while despondent.

An autopsy is to be performed today at the District Morgue to discover the exact cause of death. Pills and a bottle containing fluid, which were found in the two-room apartment she rented from Irving Spencer, of the same address, are to be analyzed to determine whether either of these could have caused her death.

Apparently she had just finished polishing her nails and "making up" her face. On a chair in an adjoining room were rouge, lipstick, powder, mascara and other cosmetics. From her appearance she seemed to have completed her make-up and then moved to the bathroom.

Note Addressed to Husband.

A note found in an adjoining room, which was addressed to her husband, John, an Army mechanic attached to Bolling Field, bespoke her despondency and said she had "been in a daze for the past three days." From the note the police gathered she had been having marital difficulties.

Her body was found by Mrs. Hilda Spencer, wife of the lessor of the Murrays' rooms. It was face downward in the bathtub. With the exception of shoes she was fully dressed. It was thought at first that she had been shot because of a gash on her forehead, but this was caused by her head striking an enameled soap tray as she tumbled into the tub, police said.

For the past week, according to Detective Sergts. H. K. Wilson and James Kenney, Mrs. Murray had been separated from her husband, and a reconciliation attempt was made three days ago, but it failed. Since then, Mrs. Spencer told the detectives, Mrs. Murray had not left her rooms. The detectives reiterated the belief of Deputy Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald that she had taken poison and fallen into the tub.

Despondency Is Indicated.

The note found in the bedroom by the police was not in the nature of a suicide note but, Detective Sergt. Wilson said, it indicated her despondency. It read: "Jack. Your things are in that pasteboard box. Please leave the key and don't come back, as I have no money to pay the rent. And the furniture people are coming to take the furniture.

"You want me to leave you alone, I will, but you must help me. Some day you will realize what you have done. I tried to help you, but you are helpless. This time I shan't plead with you. You have been so unkind. I love you, Jack, with all my heart.

"Didn't I do everything in my power? But the other night, Sunday, a very queer feeling came over me. I still feel it. I am going around in a daze; but I hope you are happy. * * * Just do me one big favor and don't go where I might be, 'cause I'll fuss. Yours, Joan."

Big Drive for Jobs To Start Monday

350 Organizations Are Invited to Assist in District Move.

More than 350 Washington civic, military and other organizations will be invited to take part in a wholesale drive to create jobs for the unemployed at a meeting to be held Monday night at 8 o'clock in the United States Chamber of Commerce, under auspices of the Work Creation Committee.

Commissioner Reichelderfer will preside at the meeting. Joseph Tumulty, Col. E. G. Bliss, and E. C. Graham will be the speakers. Each will emphasize the importance of Washington organizations cooperating with the Work Creation Committee in order to hasten the return of normalcy of expenditures in the Capital.

Replies from the various organizations indicate that the work will go forward rapidly after a tentative program is adopted and Col. Bliss' committee functions with the Capital organizations toward a unified work creation plan.

Specialists Studying N'Gi, Resting in Oxygen Chamber, Believe Crisis Past and Gorilla Will Live

Underwood & Underwood.

Elaborate equipment, the greatest known to medical science, was rushed here yesterday to the aid of N'Gi, 6-year-old gorilla at the Zoo, stricken with pneumonia. The picture on the left shows part of the corps of trained specialists attempting to save the shaggy creature, as they watched his reaction after being placed in a huge oxygen chamber. Left is Morris Eckman, technician, and Dr. John Eckhardt, pediatrician. Dr. D. E. Buckingham, Washington veterinarian, is looking through the observation window. Dr. Buckingham is shown on the right as he examined N'Gi, crouching desperately ill on the floor of the chamber. Administering the oxygen, it is hoped, will bring speedy recovery.

Shaggy Little Jungle Creature Responds to Efforts of Veterinarian and Trained Technicians When Placed in Apparatus Brought From New York.

N'Gi is going to pull through!

Specialists and technicians, who have been constantly in attendance since the 6-year-old gorilla at the Zoo was stricken with pneumonia, last night indicated the crisis was over and that the shaggy simian now resting comfortably in a huge oxygen chamber imported from New York, will recover. It was at first feared that the attack of bronchial pneumonia would prove fatal.

N'Gi's reaction to the effects of the highly concentrated flow of oxygen brought a glow of hope to those in attendance. The greatest weapon against pneumonia known to medical science—the oxygen chamber—was rushed here yesterday from the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, New York City. With it came Morris Eckman and A. S. Byers, trained technicians.

The baby gorilla's condition was too critical to permit removal from its cage. While he remained curled up in one corner, covered with a heavy blanket, the big chamber was erected around him. Bars were sawed and holes were drilled, but N'Gi lay motionless, paying little attention to the strange happenings.

The two white-coated technicians completed their job, much to the displeasure of Jo-Jo, the chimpanzee in the next cage, who set up a continual rumpus, and after little N'Gi's chest had been rubbed with quinine ointment, the flow of oxygen was turned on.

The patient immediately showed signs of rallying and cast a thankful look at his friends through sad, watery eyes. He accepted one drink of whisky, administered as a heart stimulant, but declined a second, wiping his mouth with a bit of straw when it was offered.

Earlier in the day, William H. Blackburn, head keeper, tempted N'Gi with a box of strawberries. They were large and ripe. The gorilla looked, reached out an arm, but changed his mind. He looked at Keeper Blackburn and seemed to say: "A little later, perhaps, but please—not now."

Attempts to inject serum into his body were abandoned. Dr. John Eckhardt, pediatrician and Dr. D. E. Buckingham, veterinarian, who are attending N'Gi, declared he might become infuriated and the strain on his heart would kill him. He is a model patient if left alone, they said.

The air chamber, rushed here as a last effort to save the animal's life, has been used on humans many times at the New York institution. Five persons stricken with pneumonia have been saved with the same device.

The elaborate equipment consists of four large tanks of oxygen, which are replenished every 24 hours, and a huge fan to keep the warm air circulating within the chamber. The oxygen pressure last night registered 1,300 pounds.

N'Gi, whose father was shot to death by a party of explorers, was brought from his jungle home and since has been the chief attraction at the zoo.

Dr. William M. Mann, director of the zoo, declared that his telephone is ringing day and night with inquiries about N'Gi's condition.

THIRD MAN NAMED IN ROBBERY SERIES

Victims in 6 Recent Holdups Identify Companion of Former Policeman.

Victims in six recent holdups last night identified Bernard Downey, arrested on an anonymous tip Thursday night, as the man who accompanied Henry C. Fegan, former policeman, during the robberies. Fegan had previously been picked out while Edward Matthews, also arrested in connection with the robberies was named in two holdups.

Those singling out Downey at a lineup at police headquarters last night as the man who was with Fegan are:

Dr. W. C. Furr, proprietor of a drug store at Second and E streets northeast; Samuel Lieberman, a grocer, of 1300 South Capitol; Joseph A. Weedon, a bellboy at the Plaza Hotel; Louis Deckelbaum, a grocer of 1315 Fifth street northwest.

All three men were picked as participating in the robbery of the Tolman Laundry branch at 491 C street northwest last Saturday afternoon.

The robbery some weeks ago of David Landman at 1137 Four-and-One-Half street southwest was believed solved when the latter last night identified Downey as the lone bandit in that affair.

Silvio Daneri, son of a grocer at 114 Quincy street northeast, has previously picked Matthews and Fegan as the men who robbed him early this week, and police believe Downey waited outside for the pair.

Fegan, who grins at the identifications and readily admits his guilt, is said by police to have differed with Matthews in the division of the spoils of the robberies. Downey is believed by the authorities to have been the chief gainer. However, all that has been recovered is about $600 worth of jewelry taken during the Plaza Hotel robbery. This was found on Downey.

While police accused Downey of the unfair split and Fegan affirms their contention, the trio of holdup men appear to be on good terms. Last night at the lineup they laughed and talked together and lit cigarettes from a common match. Downey is a natty dresser, while Fegan and Matthews present a rough appearance.

Assailant of Taxi Driver Held Guilty

Sentence Not Yet Passed on Man Convicted in Six Minutes.

After only six minutes of deliberating, a jury in Justice James M. Proctor's court yesterday found Thurston Hunt, colored, guilty of charges of assault with a dangerous weapon and robbery. Sentence will be imposed later.

Hunt shot Vernon Renshaw, taxicab driver, in the back, while the cab driver was walking down an alley pursuant to an order from the colored man, Testimony was to the effect that Hunt took over Henshaw's cab and money at the point of a pistol, and then commanded him to "beat it."

As Renshaw started to walk away, he was shot through the back, and his spinal column was shattered. He is now a hopeless cripple, his legs having become paralyzed. Assistant United States Attorney John J. Sirica prosecuted Hunt.

Hungry Squirrel Brings Police Car

Foraging Rodent Causes Alarm in Military Road Home.

Suspicious noises in the cellar of the residence of James W. Jones, 3719 Military road northwest, caused occupants of the house yesterday morning to summon police in a hurry.

Police from the Eighth Precinct pulled up in a cloud of dust and rushed into the basement of the Jones home. A gray squirrel eyed them sleepily from his nesting place near the furnace and squeaked querulously. His message, the officers determined, was that he was cold and hungry and had no illegal intentions.

Informed of the identity of the intruder, the Jones household declined to prosecute and provided a breakfast of pecans for the morning caller.

Funds Held Secondary In Hospitalization Shift

Senator Royal S. Copeland said yesterday that funds "would be a matter of secondary importance" in working out his proposed reorganization of municipal hospital service. He will meet next week with hospital heads and the public welfare director in an effort to effect the reform.

The New York physician, who berated limited hospital emergency facilities brought to light in his personally conducted inquiry of the death of Joseph Sisk, said he will take the matter of funds up with the Senate District appropriations subcommittee, of which he is a member. He thinks an accident victim should not be transferred from one hospital to another according to his ability to pay.

Citizens' Body Asks Street Extensions

Junk-Yard Regulation Is Also Urged by Group in Howard Park.

Extension of several streets and an appeal for regulation of junk yards in the community were among the more important of a number of resolutions adopted Thursday night by the Howard Park Citizens Association meeting at the Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Eighth and Barry Place northwest.

Oakdale Place should be cut through to Second street northwest and Third street should be extended north to U street, in the opinion of the association. Protest also was voiced in a resolution against the transferring of children from the primary grades to the Business High School at Ninth and R streets northwest which will be turned over to colored students when the Roosevelt High School is opened next September.

Congress was asked in another measure to restore money to the District appropriation bill which was provided in budget figures for upkeep of the colored schools, but which has since been slashed from the bill.

FORBEARANCE HELD NEED IN FAMILY LIFE

Texas Bishop Departs for Home After Last Lenten Sermon Here.

Forbearance and tolerance as a means to a happy family life was the theme of the sermon delivered by the Right Rev. Clinton S. Quin, Bishop of Texas, from the pulpit of the Church of the Epiphany at the noonday Lent services, prior to his departure for his home in Houston, Tex., yesterday.

"No family life can be happy where there is lacking forbearance, tolerance and forgiveness," the bishop said. "Thy kingdom can not come and will not come without lending yourselves to its coming. We stop God's answer to prayer by our own noncooperation. We have no right to expect forgiveness until we are ready to bestow forgiveness.

"The human family always required some method by which it could relieve itself of a sense of guilt. In primitive man this tendency took the nature of weird and mysterious rites and an offering of gifts to appease a deity which they feared. Christ taught us to approach God as a father, one who loves us, forgives us and delivers us from sin, but the only way to relieve ourselves of a sense of guilt is to trust God, believe in Him and to lend ourselves to Him in asking forgiveness.

"Time, a change of scene or debauchery can not relieve us of the burden of a guilty conscience. No man can render his best service to himself, to God or to society who goes about with an unforgiven fault. Conscientious supplication to God and a true faith in Him bring forgiveness. God alone can forgive."

Youth, 19, Arrested In 'Students' Gaming

A detail from the headquarters special squad last night swooped down on a delicatessen store at 812 Thirteenth street northwest and arrested the son of the proprietor on a charge of permitting gaming after a number of young men, said to be students of a nearby school, were caught in the act of wagering on scores of a slot machine.

Amen Hillow, 19, who gave his address as the store, was the man charged. Eight young men were brought to the First Precinct Station and questioned. They were released after they had agreed to appear in Police Court this morning as Government witnesses. The raid was made after several complaints were received at headquarters.

Bride Taken by Leader Of Volunteers of America

A romance of social service work was revealed last night with the announcement that Capt. Arthur E. Wise, regional commander of the Volunteers of America, and Margaret C. Kelly, of a family long identified with that welfare organization, had been married Wednesday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Maj. William Kelly, commander of the Volunteers in Richmond, Va. For several years she has been active in the work of the Volunteers as an assistant to her father.

The couple met when their fathers were assigned to volunteer posts on the Pacific Coast. Recently Capt. Wise succeeded his father, Lieut. Col. Frank H. Wise, in command here, and when Miss Kelly came to Washington early this week from Richmond they decided not to wait for the summer wedding they had planned.

A brother, Capt. Paul Kelly, who gave the bride away, is associated with Capt. Wise and is in charge of the Relief Mission of the Volunteers.

The couple will make their home at 200 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

BANK TELLER GIVES CASH TO HOLDUPMAN ON THREAT OF BLAST

Lone Invader Escapes With $100 From Franklin National Firm.

HE DISPLAYS 'EXPLOSIVE' AFTER WARNING IN NOTE

Others in Depository Are Unaware of Theft; Hunt Is Started.

Rather than endanger the lives of fellow employes and customers in the bank, William Sinclair, teller, handed a colored man a $100 bill when he entered the Franklin National Bank yesterday afternoon and demanded money, threatening to blow up the building with a bottle of nitroglycerin if his demand were not complied with.

Police say the man entered the bank shortly before noon and stood in the lobby about twenty minutes. He then walked up to the paying teller, showing him the note and revealing a small bottle filled with fluid. "I have enough nitroglycerin to blow up the whole bank, and if you don't give me the money we will all die together," the note read in part.

Escapes With $100.

Fearing to make any outcry or to put up a struggle, Sinclair, who is 20 years old and lives at 3020 Dent place northwest, handed the man a $100 bill which he had in his hand.

The man ran from the bank, passing Vice President Thomas P. Hickman, who was in charge of the bank at the time and who was standing on the sidewalk in front of the bank, being unaware of any disturbance.

The bank employes and a customer, who were in the bank at the time, had no suspicion of anything being wrong. An armed guard was in another part of the building at the time.

Search Is Started.

A lookout for the holdup man was immediately broadcast by the police, who were given a description of him by Sinclair. He was described as 25 years old, having light brown skin, 5 foot 10 inches in height, and weighing 145 pounds. He was well dressed, being clad in a blue suit and dark tie. He had no hat or overcoat.

The holdup was first reported to Policeman J. E. Yost, of the First Precinct, who took Sinclair to headquarters, where he described the holdup to Inspector Frank S. W. Burke.

All precincts have been notified to conduct an intensive search for the man, and Detectives Michael Dowd, H. E. Brodie and Leo Murray were assigned to the case.

Woman and 2 Men Loot Another Store

Five Hams Is Plunder by Supposed Holdups of Thursday Night.

A woman and two men robbed a grocery store at 703 Fifth street northwest last night and escaped with a small quantity of loot when they were seen by a passerby who called police. Police believe they are the same trio that held up a clothing store at 2452 Eighteenth street northwest Thursday and got away with $130 in cash.

R. G. Justice, of 730 Sixth street northwest, was parking his car near the store when he saw a man standing at the entrance to an alley nearby. He looked down the alley and saw another man standing at the rear of the store. The first man gave a signal, he said, and then disappeared down the alley, as the woman appeared from the shadows near the store.

Justice ran to the corner of Fifth and G streets and summoned Private R. S. Turner, of the Traffic Bureau, directing traffic there. They halted Carl Winkler, of 710 Sixth street northwest, who was driving by. When they drove up the alley the trio had disappeared. Entrance to the store was gained by digging through a plaster wall. The manager of the store, after a hasty check-up, said the only things missing were five hams.

Hoover's First 1932 Veto Hits District Man

A bill which would have accorded a former soldier of the Indian Wars, Alexander M. Proctor, of 509 Rock Creek Church road, a pension of $50 a month, was vetoed yesterday as President Hoover exercised his veto powers for the first time this session of Congress. President Hoover vetoed the bill on the ground that it did not accomplish the purpose sought by Mr. Proctor.

Mr. Proctor, who is now 76 years of age, enlisted in 1875, when he was 20 years old. He gave his age as 21. When this was called to the attention of the War Department, he was dismissed "without honor." He appealed for a correction of his military record, saying it had been a source of "humiliation and chagrin" to him.

In vetoing the bill, President Hoover said the measure would not change the War Department's record, but would entitle Proctor to a pension at the maximum rate of $50 a month.

"The relief appealed for by Mr. Proctor is for a change in his military record for an honorable discharge. This the bill does not accomplish. I am assured that Mr. Proctor neither desires nor needs a pension. Therefore I am returning the bill without my approval," the President said in his message.

NEW GAS SCHEDULES FORECAST IN SPRING

P. U. C. Orders Survey That May Result in Further Readjustments.

Further readjustments in the house heating, commercial and industrial gas schedules may be made this spring as a result of a survey ordered yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission in announcing formally the new rates of the Washington Gas Light Co. and the Georgetown Gas Light Co.

This survey was ordered so that commercial customers particularly could benefit by selecting the schedule that most economically meets their needs. The effective date of the commercial schedules C and D were consequently postponed until April 1, whereas the domestic rates are operative on March 1.

$241,341 Saving Forecast.

The commission estimates that a total of $241,341 will be saved 88,674 gas customers in Washington during a year under the new rates. Of this amount the 83,313 domestic consumers will save $134,434. As the minimum rate of $1 remains the same this saving will be divided between the two other blocks as follows: Users of between 1,000 and 3,000 cubic feet a month, numbering 41,795, will save $22,487, while all using in excess of 3,000 feet, numbering 38,827 will save $107,139 on respective rates of 90 and 85 cents per 1,000 feet.

The new commercial and industrial schedules will save 5,377 consumers $103,357.

Other changes made by the commission are the elimination of the $4 minimum bill from Schedule B, the house-heating schedule, during the five months of May to September, inclusive, together with the simplification of the rate and the elimination of the $1.50 fee now charged for terminating service before the expiration of a year's contract. This latter saves $10,000 to consumers.

Commercial and Industrial.

The new commercial and industrial schedules are as follows:

Schedule C—Minimum bill, 75 cents; first 25,000 feet, 90 cents per 1,000; next 75,000 at 85 cents; all gas consumed in excess of 100,000 cubic feet at 80 cents.

Schedule D—First 50 cubic feet per foot of maximum hourly rate of use at 92 cents per 1,000; for gas in excess of above to complete the total monthly consumption or to make a total of 400,000 cubic feet in any one month at 77 cents per 1,000; for the gas in excess of both the above blocks either to complete the total monthly consumption or to make a total of 1,000,000 cubic feet in any month at 65 cents per 1,000; for the next 1,000,000 cubic feet at 50 cents per 1,000; for all in excess of 2,000,000 cubic feet at 40 cents per 1,000.

Youth in Garage Holdup Gets 7-Year Jail Sentence

Three 7-year sentences, all of them to run concurrently, were given William C. Caddes, a youth from Cleveland, Ohio, yesterday when he was brought up before Justice F. D. Letts to receive sentence on charges of assault with intent to rob, assault with a dangerous weapon, and assault to kill.

Caddes is the youth who went into the Emerson and Orme garage, at Seventeenth and M streets northwest, on December 11, robbed the cashier of $98 at the point of a pistol, and then attempted to shoot his way to freedom when he was cornered two blocks away. He shot Winifred E. Miller in the leg as Miller was about to grab him and hold him for the police.

AMENDED FIREARMS BILL ADVANCES IN CONGRESS JOURNEY

Control Measure Approved by the House District Subcommittee.

TEAR GAS IS EXEMPTED FROM ITS PROVISIONS

Adventist and Antiblue Law Groups Protest Sunday Closing.

Modified slightly, but still drastic enough to place broad restrictions on sale and possession of firearms in the District, an amended firearms control bill was approved yesterday by the House District judiciary subcommittee, and favorably considered by the Senate District committee.

The bill was revised by both groups so as to remove requirements that purchasers of firearms submit to fingerprinting, and to exempt tear gas from the list of dangerous weapons banned under the measure. The Senate committee, however, referred the bill to the corporation counsel with instructions to draft the amendments.

Chairman Arthur Capper was instructed to make a personal poll of his committee on Senator Royal S. Copeland's bill to close all barber shops in the District Sundays. Seventh Day Adventists and antiblue law organizations appeared against the measure at extensive hearings.

Credit Union Bill Delayed.

The House District judiciary subcommittee deferred action on the bill to authorize incorporation of credit unions in the District, after representatives of the District Bankers Association and the Deputy Comptroller of the Currency vigorously objected to the measure.

Removal of fingerprinting requirements from the firearms bill was favored before the Senate District committee by Charles V. Imlay, vice president of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

He said the fingerprint provision would make the bill "so rigid as to bring about an era of pistol bootlegging."

"The bill should be drastic enough to regulate sales without imposing such undue hardships on the housekeeper as would make him a lawbreaker by its terms," he said.

Tear Gas Exempted.

Milton A. Record, executive vice president of the National Rifle Association, suggested that "tear gas" be exempted from the provisions of the bill. He said tear gas is a defensive weapon which can not be used successfully in offensive lawbreaking. Robert F. Jones, representing Federal laboratories, exhibited a "tear gas billy" which he said is being widely used by watchmen.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Vernon West said the amendments were acceptable to his office.

The Senate committee approved Senator William H. King's bill to increase the capitalization of the Firemen's Insurance Co. of Washington and Georgetown to $1,000,000, divided into 50,000 shares of $20 par value each. The bill would enlarge its field of insurance activity.

Accuser of Police Is Grilled at Trial

Wife of Alleged Victim of Extortion by Four Placed on Stand.

Further testimony in the trial of four Fourth Precinct policemen on charges of extortion was heard yesterday by the Police Trial Board. Those accused are Privates E. W. Gore, F. J. Hospidor, F. R. Gue and O. L. Fisher.

The wife of Frank Adams, colored, was on the stand a good part of the day. Adams is the man from whom the men are said to have accepted money in exchange for a promise to protect him from arrest on bootlegging charges. She was questioned at length by Defense Attorney James O'Shea.

During yesterday's session a number of verbal tilts took place between Defense Counsel O'Shea and William Leahy and Corporation Counsel Robert E. Lynch, prosecutor. The hearing was continued until today.

Mission Pay Scale Protested by Labor

Wages to Be Paid Workers on Religious Building Called Menace.

Declaring the wage scale proposed for building trades workers on the new Gospel Mission to be located at 810-16 Fifth street northwest a distinct menace to organized labor in the District, labor representatives yesterday protested the lowered wage proposed for the laborers on the new building in a conference with Col. Peter M. Anderson, architect and contractor, who will erect the building.

The Gospel Mission wage scale ranges from 28½ cents per hour for unskilled laborers to 70 cents for skilled mechanics. The union wage scale in the District ranges from 80 cents per hour for laborers to $1.70 per hour for skilled mechanics. It is proposed by Col. Anderson that the difference between the amount actually paid the workers on the mission job and the union scale represent labor's contribution toward the cost of the building.

"We are engaged in a humanitarian project," Col. Anderson said. "We want to give a living wage to the man now out of employment who would rather work at his trade than be an object of charity. From the number of applications received and from the pitiable living conditions they depict among Washington's laborers, there is no question of the popularity of the plan among Washington's unemployed."

Dr. Simon Sees Bicentennial Stirring Nation's Patriotism

The Bicentennial celebration will be a success if it makes the citizens of the Nation aware of their patriotic duty, politically and morally, Dr. Abram Simon said last night at the service of the Eighth Street Temple of the Washington Hebrew Congregation.

"If Washington Were Alive" was the subject of the rabbi's address. "Washington is alive," he said. "The spirit of Washington lives. There is more of Washington in the world today than when he lived. The thought of parts of the world where freedom is seeking a voice is dominated by the spirit of Washington.

"In Egypt, India and Palestine he lives more than ever before. Where there is love of country, patriotism and duty, there Washington lives."

Dr. Simon said there are two kinds of patriotism—as a policy and as a principle. He urged that the real patriotism of principle should not be a Fourth of July variety, but should continue through every day as religion.

"I hope that out of this celebration will come a Washington-conscious America, where all will feel that he is with us for a nobler Nation," he said.
